TRAIN PLUNGES INTO A STREAM IN KANSAS

Helpless Passengers Drown When Coach is Submerged in Creek-- Fifteen Dead and Forty Injured.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 16.—At least fifteen persons were killed and many were injured today when motor train No. 579 on the Union Pacific railroad plunged down an embankment near Randolph, Kas.

A washout caused the accident. One of the cars on the train was submerged in Fancy creek, a local stream, and most of the dead were drowned.

This information came to the Union Pacific offices in Kansas City today. The train, which carried two cars, left Manhattan early this morning for Marysville. It carried about seventy-six passengers.

A three-inch rain fell in the vicinity yesterday. The accident occurred near the approach to the bridge over Fancy creek, where the track had been washed away. Both cars plunged down the high embankment, the first car burying itself deep in the stream bed.

Teachers Are Victims.
Railroad officials said the train usually carried many traveling men. Today it had as passengers when it left Manhattan a delegation of young women school teachers en route to the Riley county teachers' convention which was to have opened at Randolph today. The accident occurred at 7:30 o'clock this morning. Dr. Louis Atwood, a Topeka physician, was among those killed.

Four Bodies Recovered.
At noon, according to a message from the scene, four bodies had been recovered. Work of rescue then was abandoned until wrecking equipment could lift the coach out of the water. Rescuers had been unable to get into the forward compartment.

It was there the greatest loss of life was believed to have occurred. Dr. Atwood and Alma K. Jellin, of Garrison, Kas., were the only identified dead up to noon. At that hour it was estimated forty persons had been injured.

Abutment Washed Away.
According to a message from Randolph the wreck was caused by the washing out of the abutment of the bridge across Fancy creek. As a result of heavy rains last night the stream was running bank full. The bridge itself did not give way, but when the heavy car struck the embankment it sank and down into nine feet of water and two or three feet of mud. The car stands almost perpendicular. There were two cars to the train but the trailer broke loose and remained standing on the track.

Conductor W. E. Knutson, of Manhattan, estimated this afternoon that fifteen persons had been killed. He based his estimate on a count of his tickets. The exact number of victims, he said, could not be determined until all the bodies had been removed from the immersed car.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 16.—Reports received by Union Pacific officials here said that one car on the Pacific motor train which was wrecked near Randolph Kan., early today, contained seventy-two passengers, sixty of whom were drowned when the car went through a bridge.

FAVORS PROHIBITION AND SUFFRAGE AT 101

Rome, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Orville S. Dorman, 101 years old, went to the polling place today and registered. He will vote for prohibition and woman suffrage.

FATALITY PREYED ON AUTO DRIVER'S MIND

Rochester Man Comes in and Admits His Car Killed Logansport Man.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 16.—Frank Stimson, an automobile race driver, of Rochester, Ind., came to this city today and confessed that it was his car which ran down and fatally wounded Leopold Vanser, a farmer, near here last Sunday. Stimson was in a highly nervous state and said the accident had preyed upon his mind until he decided to give himself up.

It was said the authorities had no clue to the identity of the machine which caused Vanser's death until Stimson appeared. Stimson said he was returning from this city to Rochester after the ball game here last Sunday with a number of friends when his machine struck the man. He said he turned out to avoid another automobile and did not see Vanser until just before the fender struck him.

MAKES WILLOW VALUABLE.
Demand for Artificial Limbs Puts Up Price of Timber.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 16.—As a result of the big contracts for artificial limbs placed in this country by the allies, acres of yellow willow in this section have become valuable, while heretofore not a dollar had been realized for the wood.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

ALL IN AGREEMENT ON CARRANZA RECOGNITION

Washington, Oct. 16.—Favorable responses were received today from all the governments participating in the conference which decided to recognize General Carranza. Secretary Lansing has called a meeting of the conferees for next Monday to arrange the form of recognition.

Argentina, Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala replied yesterday. Today favorable word came from Brazil and Chile.

WILSON AND HIS FIANCEE OFF ON LONG AUTO TRIP

Washington, Oct. 16.—President Wilson, with his fiancée, Mrs. Norman Galt, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, and the Misses Lucy and Mary Smith, of New Orleans, his cousins, motored today to Harpers Ferry, Va. They took an early start for the trip which is about two hundred miles.

Admit Forgery But Deny Federal Law Violation

A new point was raised Saturday morning by Attorney Frank Enrick, representing Charles Moore and Robert Jones, the two negroes charged with violation of the United States statute regulating the sale of cocaine and other narcotics, at the preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner T. J. Logan in the federal court. The two defendants admitted forging the name of Dr. Dean Metcalf to secure drugs at the Christen Brothers' drug store, but their attorney declared that inasmuch as they used the drug themselves and did not sell or distribute as the law specifies, they cannot be held for violating the anti-narcotic law passed by congress last December. Commissioner Logan continued the hearing.

Unusual interest is being taken in these cases for the reason that they are the first to be tried in Indiana since the new law went into effect. District Attorney Frank Dailey was unable to be present, and was represented in court by his assistant, Milton W. Mangus. Williams Bound Over.
Lester H. Williams, 17 years old, of Lagrange, charged with stealing a package containing $59 from the Adams Express company at Lagrange some months ago, was bound over to the federal court under bond of $500, which was immediately furnished. Williams was represented in court by Judge John W. Hane, of Lagrange. A. D. Brosius, of Columbus, Ohio, superintendent of the Adams Express company for this district, was one of the principal witnesses at the hearing. The package containing the money alleged to have been stolen by Williams was being shipped from Columbus to Howard, Ind., to George C. ...

CLEAN-UP DAY IS CELEBRATED AT LINCOLN SCHOOL.

RUSSIA WILL NOW FOLLOW

Formal Declaration of War Against Bulgaria Coming Soon.

AWAITS RESPONSE FROM HER ALLIES

German Armies Said to Have Orders to Take Dvinsk at Any Cost.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Russia has not formally declared war on Bulgaria but regards herself in a state of war with that country dating from the time Bulgaria is asserted to have attacked Serbia. The foreign office at Petrograd issued a statement to this effect today adding that the formal declaration waited conclusion of an exchange of telegrams between Russia and her allies.

A special dispatch to Cologne from Athens asserts that the Russian and Italian ministers are preparing to leave Greece.

Russian military officials declare they have learned that German orders are that Dvinsk must be taken at any cost. The Petrograd dispatch carries this statement adding that the Russian defense of the city is holding firm under attacks of the utmost impetuosity covered by terrific artillery fire.

A German warship has captured the cotton laden Norwegian steamer Tyr, bound from a Norwegian to a Danish port, a Stockholm dispatch says. The capture was effected in the Kattegat, between the Danish and Swedish coasts.

Hard fighting has been in progress on the Lorraine front where the French declare they have repulsed several attacks by the Germans on trenches which French troops captured yesterday. Repulse of a strong German attack between the Linge and the Schatzmannel in the Vosges also is reported by the Paris war office.

Athens dispatches say 40,000 Bulgarian troops are reported to be at the Greek border.

SEEK A MYSTERIOUS BLONDE NAMED HAZEL

Murdered Chicago Jeweler

Paid Lot of Attention to Married Women.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A mysterious blonde woman named Hazel is believed by the police to have had something to do with the murder of Harry Phillips, a west side jeweler, whose body was found last night lying at the foot of a flight of steps in the building where he had bachelor apartments. A letter in the hands of the police addressed to Phillips and signed Hazel intimated the writer had a husband named Frank, of whom Phillips might well beware.

Morris Plonsky, step-brother of Phillips, told the police Phillips "paid a lot of attention to married women and was probably killed by some jealous husband or suitor." Phillips is said to have been seen with the woman called Hazel shortly before his death.

Roy Atkinson, elevator boy of the apartments, said he heard a noise in Phillips' rooms last night but thought nothing of it as Phillips often had parties. Two of the eight persons held by the police in connection with their investigation have the first name Hazel.

BIG LOAN CONTRACT SIGNED.

Foreign Commissioners and Morgan Affix Their Signatures.

New York, Oct. 16.—The $500,000,000 Anglo-French credit loan contract was signed late yesterday. Three words, "Reading of Erlagh," from a pen in the hand of Lord Reading, chairman of the Anglo-French commission, bound the British empire to its terms.

France was bound by the signatures of Octave Homberg and Ernest Mallet, her representatives on the commission. Last of all J. P. Morgan affixed his name in behalf of the American syndicate of underwriters. Immediately thereafter four witnesses attested the signatures, among them being Basil B. Blackett, secretary of the commission. The other three were American lawyers who assisted in drawing up the document.

As many prominent bankers as could be crowded into the board room in the Morgan banking house looked on.

BIG JITNEYS NOW THE TALK

WILL REPORT TO CARMEN NEXT WEEK

Report That Several Busses Are Owned by Traction Company Denied.

A representative of the Denby Motor Truck company, of Detroit, Mich., is in the city investigating the advisability of a complete jitney bus service in Fort Wayne. He will make a report to the car men the forepart of the week.

The cars that the Denby company proposes to bring to Fort Wayne are large enough to accommodate twenty-five to thirty people comfortably. Several other propositions are under consideration by the car men.

A meeting of the jitney drivers' union will be held Monday evening, at which time action will be taken regarding the non-union jitneys that have been placed in service during the strike. The union drivers also feel that they should be given the preference in the organization of a company, such as has been proposed by the Federation of Labor. This matter will be threshed out Monday evening.

The charge is also made that many of the jitneys now in service on the streets of Fort Wayne are being operated by the traction company in an effort to discourage the other jitney drivers. A thorough investigation was ordered Saturday by the carmen and if the report is found to be true the numbers of these cars will be published broadcast. Traction officials deny most emphatically that they have any jitneys in service.

Large Auto Truck.
An automobile truck large enough to accommodate between twenty-five and thirty people made its appearance on the streets Friday and has been placed in service on the South Wayne street line. The car was brought here from Wabash. Another car equally as large has been leased from the Denby Motor Truck company, of Detroit, and will be put in service in a few days.

Ross F. Lockridge, secretary of the Citizens' League of Indiana, was one of the speakers at the meeting of the carmen.

GOVERNOR RALSTON INVITED TO SPEAK

New Lincoln School Building to Be Dedicated November 5.

Governor Samuel M. Ralston will probably be here on Nov. 5 to assist in the dedication of the new Lincoln school building in Washington township. An invitation was extended to the governor Saturday, and his acceptance is confidently expected.

Great preparations are being made for the dedication of the new building and many other prominent speakers besides the governor will be here to participate in the exercises. While the program is not completed it is certain that Charles A. Greathouse, superintendent of public instruction of Indiana, and Lee L. Driver, superintendent of the schools of Randolph county, will be here.

Trustee Leonard Stolte, of Washington township, is desirous of making the dedication of the building a county affair to which every citizen is cordially invited to attend. It may be that County Superintendent D. O. McComb will ask every school in the county be closed for part of the day so that the children and teachers may have an opportunity to attend.

JUSTICE DONE, SAYS VICTIM OF ASSAULT

Newport, Ky., Oct. 16.—After deliberating one hour and twenty-five minutes a jury in Campbell county returned a verdict early today, finding Harry Garrison, 18 years old, a negro, guilty of having attacked Elizabeth White Crowder and fixed the penalty at death. Mrs. Crowder, who lives at Onowata, near the eastern line of Campbell county, was attacked at her home on July 28 last. When the foreman of the jury reported the verdict Mrs. Crowder exclaimed, "Justice has been done."

This is the first time that the death penalty has been ordered in Campbell county since Scott Jackson and Alonzo Whitin, both white, the murderers of Pearl Bryan whose headless body was found, were given that sentence.

FLEMING A TRUSTEE OF NATIONAL BREWERS

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 16.—Officers as follows were elected by the United States Brewers' association yesterday: President, Gustave Pabst, Milwaukee; first vice president, Louis Schram, Brooklyn; second vice president, August Fitzer, Duluth; third vice president, John Gardiner, Philadelphia; Julius Stroth, Detroit; William J. Lemp, St. Louis; Frank Fehr, Louisville; Gustave L. Becker, Ogden; Stephen B. Fleming, Indianapolis, and Simon Fishel, Cleveland, were elected trustees for three years. The convention did not select the city for the next convention, but left the choice to the trustees. The trustees will offer $5,000 as prizes for the best essays on and the most feasible plan for a practical solution of the saloon problem.

WERE WED IN MICHIGAN CITY

GIRL IS BRIDE OF CLEVER SHARPER

Mrs. Youse Home and Almost Prostrated by Anxiety for Daughter.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Luther Warne, the man wanted in Fort Wayne as Charles L. Warne, alleged swindler and check artist, and Miss Beulah Youse, of that city, were married here Friday morning at the residence of Dr. Phillipson by Rev. O. L. Keplinger, chaplain of the Indiana penitentiary.

None of the local ministers could be found for the hasty ceremony that was desired and Chaplain Keplinger was procured from the prison.

Mrs. Rebecca Youse, mother of the young bride, was present at the ceremony.

Warne made a pretense of being wealthy and related to Chaplain Keplinger that it was his intention of making Michigan City his future home.

Soon after the ceremony the bridal party left the city and it is not known where they have gone.

MRS. YOUSE HOME AND ANXIOUS.
Wants to Hear from Daughter Beulah—Warne's Arrest Expected.

At her humble boarding house, 250 West Main street, Mrs. Rebecca Youse is now almost prostrated by anxiety over the fate of her daughter Beulah, who was married in Michigan City, Thursday morning by Chaplain O. L. Keplinger, of the Indiana state prison. Her confidence in Warne has been shattered and she now fears that the worst said of him may be true. She awaits with deep anguish the promised word from her daughter.

Mrs. Youse returned at 8:45 o'clock Friday evening over the Pennsylvania railroad, having left her daughter, Beulah, and Warne at the railway station in Gary, Ind., to which place the party went after the marriage ceremony in Michigan City.

10,000 MARCHERS IN A SUFFRAGE PARADE

Thirty Bands to Help Along
Votes for Women.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16.—Advocates of the woman suffrage amendment to be voted on in Massachusetts in November were astir early today with final preparations for a spectacular "victory" parade this afternoon, in which 10,000 marchers, according to leaders, were to be in line. Thirty bands were engaged and facing Boston common there had been erected a reviewing stand to be occupied by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, president of the Massachusetts Suffrage association and others prominently identified with the cause.

A counter demonstration was planned by leaders of the anti-suffrage movement. Along the line of march scores of houses had been decorated in red, the anti-suffrage color. Red is supposed to indicate their opposition to votes for women. Strict orders had been issued, however, that the suffragist paraders were not to be annoyed, the "red silent" plan of the anti being regarded by them as the more effective demonstration.

COUNT SOUGHT AS SPY WITH U. S. FORT PLANS

New York, Oct. 16.—With the indictment today of Max Lynar, also known as Count Max Lynar Loudon, on a charge of bigamy, United States secret service agents began an investigation of the recent alleged activities of a man who under the name of Lynar is said to have done confidential work in this country last June and July on behalf of the Germans and Austrian governments.

Their investigation embraced a report that detailed plans and sketches of certain fortifications around New York harbor had been sent to Berlin by two secret messengers aboard a steamship which sailed from this port for Rotterdam during July. This steamship was searched at Falmouth, England, it was reported, for the messengers, whose presence aboard had been cabled to the British admiralty, but they were not found.

CALLS HUSBAND BUT FINDS HIM A CORPSE

Going to his room at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon to call him for supper, Mrs. Gabe found that her husband, Joseph Gabe, of New Haven, was a corpse. Mr. Gabe was a well known resident of New Haven and was employed at the Sperry handle factory and was working nights. Death is thought to have been due to a stroke of apoplexy.

He returned home from work early Friday morning and went to bed as usual. Members of the family thought that he was sleeping rather late but did not attempt to arouse him until supper time. Mrs. Gabe went to his room to awaken him and found him dead.

Coroner Kruse went to New Haven Friday evening to conduct an investigation and held an inquest Saturday. The deceased is survived by the widow, three sons and one daughter.

MANY SPEAKERS AT CAMPFIRE MEETING

Members of Henry W. Lawton camp, No. 25, United Spanish War Veterans, enjoyed a campfire meeting and smoker at their hall Friday evening. An address of welcome was delivered by Commander John G. B. Jones. Other speakers were City Judge H. W. Waveland Kerr, Commander D. L. Reber, of Lawton-Wayne post, G. A. R., W. B. Donaldson, of the same post; Captain T. W. Blair, Comrades A. G. Hamm, of Marlon, and J. A. Riggs, of Culver; William Hagerty, Milo D. Husselman, of Butler; E. K. Cotton, of Chubbuck, and others. John H. Johnson, company G, Twenty-ninth United States infantry, deputy auditor of Allen county, who served three years in the Philippine islands, was obligated.

Wabash Machinist C. A. Bruner was called to Antwerp yesterday by the illness of a relative.

RUMORED DEATH OF VILLA UNCONFIRMED

Story That Chieftain Had Been Put to
is Brought to El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 16.—Reports current here for twelve hours that Gen. Francisco Villa, chief of the convention forces in Mexico, had been arrested by his own men at Casas Grandes, convicted and put to death, could not be confirmed here today. Messages from Gen. Villa, in his private code, were received at Juarez at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The messages related to business with his representatives in Juarez.

The report that Gen. Rodolfo Fierro was dead, received last night, came over the military wires from Casas Grandes. It stated that Fierro had been drowned while fording the river.

A Mexican passenger from Casas Grandes, arriving Thursday night, was said to have brought the first word of Villa's death, but his story became public only late yesterday, when it received a partial confirmation from an American arrival, who said he had been so informed by a railroad employee.

According to the story Villa was killed in a fight when dissatisfaction broke out in the Villa faction. Another story says that he was being tried by a court martial and that the trial was still in progress when the bearer left Casas Grandes. Division in the army resulted, it was said, approximately 7,000 of the 9,000 troops revolting. In a fight that followed, the Mexican said, Villa suffered mortal wounds. The exact nature of conditions there could not be learned as residents had feared to cross the international bridge. A crowd of persons gathered at the river last night, but little information filtered through.

Removes Notable Leader.
The death of Gen. Fierro, reported last night from Casas Grandes, Mexico, removes from the Villa campaign one of its most notable leaders.

Fierro sprang into prominence at the time of the death of Wm. Benton, a British subject at Juarez, two years ago. Benton's death, which never has been satisfactorily explained, has been laid to Fierro, then Villa's body guard.

During one of Villa's critical battles Fierro in the face of a deadly fire uncoupled a troop train, preventing arrival of reinforcements. This deed was said to have won him his generalship. Later Fierro became notorious as an executioner. One of his exploits, as reported from the battlefield, was the shooting of more than three hundred prisoners. He is reported to have killed them by forming them in a row and as rapidly as his aid could feed his gun, shooting them. However, the story is discredited here. It was hinted that Fierro was the victim of a conspiracy.

It was reported that a plot existed to remove both he and Gen. Urbana from the Villa ranks. Gen. Robles of the Carranza forces, it was said, had refused to take over the Villa army while Urbana and Fierro lived.

GREETING FOR CARRANZA.

Monterrey, Mex., Oct. 16.—This city, capital and metropolis of the state of Nuevo Leon, greeted Gen. Carranza, who with a large party of military and political leaders is making a tour of northern Mexico. Carranza was entertained by the civil authorities. An open air carnival was given here tonight in his honor. Gen. Carranza will visit Saltillo before moving west to Torreon.

LUECKE ENTERTAINS AUTO CLUB OFFICERS

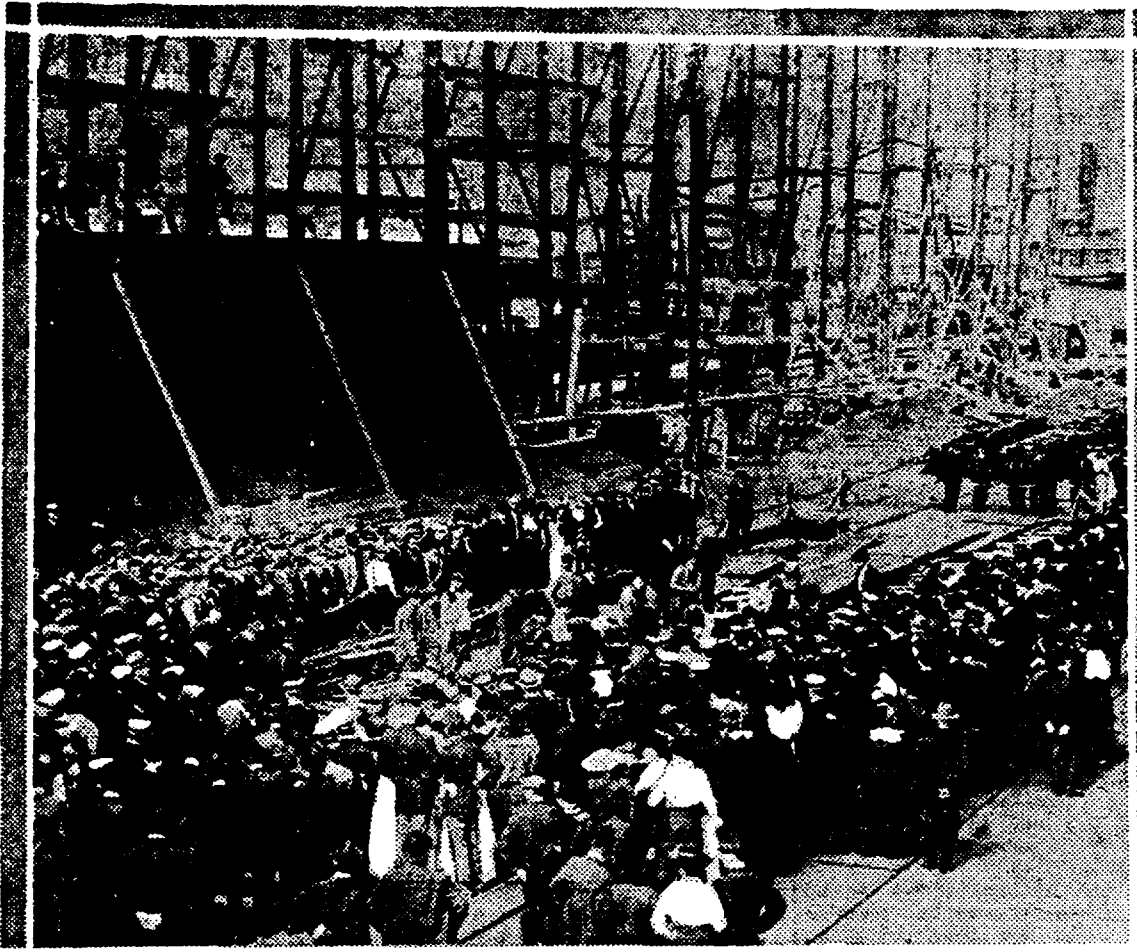

President Martin H. Luecke entertained at luncheon Friday at the Commercial club the officers and directors of the Allen County Automobile association. The feature of the meeting was an address by M. W. Noble, representing the Honorable State Automobile association, urging the members of the local association to join in the movement to effect reforms that are advocated by motorists. Those at the luncheon were: William M. Griffin, Van B. Perrine, Postmaster E. C. Miller, Charles L. Biedervolf, J. Herman Bueter, Frank Bohm, Dr. E. W. Dodge, A. L. Randall, Dr. E. A. HARD FIGHTING ON FRONT IN LORRAINE

Paris, Oct. 16.—French forces have repulsed several counter attacks in the Lorraine district against trenches occupied by them yesterday, according to the official statement issued by the French war office today. The text of the communication follows:

"We repulsed last night in Lorraine several counter attacks against the trenches which we occupied yesterday to the north of Reillon. In the course of these engagements we took 100 prisoners."

"In the Vosges the enemy undertook, shortly after midnight, an attack in force between the Lunge and the Schatzmann. This was preceded by a severe bombardment and accompanied by a certain fire directed at our second lines and our communicating trenches. This attack was completely repulsed by us."

TERRIFIC ATTACK ON BRIDGE.

Forty thousand Bulgarian Troops Assault Serbian Point.

Athens, Oct. 15.—(Via Paris, Oct. 16.)—Forty thousand Bulgarian troops with artillery, are reported to have begun an attack on the Istra bridge between Valandovo, on the railroad running from Saloniki into Serbia, and Hodovo. The point of attack is about 20 miles north of the Greek border. The Bulgarians apparently are attempting to cut railway communication and prevent the entente allies from forcing the Greek government to evacuate the Balkans.

REFUGEES IN PITIABLE FLIGHT.

London, Oct. 16.—Scarcity of food and the arrival of great numbers of Serbian refugees have resulted in pitiable conditions in Greek Macedonia says a dispatch received by Reuters Telegram company today, from Athens. As the Serbian government is urging all the women and children in Serbian Macedonia to emigrate even greater numbers are expected and it seems impossible at present to make provision for these.

The Greek government the message says already is caring for hundreds of thousands of refugees from Turkey and, embarrassed by a high mobilization expenditure it is looking for foreign assistance to prevent the threatening famine and disease.

WINONA SALE NOV. 4.

WARSAW, Ind., Oct. 16.—The sale of the assets of the Winona assembly will be held in the chapel of Westminster building on Thursday, Nov. 4, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning and continuing from day to day until the property is disposed of. Arrangements have been completed for a settlement with the creditors of the assembly, the plan being about identical with that stated by the former management before the sale of the property by the receiver to O. E. Excell for $100,000. The Winona property has been reappraised at $754,900, which amount equals the total claims filed.

WOMEN! TRY IT! SAVE 5 DOLLARS

Says gasoline and solvite in wash boiler dry cleans everything.

Every dry clean at home? Well, it's so easy, inexpensive and the results so pleasing you'll be surprised. Any woman can clean and renew the brightness of ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, silk shirtwaists, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, children's coats, suits, caps, sweaters, organza and chiffon dresses, fancy veils, veils, woolen garments, net-work, draperies, rugs, in fact, anything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do five dollars' worth of home dry cleaning in a few moments and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and the drug store will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline solvent. Then a wash boiler or large dish pan complete your dry-cleaning outfit.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

THREE COUPLES

WED FIFTY YEARS

DeKalb County Neighbors for Over Half a Century Will Together Celebrate Golden Jubilee.

Auburn, Ind., Oct. 16.—On October 30, fifty-one years ago, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brechlin, residing north of Waterloo, were married. Present at the wedding were two young couples who are now Rev. and Mrs. I. M. Thomas, of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Buss, living northwest of Auburn. Just one year later less one day, the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas was solemnized, and the following spring on March 14, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Buss were married. One year ago the golden wedding anniversary of the first named couple was celebrated with the two couples who had attended their wedding fifty years before as honor guests. This year, on October 29, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will have lived their fifty years of wedded life together and a quiet celebration in honor of the event is being planned. As the plans are at this time only a few invited guests will spend the day with them, the number being limited because of the health of the celebrated couple, not permitting a more elaborate celebration. The three couples will, however, celebrate together their golden wedding, and it is hoped that on March 14 next year they may again join in celebrating the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Buss.

DIVIDE FORMER TOWN OF ALTONA

Garrett, Ind., Oct. 16.—The town of Altona, which became last week a part of the city of Garrett, will be divided between the first and second wards.

That portion north of Harris street, which is in line with King street, will be added to the first ward and that part south of Harris street will be added to the second ward. Thus most of the suburb will be included in the first ward, which is represented in the council by Isaac Whitedge. A. C. Houser is the second ward councilman. People in Altona already are asking for an extension of the electric lines, so they may have service in their residences.

DEATH OF HUNTINGTON MAN.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 16.—Details of the accident in which Frank E. Ager of this city, was electrocuted in Delray, Mich., Wednesday, were received in Huntington yesterday. At the time of his death, Mr. Ager was changing an electrical connection on an air testing apparatus in the Okawood yards. Through some mischance the connection was carrying a heavier charge than that designed for it. As soon as the man touched the wires he was stricken to the ground unconscious. Railroad officials rushed him to Detroit, where attempts were made to revive him with a pulmotor, all attempts failing, however.

ALLEN COUNTY AGENT TO AID.

Deatur, Ind., Oct. 16.—Hog cholera has again broken out, north of Deatur in Root township, and a dozen herds of different farms in the vicinity are affected.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pinex on the membranes known by almost every one. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiaac and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

ected. A fight to eradicate the disease has already been begun and this evening a meeting will be held in the school house in district number seven in Root township to discuss ways and means for the accomplishment of this end. County Agent Hutchins has called to his assistance in the work, Agent Henry, of Allen county, and both gentlemen will be present at the meeting to discuss with the farmers the best means of battling with the disease.

WAR LOSSES THE DEATH OF HIM.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Worrying over investments which he had in Belgium and which are probably total losses because of the war, August Lardnois, a Belgian, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Felix Wallot, on the southside. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Felix Wallot, at whose home he passed away; one sister, Mrs. Mary Fere, in Dampremy, Belgium; Mrs. Bertha Gillis, a granddaughter, living in this city, and also three great-grandchildren, who are Edgar, Felix and Lillian Gillis.

LEVI PLATTNER ABLE TO BE UP.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Levi E. Plattner, who was terribly injured on the 10th of July two miles south of South Whitley on the Clayville pike when Carl Bowdy, who lost his life, crashed into the Plattner automobile with an Empire roadster, was in the city Friday for the first time since the date of the accident. Mr. Plattner had a very serious time of it and for a long time it was a question whether he would survive the injuries. He sustained several broken ribs and was bruised and crushed terribly.

FREED IN TEN MINUTES BY JURY

Portland, Ind., Oct. 16.—Fred Nelson, charged with perjury, was acquitted by a jury in the circuit court, after only ten minutes' deliberation. Nelson testified in a recent trial of a profanity charge against Harry Antles that the latter did not use profane language in an argument with Dick Moody. Witnesses today stated that Nelson was standing within a few feet of where the argument took place and that Antles, who was convicted of the charge tried against him, did use profanity.

ONCE LIVED IN MONTPELIER.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 16.—W. R. Thurston, who died this week at Lake town, Ind., was well known in this city. He was one of the first men to have charge of the local electric light plant. After working here for some time he went to Bluffton, where he was employed for a time, later going to the northern part of the state, where he accepted a position in the electrical department of the Chicago & Erie railroad.

MAY LOSE HIS RIGHT LEG.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 16.—The condition of Emil Egley, who was injured three weeks ago Tuesday when he was kicked by a horse, is some improved according to the physician's report. However, it is believed that the right leg will have to be amputated just below the knee. Dry gangrene has set in and it is believed the amputation will be necessary to save his life. As to whether or not amputation will be made will be decided upon Monday.

WOUND CAUSES BLOOD POISON.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Sherman Kneller, a Washington township, who cut his right wrist Monday morning on a corn cutter, is undergoing some trouble at present with the wrist. Tuesday morning the arm began to swell and a few hours later it was painful him at the elbow. He called Dr. Souder again and upon arrival the doctor found that blood poison had set in.

SAYS WIFE DESERTED HIM.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 16.—Claiming that his wife left him five years ago, Clyde Lenwell, who resides near Piercet, has filed suit in the circuit court for a divorce from Lillian Lenwell. The plaintiff charges that after they moved to Minneapolis his wife associated with other men and bore the reputation of being an immoral character. The marriage of the couple took place in Indianapolis Feb. 2, 1904.

CONVOY'S BOOSTER DAY.

Convoy, Ohio, Oct. 16.—The Convoy business men, at a meeting last Tuesday evening, started a project for a Booster Day for Convoy, to be held Saturday, October 23rd. One of the biggest days in the history of the town is expected with plenty will be here from 20 miles around. Five thousand large circulars will be distributed next week, giving full particulars.

JUDGE EICHORN IN OWN COURT.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 16.—Judge W. H. Eichhorn, who has been conducting the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, in Indianapolis, for the past five weeks, arrived home Thursday evening, and Friday looked after business of his own court here, which during most of the term has been in charge of special judges.

CHARGE WOMAN WITH FORGERY.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Lightning Liz, whose correct name is Ida Dargfield, was arrested on a warrant issued on a grand jury indictment charging her with forging her father, F. M. Carter, of Wells county, went on her bond in the sum of $1,000, together with her Montpelier man.

TEACHERS GO TO STATE MEET.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 16.—The teachers of the city schools will attend the sixty-second annual session of the Indiana State Teachers' association, which will be held at Indianapolis, October 27 to 30. The teachers of most of the townships of the county will also attend.

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., Oct. 16.—Mrs. L. W. Kemper and sons, Leroy and Robert, of Freeport, arrived in Ossian Thursday evening for a visit with Mrs. Kemper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kemper.

RID STOMACH OF GASES, SOURNESS, AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapiesin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapiesin is noted for its speed in giving relief. It is harmless, never has a certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it. —Advertisement.

Exodus 16: 27-36.

27 And it came to pass, that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather, and they found none.

28 And the Lord said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?

29 See, for that the Lord hath given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days; abide ye every man in his place on the seventh day.

30 So the people rested on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna; and it was like coriander seed, white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

32 And Moses said, This is the thing which the Lord commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

33 And Moses said unto Aaron, Take a pot, and put an omer full of Manna therein, and lay it up before the Lord, to be kept for your generations.

34 As the Lord commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept.

35 And the children of Israel did eat manna forty years, until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan.

36 Now an omer is the tenth part of an ephah.

State's Work for Health.

State Food and Drug Commissioner Barnard, in a report just submitted to the state board of health, has outlined a rather pre-tentious program of activities which makes it evident that the department is determined to prosecute still more vigorously its campaign for health and its program of disease prevention in Indiana. It is needless to say, also, that no more important work than this can claim the attention of any department of the state government. Investigation of the water supply of various cities in the state; investigation of food and drug samples; investigation of persons dispensing food in restaurants, bakeries and groceries and other public places and further investigation of the milk problem are the important avenues of Commissioner Barnard's endeavors.

Along with its other work during recent months there has been an investigation of 2,003 places dispensing food or drugs in Indiana, and the inspectors have condemned and ordered closed forty-four of these, while others not so flagrantly offensive were given opportunity to correct the occasion for criticism. Supplemental to the board's work, too, has been the observance of disease prevention day and the "health week" crusades in many Indiana cities. Altogether, the work for public health in Indiana has assumed most encouraging proportions. Its fruits will be the conservation of human life and incalculable additions to the sum total of human happiness, to say nothing of the lightening of the load of physical suffering. It will be well worth while for each of us to second in every way possible the public health efforts of the state department.

Those who have deluded themselves with the idea that all the possible systems, pretexts and excuses for levying taxes had been exhausted, will now be under necessity of revising their estimates. Some New York genius has proposed a habitation tax as an equitable and effective means of raising revenues for that city, in which one would be assessed in proportion to the sort of place of residence he occupies, whether it be hovel, mansion, flat or hotel, and whether it be owned or merely rented by the occupant. In short, his tax assessment would be proportionate to the value of the property he occupies as home, regardless of who may be the owner of the property so occupied. Still, if half the things we read about New York are true, it is difficult to understand why anybody should be willing to pay to live there.

News from Washington is to the general effect that Mrs. Galt is designing her own gowns for her wedding to the president, and that definite announcement of the nuptial date may be expected within a few days. With these details safely out of the way one will have nothing further to worry about save the question of getting an invitation to the ceremony.

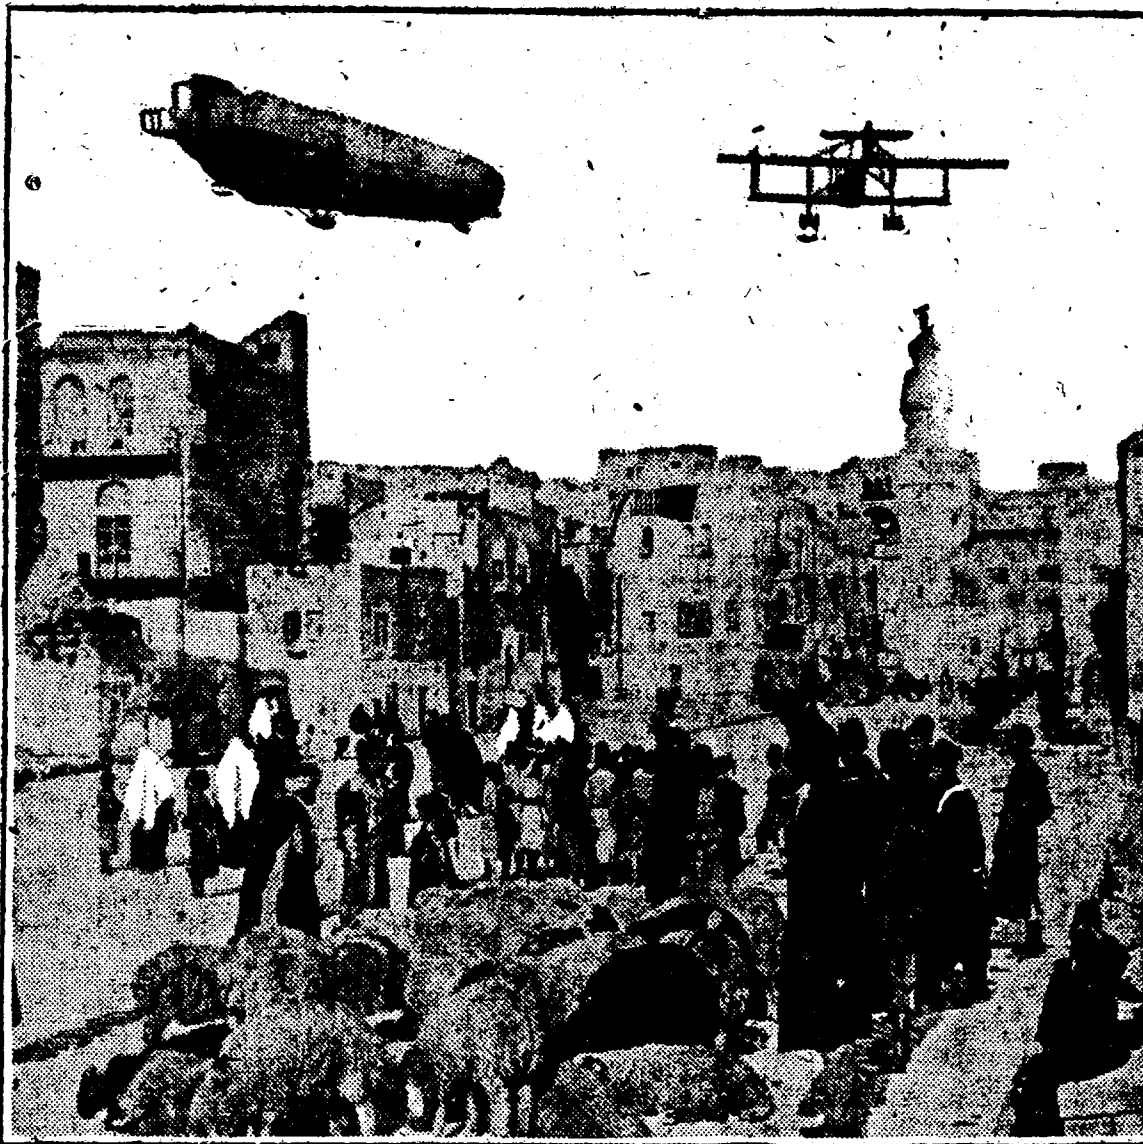

The United States Brewers' association in annual convention at Springfield, Mass., complains bitterly of what it declares is an unduly heavy war tax burden imposed upon its business. Taking into account the on-sweep of the dry movement over the country, one would presume that the war tax constituted about the least of the beer-maker's woes.

The wife of a theater manager at Goshen, who has been officiating in the box office at the play-house, is suffering from blood poisoning believed to have been contracted by handling money. A good many other theater managers over the country will utterly fail to understand how the Goshen institution could possibly have been called upon to handle so much wealth as that.

Down at Columbia, South Carolina, one man was killed and four others wounded by pistol shots as a result of a wrangle over a primary election. Still, when one counts up the distressing net results it is doubtful if the South Carolina system has any advantages over the more protracted but less fatal methods followed by Indianapolis in settling similar difficulties.

Indianapolis is rushing its flood prevention work in the effort to have the present project completed by the first of December. The difference between the status of flood prevention work in Indianapolis and that in Fort Wayne is respectfully referred to the beginners' class in mental arithmetic.

THE HOLY LAND HAS BECOME A MILITARY CAMP. ACCORDING TO JERUSALEM DISPATCHES, WHICH TELL OF ARMED AIRSHIPS FLYING OVER THE BIRTHPLACE OF THE PRINCE OF PEACE, OF TROOPS MANEUVERING DAILY ON THE MOUNT OF OLIVES, AND ENGLISH, FRENCH AND RUSSIAN CONVENTS TURNED INTO BARRACKS FOR THE SULTAN'S SOLDIERS. THIS PICTURE SHOWS HOW A MILITARY AEROPLANE AND A WAR DIRIGIBLE WOULD LOOK FLYING OVER THE PUBLIC SQUARE IN BETHLEHEM, BEFORE THE CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY.

SIGNS OF A HARD WINTER.

(Indianapolis News).

All the weather signs indicate a long, cold winter. Squirrels began unusually early to lay up their store of nuts; birds migrated southward in advance of their schedule; shocks on the corn and bark on the trees are extraordinarily thick; fur on the coon and possum is heavier than usual; burrowing animals are digging themselves in deeper than in their wont and constructing warmer winter nests, and all the nuts have thicker shells than usual. And all these various and varied indications of a severe winter, with storm and snow and blizzard, follow significantly in the wake of a cold and rainy summer. What lies ahead of us, therefore, is clear. We must prepare for the worst.

There are, of course, some superior human beings who do not believe in signs. Most of us, however, though we may publicly express a disdain for them, privately—if we are honest—confess a faith in them, or in some of them. Humanity has not yet freed itself of a belief in omens. We are still inclined to see some truth in the observation that "coming events cast their shadows before." It is a heritage of man's slave days—some remnant of the primitive instinct that man depended upon in the shadowy period of his savagery. It behooved him, then, to use his eyes and ears—to read the signs and to read them aright.

Science laughs at such things, to be sure.

And the weather bureau tells us that there is no predicting what a season will be in advance. Signs, it says, are meaningless. The squirrels, for instance, have gathered plentiful stores of nuts because there are plentiful stores of nuts to gather, the bird migration was not in advance of the average for twenty years, corn shocks and tree barks are thick because the summer was cool and wet, coon and possum fur is heavier for the same reason, burrowing animals have dug deeper because the ground is softer and damper, and the nuts have harder shells because the well-distributed rainfall encouraged that sort of growth. These are not, in short, indications of the future, but mere results of the past.

So science and signs deadlock again. But the public at large remains a free agent. It can take whichever side it chooses. It can believe the signs or believe the weather bureau. But, in any event, there will be a winter. And it is just as well to prepare for it with an eye to the significance of the signs. That is the course dictated by prudence, and prudence, signs or no signs, is generally right.

Good Advice
"WILLIAMS PARK"

(Lake Everett and Three Other Lakes)

To see the improvements of 1915, the statues, fountains, vases and other new features of interest, fifteen in all.

Driving north past the church (fourteen handsome pictures well worth seeing are on the walls of this church, the door is never locked, and you are welcome to enter), driving north past the church, turn to the right at the park entrance, a half mile drive to the east end of the lake, where the view over the lake from east to west is much the best of all the lake views, with 10 Red Roofed Summer Homes in sight.

"Eagle and Dove"

As you first enter the park north of the church you will see a large "Golden American Eagle," seven feet spread of wings, mounted in a tree twenty feet above the ground, his fierce protecting eye guarding well the little white dove at his feet with the inscription, "The American Eagle protecting the white dove of peace," the honored great mission of the great republic, this inscription being particularly appropriate now during the present fearful European conflagration.

The "Doe and the Dog" A timid, frightened young fawn will next attract your eye, looking fearfully to the south with nothing in view, to you, to show cause for her great fright. When you pass beyond the timber, the timber surrounding the beautiful "Fairies Circus," the cause of her fright is then first revealed, a terribly fierce Russian bloodhound.

"Diana, the Huntress" Passing farther east you will see in statue the handsomest face ever made by Artist Greek of "Diana the Huntress." It is worth a twelve-mile drive to see that face.

ENDORSE THE BUDGET SYSTEM FOR INDIANA

Following the address given Friday evening by Hon. E. M. Fullington, of Columbus, Ohio, head of the budget commission of the state of Ohio, before the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church, in which he explained the many advantages of having the budget system in the state, a committee composed of C. R. Lane, H. Brooks, and W. H. Shambaugh, passed a resolution in which they stated that they approved of the system and would support a movement to put the system into effect in Indiana.

Mr. Fullington told how the budget system cut out the blind items that were formerly used in the expense accounts of so many politicians when the money was really used for raising salaries.

The other address of the evening was delivered by B. W. Waltemeyer, head of the utilities commission of Ohio, and coming as a representative of the governor of the state. He spoke on the public and personal problems of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. His talk was crowded with theoretical and practical ideas and was appreciated by the large audience which gathered to hear him.

Delegations were present from Columbus, Van Wert and Findlay, Ohio, which were served following the addresses.

OPEN FOR REGISTRATION.

Several of the classes arranged by the educational committee of the Young Men's Christian association are waiting for the required number and as a result any one who wishes to register, do so at once. Mrs. John A. Thieme gave the last of her series of three parties this afternoon and entertained with her accustomed cordiality players for six tables at auction bridge. Although wholly informal Mrs. Thieme's entertainments have been very bright spots in the social calendar of the week.

Mrs. Emil P. Keller has issued invitations to a luncheon she will give at the Country club on next Thursday.

The celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Barcus, of Bluffton, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Max Blitz, of West Wayne street, is to be an entirely informal "at home" next Monday afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Blitz have not issued invitations other than to tell some of the old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Barcus that they had set the hours of 3 to 5 and 8 to 10 o'clock for a time during which old friends should call. Mr. Barcus is not very strong as he has been recently ill and that is one reason for making the reception as informal as possible, but friends of Mr. and Mrs. Barcus will be very welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bowser have gone to Philadelphia and Albany, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Gaston have returned from a few days' stay in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowser have come home from a ten days' eastern trip to New York and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dochterman, son Wayne, and daughter, Miss Irma, left on Friday for an eastern trip.

Miss Teresa Neuner and Miss Marie Morton, of Huntington, are guests of Miss Helen Christen.

Misses Louise and Olga Meyer, of Madison street, are visiting Chicago relatives.

Miss Olga Rice, of Dixon, Ill., is expected in the city shortly to visit Misses Christine and Anne Shryock.

Mrs. Theodore Dodane and son Philip are spending the week-end with relatives in Columbia City.

Miss Harriet Johnson has gone to Toledo, O., to visit Mrs. C. M. Dawson for several days.

Fleming McKinnie and Louis Centlivre have been at home from Notre Dame for a few days' visit.

Miss Thelma Fleming, of Third street, is at Purdue for a week-end visit.

Mrs. Edward W. Averill is entertaining her aunt, Mrs. Mulford, of Peru, for a few days.

Mrs. Arthur Rummel, of Spy Run avenue, entertained the St. Cecilia circle of the Wayne Street M. E. church at a social gathering on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Dussauer and little daughter have returned from visits with relatives in New York and Montrose, Pa.

Miss Mary Morris, of Maple avenue, and her sister, Mrs. Edward Barnes, of Detroit, have come home from a trip to New York.

Mrs. Emil Koepfel, of 705 West Berry street, is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Ione Bowman, who came from Chicago, but who spends her time with relatives of different places.

Mrs. Eric Crull is entertaining her sister, Miss Jessie Goodwin, who is on her way home to Indianapolis from Rome City, where she spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kieckley, of Hoagland avenue, have returned from a visit with their daughter in Albany, N. Y.

and a trip to Lake George, Saratoga and other points.

The active members of the Qui Vives are guests of Miss Dorothy Wilding at dinner Saturday evening at her home in South Wayne avenue. This is a regular fortnightly meeting of the club.

Mrs. D. S. Oakes, of 332 West DeWald street, gave a tea Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. S. J. Anders, of Platt, Kan., who is visiting her son, H. V. Anders and family. The guests spent a very pleasant time.

Mrs. Kent L. Seaman will leave on Monday for Columbus, Ohio, for a fortnight's visit. Mrs. Seaman was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Older, who has been here a year with her daughter.

Mrs. B. M. Edlavitch gave an auction bridge party on Tuesday at the English tea room. Covers were laid for twenty at the supper served after the game and charming decorations of pink roses were one of the delightful things of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Kaede, of 1015 Swinney avenue, entertained fifty people on Friday evening in celebration of two anniversaries, their thirty-first wedding anniversary and Mr. Kaede's birthday. They also announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clara Kaede, to George W. Bornuth.

Miss Muriel Larimore has returned from Chicago, where she had the pleasure of meeting Miss Anna Pavlova and of attending a rehearsal of the ballet company, of which Miss Pavlova is at the head. Miss Larimore also took lessons from a noted teacher of dancing in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Korn, of College street, gave a dinner party at 6 o'clock on Friday evening to compliment Mr. and Mrs. Walter Huser, of Detroit, Mich. Frederick Paul was toastmaster for the dinner, at which covers were laid for twelve. Cards were enjoyed afterwards. Prizes were won by Miss Immel and Mr. Paul and they were presented by them to Mr. and Mrs. Huser, who are on their honeymoon trip.

Miss Cosette Garwood, of Kinnaird avenue, celebrated her ninth birthday anniversary on Thursday evening by having a few of her many friends enjoy a lovely party at her home. The guests were Mary Meek, Dorothy Somers, Virginia Ropa, Mary and Margaret Pocock, Helen Mitchell, Louise Mosier, Mary Lang, Louise Allison, Vivian Mills, Helen Underwood, Ramona Kerr, Grace Johnson, Dorothy Martin, Ruth Gotch and Master Jack Sanders.

Misses Ruth and Esther Krouse, of West Creighton avenue, entertained on Friday evening a company of friends at a musical and number of contests. The rooms were very pretty with their decoration of hollyhocks and maple leaves. Prizes in the games were won by Elsie Sauerwein and Mary Slater. The guests were Misses Edith Baals, Esther Heckman, who furnished music for the time, Elizabeth Holmes, Ethel Johnson, Goldie Haflinger, Gladys Baker, Blanche Slater, Esther Sauerwein, Gertrude Hill, Helen White, Mary Slater, Ruby Marsh.

Miss Cecelia Hartman gave a miscellaneous shower on Thursday evening at her home in East Creighton avenue, in honor of Miss Stella Cohoit, who is to be married on Thanksgiving day to Alvin Hartman. A pretty decoration in pink and white colors made the dining room in which a luncheon was served, very attractive. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Val Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Kinsey, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Reams, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reams, Mrs. J. E. Cohoit, Charlotte and Marie Cohoit, Mrs. Clara Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Shriver, Ruth Shriver and Ethel Reams.

One of the sweetest of children's parties was Miss Helen Ackerman's which was given Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Helen's birthday anniversary. Twenty-five girls and boys form the company and they went to the Orpheum theater to see the pictures, then home to Miss Helen's at 718 West Wayne street. It was the supper that was the grand climax to the happy time the children spent. Such a beautiful table and such a Halloween looking diningroom as the guests found when they entered it. And this was a part of what the children saw. A table with a real pumpkin in its center held popcorn and apples. Little candles that lighted the table had pumpkin color shades over them. Every child found a gift of candy at his place but the candy was in different holders, all Halloween but black or yellow or both and funny or pretty, as it happened. Strings of popcorn and Japanese lanterns hung from the chandelier. Then there were black cats, witches, goblins and other funny things that were appropriate and the prettiest yellow caps, each with a queer figure bobbing from its peaked top for the children to wear. The good things to eat were substantial with plenty of

MISS SWETZ ENTERS DRAMATIC FIELD.

MISS ROSE SWETZ.

Miss Rose Swetz, of this city, who recently went to Indianapolis to take a position in the office of the state entomologist, is to enter the dramatic field as a pantomimist and is rehearsing with the Little Theater company, of that city. Miss Swetz, as she had been in the habit of writing her name in Fort Wayne, will be billed on the theater programs as Rosa Swetz, the original spelling of her Polish name. The Indianapolis Little theater is a new venture under the management of Samuel A. Eliot, Jr. The project is along the lines of the Chicago Little theater and similar movements in other cities.

sweets and enough of them yellow in color to help the plan of the party. Then to crown all Anita Ackerman and Gladys Lindman, dressed as witches, were ready to wait upon the younger folks. Mrs. Simon Ackerman, Miss Helen's mother, and Mrs. Edward Lindman chaperoned the children at the latter party.

Choral Union Concert.

A musical entertainment of more than ordinary interest is the giving of "The New Jerusalem" and other numbers in Elks' hall next Tuesday evening by the chorus which Mrs. Clara Zollars-Bond leads and Emil Koepfel directs. Mrs. Bond is president of the chorus known as the Fort Wayne Choral Union. The union is desirous of paying expenses and making enough more to be able to continue its work. Mrs. Woolworth, soprano; Mrs. Clara Zollars-Bond, soprano; Mrs. F. E. Stouder form the quartet of soloists in the choral work, which takes an hour to give.

Suffrage Round Table.

A round table on suffrage was successfully conducted on Wednesday evening by Miss Elizabeth Sihler, at the home of Mrs. Bosler. The members of the South Wayne union were present. A live interest was manifest at the meeting as well as a comprehension of political and economical rights of women.

Mothers' Club Meeting.

The activities of the Mothers' club will commence next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. and all mothers interested are cordially invited to attend. Dr. Hamilton will give a talk on "Conservation of Nervous Energy in the Child."

BEAUTY AFTER 40—OPEN AIR IS THE BEST COSMETIC.

IDA H. M'GLONE GIBSON.

Fresh air, fresh water and a fresh viewpoint of life daily, should be the rule of the woman who wishes to look her best at 40.

One of the greatest beauty destroyers of the well-to-do American woman is laziness. She always wants someone else to do the work and let her have the reward. Husband must work to keep her luxuriously. Servants must cook her food and keep her home in order. Others, whom she considers more unfortunate women than herself, must ornament and decorate her body with dainty gauds and gowns.

She will spend the money freely—that she has not earned—for facial or body massage when a brisk walk on a rainy day would be better. She will buy expensive rubber underclothing to melt the too solid flesh, when a rattling game of tennis would not only have the same effect, but give her an added joy in living as well.

Every woman, young or old, should spend as much time in the open air as possible each day.

Don't be afraid to walk in the rain. Put on your oldest clothes and go out and get wet. It won't hurt you if it is soon as you return you give yourself a good rub down and put on dry clothing.

There is no cosmetic known equal to damp air. The fine complexion of the English and Irish women can be attributed to the dampness of the climate of England and Ireland.

Few women drink enough water. Eight glasses a day of cool—not iced—water is about the right regime for the woman who would not have a shadow of complaint. It would be "fair to look upon" at forty or over.

By the way, did it ever strike you that only two continents are made up of women in the bible. One is "She was fair to look upon." And the other: "She loved much."

It's not such a hard thing to accomplish—this making one's self "fair to look upon," but the trouble with most of us is that we love too much—we love too much our ease.

There is no reason why the woman of forty should not be as graceful a dancer as her daughter of twenty.

The actress, May Robson, always was advising me, "whatever you do, Idah, don't get the middle-aged spread." It is not necessary to do this if you will walk a great deal on the balls of your feet and all straight.

5 to ten miles a day for 20 years. My health is perfect.

I do not attribute it wholly to walking, but I know that without walking I would not be as gloriously healthy as I am and also know that no woman in my health was ever "fair to look upon."

EVERY THING READY FOR PURDUE GAME

Go With Wisconsin is Attracting Wide Attention.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 15.—Trained to the minute, the Purdue and Wisconsin eleven anxiously awaited the fray of the afternoon on Stuart field today. It was the first conference game of the season for the Boilermakers. The Badgers came out as the strongest eleven in the big nine and were favorites 4 to 1 before the game. Five all-American football men, including the famous Eddie Hart, whipped the local aggregation into shape for the battle and before the opening whistle confident in Purdue's ability. The teams lined up for the start as follows:

Purdue	Pos.	Wisconsin
Stinchfield	L.E.	Stravum
Berns	L.T.	Buck
Proud	L.G.	Gardner
Blocker	C.	Pottinger
Mason	R.G.	Mason
Beuchner	R.T.	G. Simpson
Vanaken	R.E.	Ray
Vinn	Q.B.	E. Simpson
Walter	L.H.	Byers
Pultz	R.H.	Smith
Bishop	F.B.	Kreuz

WINDY CITY SQUAD FEARS HOOSIER BOYS

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Football eleven of the "big nine" clashed today in the first test of the championship contests. Losers will be eliminated as contenders for the 1916 title. The important games brought together Indiana at Chicago, Wisconsin at Purdue, Northwestern at Iowa and Illinois at Ohio state. Minnesota, the only conference team playing an outsider, was slated to meet South Dakota at Minneapolis.

Chicago faced a foe of unknown strength in Indiana, which is reported to have the strongest team in years. Jim Thorpe, the noted Carlisle Indian athlete, has been assisting Coach Childs in whipping the squad into shape and they were expected to uncover some new tricks to break down Chicago's defense. Wisconsin, which piled up large scores in its first two games, was regarded by experts as having advantage over Purdue.

Other football games in the west today: Michigan Aggies vs. Carroll, Nebraska vs. Washington, Kansas vs. Drake, Wabash vs. Washington, Earlham vs. Rose Poly.

Word was received Friday by Schuyler Myers, proprietor of a brokerage office in the Physicians' Defense building, that Lambert & Company of Buffalo, for whom he traded, had failed, leaving $1,700 in debts in this city. Myers immediately called in the local creditors and paid each in full.

TEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL WILL BE MASCOT FOR COLLEGE ELEVEN.

Most teams run to animal mascots. There's the army mule, the navy goat, the Yale bulldog, etc. Miss Stag is the daughter of Alonzo Stag, the big "It" in athletics at Chicago university. In practice games she has been holding the stick as the first football line woman. Time is kept by her tiny wrist watch and woe to the player who asks "time out."

MISS RUTH STAG, WHO IS EXPECTED TO BRING GOOD LUCK TO THE CHICAGO UNIVERSITY TEAM, COACHED BY HER FATHER, A. A. STAG.

Ruth Stag, aged ten, is the first real mascot for the eleven in all five cities to be mascot for a big college the big game.

INDIANA ELEVEN TO PLAY IN PANTOMINE

Silent Drama Has Nothing on Silent Football These Days.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Plays used by Indiana university in its game with the University of Chicago today will be indicated by Captain Whitaker's hands instead of the usual calling out of the signals.

Coch Childs believes that with the use of the hand signals no team can solve his plays before they are actually started.

HARVARD-VIRGINIA GAME HOLDS INTEREST

New York, Oct. 15.—Foremost in point of interest among the gridiron contests in the east this afternoon stands the game at Cambridge between Harvard and the University of Virginia, which two weeks ago defeated Yale. Stuart, Virginia tackle, who aided in the victory of two weeks ago, will not be able to play today. Other eastern contests are Yale vs. Springfield Y. M. C. A., Pennsylvania vs. Navy, Princeton vs. Lafayette, Cornell vs. Bowdoin, Vermont vs. Dartmouth, Swarthmore vs. Ursinus, Georgetown vs. North Carolina, Lehigh vs. Albright, Penn state vs. Gettysburg, Syracuse vs. Rochester.

VORAK GETS NEW TRIAL.

Electrocution Scheduled for Oct. 29. Indefinitely Postponed.

Indianapolis, Oct. 15.—The electrocution of Thomas Vorak, which was scheduled to take place in the Indiana state prison on October 29, has been indefinitely postponed by the action of the state supreme court, which has held that Judge James A. Collins, of the Marion county criminal court, had given erroneous instructions to the jury which convicted Vorak of first degree murder. Vorak will be returned to Indianapolis for a new trial.

Louis F. Curdes & Co. and the Arnold G. W. Curdes Building company have street and will move to the same next street and will move to the same next street.

CHORUS CONCERT

Soloists—Mrs. H. W. Woolworth, Mrs. Will Cleary, Mr. Clint Willson, Mr. Frank Stouder, Mrs. A. W. Rodenbeck, Miss Edith Foster, Mrs. V. B. Mahay, accompanist; Emil Koeppl, conductor, Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, Elks' hall.

GREAT HALFBACK SHOWS HOW TO PLAY BACKFIELD POSITIONS.

FOURTH OF A SERIES OF PICTURES POSED BY EDDIE MAHAN, HARVARD CAPTAIN AND ONE OF THE GREATEST PLAYERS THE GRIDIRON HAS PRODUCED, SHOWING HOW HE PLAYS FOOTBALL.

(By Eddie Mahan, as told in an interview with Brown Holmes, special sport writer.)

Driving power is important for the man in the backfield. He must have a lot of steam in his movement charge and must start quickly.

The best position for a powerful start is to crouch so the legs may be used as springs to send the body charging forward. Dig your toes into the ground, keep the head up, balance and with one hand on the ground. Hold the other arm back so it can be swung forward at the start to help give momentum to the charge.

Use two hands to take the ball from the center and keep two hands on it until it is shifted into position between the crooked arm and the body. Go into the line with all your driving power and go into low.

YALE GRIDIRON LEADER FACES REAL DARK PROSPECTS.

CAPT. WILSON

Yale footballers will have to show a lot of improvement if Captain Wilson is to lead a winner in battles with Princeton and Harvard. Defeat by University of Virginia was a sad blow to Yale followers and the army of coaches has begun to figure on many big changes. Captain Wilson faces darker prospects than any Yale captain for some years.

Speed corn day was observed in many of the schools of the county Friday.

Squirrel hunting is the kind of wearing apparel.

Be in the woods at daybreak as the little fellows start to move at that time. They feed all during the day. The next thing is to locate a tree or trees where squirrels have been working.

If the footing is dry there is nothing better than the common tennis shoes; if wet under foot an ordinary shoe with rubbers or moccasins is best, or even rubber boots, though boots cause the feet to perspire early in the fall.

Wear brown or gray clothing.

When you have located new cuttings on the ground under nut trees, stick there! Don't go beating through the woods like a steam engine. Just wait; the squirrels are either in the tree or will be back soon.

In moving from one place to another, move easily and slowly, stopping every step or so to listen for droppings from the trees.

Should a squirrel be "treed" he will continue to move in the same direction as yourself as you circle around. He can often be double-crowded if you throw your hat or coat on the opposite side of the tree while you remain still.

The next thing is to get in woods where the ground is high and dry, if possible interspersed with nut trees.

Squirrels feed on shag, bark, hickory nuts, common hickory, butternuts, and walnuts. They are also fond of beechnuts, and if other nuts are scarce, feed on acorns.

WILL KID LEWIS BE RING SENSATION?

Looms Up as Possibility and Shadow Fall of Welsh's Path.

(By Brown Holmes.)

Freddy Welsh, the lightweight champion, faces a serious proposition as the winter ring season opens. He will have to risk his title against a mighty class of fighters or pass up more money than has been offered a lightweight in many years.

There are nearly ten good lightweight anxious for a chance at Welsh and most of them are fellows who can give Welsh a run for his money. They are also fellows who can draw good purses in bouts with Welsh, which means the champion will have a lot of money propositions to consider.

If Willie Ritchie is able to come back and be anything like he was before he lost to Welsh, he will be a tough customer for the title holder. Outside of Ritchie, there are Charley White, Joe Mandot, Johnny Dundee and Kid Lewis, any one of whom is a fit opponent for the champ.

Lewis is able to prove the sensation of the winter in lightweight circles. He was good enough to win the British championship before he came to the states and since he arrived has been good enough to beat such classy performers as Jack Britton, Kid Graves and Mike Glover.

Lewis beat Britton twice and it was not so very long ago that the claim was being made that Britton could not be outpointed by any lightweight in the game. Britton may have gone back some, but has not had time to go back very much, so Lewis must be the goods. He is the chap all the championship aspirants will have to look out for.

YELLOW PERIL HALTED.

Tokio, Oct. 15.—The baseball team of the University of Chicago was again victorious today, defeating the nine of Waseda university 5 to 0.

WARD SECURES GAMES FOR HIGH SCHOOLERS

Acting Principal Acts as Booking Agent for Teams.

Acting Principal Louis Ward, of the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, already has begun to sign up for basketball games for the high school team. Twenty games will be played, ten in the city and ten on the road, and Mr. Ward promised the students that if they would form an athletic association strong enough to handle expenses, he would secure games to run them through the season.

There is no football at the school so the boys and girls' teams both are working into shape without any other athletics to attract their attention.

UPHOLDS OLD FARM LIFE.

Governor Ralston Speaks at Winchester Home-Coming Day.

Winchester, Ind., Oct. 15.—Appealing to the farm boy and girl to remain at the old homestead and criticizing the people for not giving more consideration to present day problems, Governor Ralston yesterday afternoon addressed a crowd of 7,000 persons, who were here to celebrate home coming day for Winchester and Randolph county. Mrs. Ralston accompanied the governor. G. E. Leggett, president of the home-coming association, introducing the speaker. The governor declared that the prosperity of our state and nation was due to farm life. He concluded his address with a discussion of the state penal institutions, their management and the parole problem.

RETIRE FROM WHAT, STALLING?

New York, Oct. 15.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, wants to retire. Before he lays aside his fistie honors, however, he wants to engage in four more bouts. As his opponents he picks Willie Ritchie, Charley White, Johnny Dundee and Joe Mandot. Welsh is almost ready to box now. He is training hard daily and expects to be in fighting form shortly.

"FRIARS MUCH FEARED" SAYS MUNCIE SCRIBE

But a Bunch of Fans Will Be Here to Make Things Interesting.

Tomorrow will see one of the most interesting football games of the season in this city. Following the pair of farce comedies that have been staged here in the past two Sundays, a team with a punch will be welcomed. The famous Congerville aggregation of huskies from Muncie is coming with a raft of enthusiasm and a bunch of fans, and will do battle here for state championship honors.

The Muncie crew is considered one of the strongest in the state, and, according to an Indianapolis sport writer, who mentions it in today's paper, "the powerful Friars will meet the hitherto invincible Congerville team, and the game will be worth traveling many miles to see."

The Muncie "Friars" has the following to say of the game:

"The Congerville Athletic club football team will journey to Fort Wayne where they will play the famous Friars team of that city. The Friars are touted as being one of the fastest teams in the state and the locals are looking forward to a hard battle. They have been practicing hard for the game, however, and are confident of bringing home the bacon. "Among the many stars included in the lineup of the Fort Wayne team the most prominent is little "Skeet" Lambert, the former star on the Wabash college team. There also is Helvie Berger, the Notre Dame star, who will be a tower of strength in the back field. Laporte, the former star end on the Chicago university team, will be a factor in the contest also. Altogether, the Friars have a team that makes it much feared by the locals, who will be forced for the first time this season to display all that Coach Checkay has taught them, and the game should be one of the best ever seen in that part of the state. A large delegation of rooters will accompany the locals."

ELECTRICS-CONCORDIA.

The safest soap for babies is Resinol

This is so, first because it is one of the few soaps which contain no free alkali—that harsh, drying chemical which so frequently causes eczema, or other skin irritation. But, even more important, it contains the soothing, healing Resinol medication to keep the delicate skin soft, clear and beautiful. You can safely trust your baby's skin health to Resinol Soap.

DISCOVERS LUCK STONE OF ANCIENT CHINESE.

Mrs. Ada Perry Martin holding up her peculiar moonstone.

Newport, Ore., Oct. 16.—While strolling along the beach near Newport, Ore., Mrs. Ada Perry Martin picked up a peculiar little stone.

She was interested in its strange markings and took it to a gem expert. He told her it was a cloud agate or a moonstone. However, it was not the stone itself, but the design upon it which held her attention.

She determined to give all her leisure time to studying it in an effort to find out its meaning, and to see whether it is reproduced elsewhere.

Mrs. Martin learned the following unique facts: The design on this little stone is of Chinese origin and consists of the Yang and Yin, or the dual powers of nature, produced by the great extremes—motion and rest, force and matter, fire and water, light and darkness.

It was used to illustrate a system of philosophy in China more than 3,000 years before Christ.

Various designs are found in many nations which are all founded on the diagram of this stone.

Mrs. Martin says: "The design is found in the Yih King, the first volume of the Chinese bible, and it is also found in the Sanskrit."

After many years of diligent research, Mrs. Martin learned that the design was used in the king's chamber of the great pyramid, in the holy of holies in Solomon's temple, and in the tabernacle of Moses. The figure was in existence in the days of Confucius, 447 B. C.

The stone changes color in the light. The dark part has a light streak through it. The light part contains a seed.

According to Chinese and Koreans, the symbol is magic and brings good luck. Necromancers are said to have used it in the Orient, in "working spells."

QUALIFIES AGAIN FOR RUSTICATION

Dick Brennan, Just Back from Penal Farm is Locked Up.

Dick Brennan, long-time police character in Fort Wayne and just back from a rustication for four months at the Indiana penal farm near Putnamville, has qualified for another and a longer term at that bucolic institution. Brennan was sentenced about four months ago to a term on the farm as an incorrigible drunkard, the hope being that a prolonged period of enforced sobriety would work a reformation for which he expressed deep and sincere desire. He returned day or two ago and was seen Friday evening on the street a trifle tipsy. While two officers at police headquarters were discussing this incident, Saturday morning, and speculating on the probability that Richard would be brought in during the day, the patrol wagon was called out. It returned in a few minutes with Mr. Brennan as its passenger. He was drunk in a most palatable fashion. What Judge Kerr will do with him Monday morning in view of the failure of the sojourn at the farm to improve him remains to be seen.

IN THE CITY COURT.

Another of the Hardesty Sisters Three Is Brought to Bar.

In the city court Saturday morning Felbie Burkshire was arraigned on a charge of prostitution and continued until Tuesday morning, going under detention for want of $100 bond. Mrs. Burkshire is a sister of Mrs. Clara Golliver and Miss Hattie Hardesty, who were arrested Thursday following the absence from her home on Wall street for almost twenty-four hours of Mrs. Golliver, who was found in Foster park with a young man named Frank Miller.

With a new straw hat and the best of health to be procured in Payne, Ohio, Luther Descham alighted from a train at the Nickel Plate depot, Friday afternoon, and proceeded to make an indecent spectacle of himself. He was arrested by Captain Hazelett, of the railway police. Judge Kerr fined him $15 and he will sojourn in the bastille for twenty-five days, the summer bonnet and the autumnal show having taken all his money.

Bert Kyle, a drunk, was continued until November 20 and went to jail to wait, and Henry Kruse, who counts that month lost which does not see him locked up for being drunk, was sent over to stay until Monday for trial.

Harry Baird, another drunk, was turned loose. William Kirby was also put on ice until Monday to answer a drunk charge.

The case against Louis Huber, charged with petit larceny, was continued until November 15 and he was released on his own recognizance.

Harry Frohight, the strike-breaker charged with assault and battery for shooting A. C. Caldwell, night watchman at the Riverside hotel, an Al McKee, a police character, early Thursday morning, was continued until Tuesday morning and his bond of $1,000 stands as it was. McKee is locked up in default of $300 bond for his appearance as a witness.

SHRINERS TO BUTLER.

Patrol and Band Will Make Trip in Special Train on Wabash.

Members of the Nomad band and Arab patrol of Mizpah temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will go to Butler one week from today in a special train to be run over the Wabash railroad. At Butler the band will give a concert and the patrol will give an exhibition drill.

Requirements of the Male Voter

What is required, at present, of a man before he can vote in the United States?

He must be twenty-one years old. He must be native-born or naturalized.

In some states he must be able to read. That is all.

He is not asked whether he will use his vote.

He is not asked if all men want to vote.

He is not asked if he thinks the laws need changing.

He is not asked if he will promise to better the laws.

He is not asked to give statistics showing whether men have previously used their votes to better the laws.

He is not asked if he is sure he can still be a good father.

He is not asked to "remain attractive" after he votes.

But all such requirements and more are made of women when they aspire to vote. Is it fair to make such distinction?—Exchange.

SUFFRAGE NOTES.

At a suffrage meeting of public school teachers in Boston, it was decided not only to march in the parade of Oct. 16 and otherwise help the campaign, but to circulate in the schools and get names on the Massachusetts Teachers' Woman Suffrage amendment blank.

Women vote in Alaska. There are not as many women there, according to population, as in New York, but there are a great many more than easterners imagine. They have used their ballots as the vast majority of women use them—for the general uplifting of the community—Rev. Edward G. Pettit, Juneau, Alaska.

Woman suffrage has been an unequalled success in our state.—Rev. David D. Allen (Presbyterian), Tacoma, Wash.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Wheat developed fresh strength today, largely as a result of wet weather in the spring crop belt, threatening further delay to any accumulation of supplies at the leading terminals north-west. The opening, which ranged from 3/4¢ to 1/2¢ higher, was followed by a moderate additional uptick.

The close was unsettled, 3/4¢ to 1/2¢ net higher, with December at $1.08 1/2 and May at $1.09 1/2.

In corn, as in wheat, the unsettled weather had a bullish effect. After opening 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ higher, the market scored yet further gains.

The close was steady at 3/4¢ to 1/2¢ net advance.

Oats kept upward pace with other cereals.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 15.—The record of today's brief session was one of unevenness followed by general recoveries at the end. Initial prices were more or less confusing and unsettled because more general later on selling of United States Steel and other potential issues. A number of the war shares were lower by one to two points and such rails as Louisville and Nashville, New Haven, Erie second preferred and Rock Island showed some declines. The rally in the final dealings was led by Baldwin Locomotive and Bethlehem Steel, the latter rising seven points from yesterday's close at the new record price of 48 1/2. The close was steady. Bonds were firm.

Specialties, particularly war shares, made some upward progress at the outset of today's moderate trading, but the undertone was one of increasing caution. Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, American Steel Foundries, General Electric and Westinghouse advanced from material fractions to two points, with slight gains in Pennsylvania, Atchafson and Ontario and Western. Rock Island added a point to yesterday's decline and New York Central was slightly lower. U. S. Steel held at yesterday's low quotations of 82 1/2.

WILL TAKE NO ACTIVE PART.

Wilson Not to Mix in Pre-Convention Campaign.
Washington, Oct. 15.—President Wilson plans to take no active part in the 1916 pre-convention campaign but will spend the summer at Shadow Lawn near Long Branch, N. J. Later he may write a number of letters on issues and receive political leaders. The president expects to go to Shadow Lawn immediately after the adjournment of congress and before the conventions are held. From there he can keep in touch with headquarters of the democratic national committee in New York.

AND IT SURELY WAS A PLEASANT EVENING

Street Cars, Jitney Busses
ley of Minor Mishaps.

A jitney bus driven by Ray Campbell, 1157 Francis street, ran into and knocked down R. W. Winans, of Chicago, at Lewis and Calhoun streets near midnight Friday night, tearing up his coat sleeve and rather musing up his dignity. He was uninjured. Half a dozen women who occupied the car ably assisted the automobile horn in sounding a warning.

Car Hits Taxi.

Huffman north-bound car No. 179 (empty) lifted a taxicab belonging to the Fort Wayne Transfer company from its moorings at Washington and Calhoun street at 10:15 Friday night, the machine getting stuck on the car's fender. It required considerable pulling and pushing to move the machine. The incident was greatly enjoyed by a crowd on the curbs, who joyfully fell into a sympathizing spirit and volunteered to assist the car crew in any way possible.

Wentzler Car Damaged.

An automobile belong to John Wentzler, the Barr street druggist, is in the shop for general repairs following a mixup at Harrison and Washington streets at 8:15 Friday evening. No one was injured.

TWO CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant of Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw, inflamed throat and loosens phlegm. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Y. M. C. A. FUND IS COMPLETE.

Anderson Celebrates Victory in Securing $250,000.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 16.—One of the biggest crowds ever assembled in the downtown district of Anderson last night celebrated the completion of the raising of a $250,000 Y. M. C. A. fund. This sum includes the $125,000 given conditionally by the late J. A. J. Brunt. A total of $273,338 or $23,338 more than was necessary to obtain the Brunt gift, was finally subscribed. The total subscribed yesterday was $43,375. Among the amounts contributed yesterday was $5,000 given by Ball brothers, of Muncie.

CORY'S KIDS

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Novelized by Samuel Field

PROLOGUE.

Did you ever hear of a successful combination of love and business? Probably not. Well, here is the opportunity to learn just how it can be done. The greatest force in modern commercial life has undoubtedly been shown to be effective advertising, and in this interesting narrative you will see how this fact comes into operation. Based on one of the most popular plays of the year, this story will be read with interest by the business man, the ambitious youth and the trustful young girl who looks at life with more or less of perplexity. It is a story that reveals how the spirit of hope overcomes the deepest despair, even when the outlook is most threatening. It combines the practical with the sentimental affairs of business and home life and at the same time running through it is a vein of humor irresistible in its appeal. The characters are true to life, and the net result of their activities is that you should never acknowledge defeat while you have a breath to breathe.

CHAPTER I.

A Rich Man's Son.

OLD CYRUS MARTIN, the soap king, sat in his library in a very contented frame of mind. There was a thorn in his flesh, and he began to feel it more and more. It was not an agreeable sensation, a thorn in the flesh, for a soap king whose cuticle was not accustomed to it. He traced it more or less vaguely to his meeting that morning with his old friend and rival in the soap business, John Clark. They had fallen in with each other, as often happened, at the Directors' club about lunch time and had one of their half friendly, half hostile chats together. And to make a long story short, Martin had bet Clark $30,000 that his son, Rodney Martin, would be making more money in a year's time than Clark's son Elery. As neither boy had ever made a penny in his life, unless betting on a football game or winning a jackpot could be called making money, there was a fairly sports favor to the house. The bits of business lore and anecdotes of sagacity and trade that Clark represented as coming from the precious lips of the marvelous Elery had finally goaded old Martin into fury. He at least knew that Rodney was a nincompoop in business, if he was his son; he had no illusions about that. But the comparisons had reached a point finally beyond which he would not let them proceed unchallenged, and so he had made his ridiculous wager and made it by it. The prospect of turning over $30,000 to John Clark in a year's time and admitting Rodney's incompetence to boot was devilish.

What was the matter with rich men's sons anyway? thought Cyrus Martin. Rodney's father had not spoiled him, his father's conscience was clear on that point at least. Perhaps he had not spoiled him enough, his mother used to think so. Perhaps his mother, had she lived, with that nervous way she had of prodding people on, would have been of benefit when mere sternness had failed.

The boy had spent more money in college each year than the sum total of his father's and mother's expenses during the first childless years of their married life; not necessarily on fast living, his father was reasonably sure of that, but for luxuries and gewgaws at which young men in the old days would have turned up their noses. Rodney's father had not gone to college himself, though his parents could have sent him. He was not altogether a self made man. His own father, Rodney's grandfather, a country banker in Connecticut, had left him the heritage of a modest fortune and thrifty habits, and in the soap king's mind now these seemed more to be thankful for than half a dozen college professors and their snuff combs. Yet here was nothing particular the matter with Rodney's inheritance and environment, there was just something lacking in the boy himself.

Compare Rodney, for instance, with young Rufus Plodman, son of old Eli Plodman of the State Wire and Iron works. Rufus was one of the finest young men in the business world, married to a nice wife and with a family growing up already. His name was beginning to be mentioned more and more. Then there was the famous Brinkhurst, who took the burden of the Excelsior National bank almost entirely off old Brinkhurst's shoulders, and a good thing for the delectable too. There was even Will J. Robinson, Jr., of the Pine Hill Dye works company, who had brought in ideas that set the concern on its feet, here was good reason to believe, in just the nick of time. Compare all these and a good few others with his own young hopeful, and which name was the best of it?

The boy was attractive, too; his father had always liked him. Perhaps that was one of the chief troubles. Even as a little child he had never flown into tempers or had hateful ways. His own winning and noncombative disposition had been the chief means, no doubt, of warding off the disciplines of life. He was amiable and good looking in an unobtrusive way, and everybody liked him. To look at him impartially you would not have thought he lacked character, unless you yielded too much to your prejudice against a slight lisp and an otherwise somewhat finicky way of talking. He did not run into debt now, nor overdraw his allowance, or at any rate not very much; he had never done so much, and in college he had got fairly good marks, as nearly as his father could make out, and had won his degree of A. B. without too obvious difficulty. Didn't the precious sheepskin hang framed on the wall of his room, surrounded by a veritable picture gallery of college glee clubs and eleven and nines? Cyrus Martin had been credibly informed that you could not actually graduate from Harvard or Yale or Princeton without some portion of mentality. Where did it show itself in Rodney? As a boy he had had his flashes of cleverness and wit; what propensity had been revealed in them? Ransacking his memories, old Martin could not remember what they were; had they been merely the subjective readings of fond parents' minds? Why was Rodney so different from old Clark's boy Elery?

Well, perhaps Clark was a good deal of a bluffer in this instance. Martin must call the bluff and win out somehow in the matter of this bet, or his life would not be worth living.

He rang the bell sharply for Johnson, his butler, prepared to have a pretty sharp twinge of gout if the summons was not promptly answered.

"Any one call this afternoon, Johnson?" he asked, when that silent footed dignitary appeared.

Johnson took a silver tray from the table near the hall door and glanced downward at it stily.

"The Countess de Beaurien," he said impassively.

"Who's she?" asked Mr. Martin.

"I don't know, sir. She couldn't speak a word of anything but French."

Why Was Rodney So Different From Old Clark's Boy Elery?

Marie was off today, sir, and nobody else could get anything out of her. She claims she had a letter of introduction to you from your Paris partner, M. Rivard.

"Has Rivard lost his mind?" muttered Martin. "Was he old or young or pretty or what?"

"I couldn't say, sir. You can't sometimes always tell with them French ladies, sir."

"A letter from Rivard?" muttered Martin. "I don't believe it. He's never given any one a letter to me without tipping me off. Johnson, hand me that fat red book in the lower right hand corner there."

Johnson did so, and Mr. Martin began turning over the leaves rapidly, observing.

"You know, Johnson, it's easier to read French than to speak it."

"So I understand, sir," returned the butler.

"Beaurien, Beaurien—oh, here she is, Beaurien. No, she is not. A fake, Johnson, just as I supposed. The Countess de Beaurien is seventy years old, and at her death the title becomes extinct. Was the lady this afternoon as old as seventy, Johnson?"

"Oh, no, sir. Not at all, sir."

"Are you sure she asked for me and not Mr. Rodney?"

"Quite sure, sir. Miss Grayson was here, sir, and can tell you. We had a time of it."

"Some lady going into business to do America or the Americans," was Mr. Martin's inward comment. "Anybody else?" he asked aloud.

"Yes, sir," said Johnson. "Miss Grayson."

"What was she like?" demanded Mr. Martin, laughing too.

"Well, she was really rather fascinating," Mr. Martin began, taking her cue from this encouragement. "And stunning too. The French always are, don't you think? And she had on a duck of a dress. She walked straight in and looked straight at me and began to jabber like a streak of lightning. The French fairly flew out of her mouth. I told her it was impossible for her to see Mr. Martin—that he was confined to the house by a severe attack of gout, and couldn't she leave her message?"

"And did she?"

"Well, her message sounded something like this: 'Jedestrepieramonsieur Martin a propos des AFFAIRES. Je suis riche mais ne puis aller a Paris. Si je pouvais obtenir le renseignement sur son adresse, j'irais le lui donner.'"

"Now who was that, Johnson?"

"He was calling on Mr. Rodney, sir," said Johnson. "He's been here several times, but never left his card before."

A press agent from a Broadway show after Rodney? The young man's father groaned inwardly. "Oh, Lord," he thought, "what next? Visions of breach of promise, of blackbird dinners, or even elopements, flashed through his mind. This settled it. Rodney simply must be anchored somehow."

"Is Mr. Rodney in, Johnson?" was the next inquiry.

"No, sir. Not now, sir."

"Do you know where he is now?"

"From 1 to 2 he was at a downtown restaurant at lunch, sir. From 2:30 to 3 he was at the horse auction company looking at a new hunter, sir. From 4 to 5 he's at the Municipal club, sir."

"Good heavens, Johnson, how do you know all that?" exclaimed Mr. Martin.

"Because he left the telephone number, sir, and I was to let him know if Miss Grayson came in, sir."

"And has she been here, Miss Grayson?"

"Yes, sir; she's been here since 4 o'clock, sir, doing some typing. She's still waiting for you."

"Why the devil didn't you say so, then?"

"I was coming to it presently, sir."

"Tell her to come in, then, to the library. And, Johnson, don't you bother to ring up and tell Mr. Rodney anything, do you understand?"

"Yes, sir. Nothing, sir."

It was really faithless of Johnson, the soap king thought, to betray Rodney's well laid plans, but Rodney's father had plans of his own in frustration. Let that silly son Johnson think what he had a mind to. He didn't want Mary Grayson for himself, and he didn't care if she was poor. She came of good stock—he had known her mother—and there could be many a worse fate for Rodney than being caught in her net. He was not sure, in point of fact, if the girl wasn't spreading her nets quietly. The old man was a shrewd judge of character, and there was an idea taking shape in the back of his mind that Mary Grayson might help him earn that $30,000.

Mary Grayson! Well, what made young men work? Love, sometimes, and poverty and necessity. The first might stir Rodney up if not the second and third. But why not all three? "She stoops to conquer," he muttered to himself. To tell the truth he had heard this phrase all his life without really taking in the meaning of it. Now he had seen the old farce comedy pretty played not long ago, and the hackneyed title of it had been ringing in his ears with rather a new meaning. Rodney might be made to stoop to be conquered—to conquer himself and his laziness of a rich man's son. On Mary Grayson's part it was not really stooping if he considered Rodney's mentality and character. He admitted it slyly. If Rodney could find an incentive in Mary Grayson, the stenographer, what did old man Martin care? He knew her for a good girl, as she was a pretty one, and nice in speech and manners than some of the widows who made heavy eyes at him from the windows of their limousines. Lots of old fellows, he thought, might feel like making up to Mary themselves. And why not? Well, one reason for Cyrus Martin was that he had known her mother. Besides—"Did you want me, Mr. Martin?" said Miss Grayson quietly, interrupting Mr. Rodney's reverie.

Miss Mary Grayson was as pretty as her name. Her bright round eyes, that were too full of merry shrewdness to be merely doll-like, her dazzling teeth, her clear and rosy skin, her well bred figure and attractive way of dressing, made up a whole that old Martin never saw without some inward breathing of contentment. Old Martin looked up at her now with a sigh.

"Well, how are you today, Mistress Mary?" he said aloud.

"Very well indeed, thank you, Mr. Martin. I'm always well," said Miss Grayson. "Have you any letters for me today?"

They had got into the way for the last six weeks or so of having her come up to the house occasionally when Mr. Martin did not feel equal to going to the office.

"Yes, a few. But there's no hurry," he answered presently.

"Oh, by the way, Miss Grayson," he went on, "Johnson tells me you were here when that countess called this afternoon. What did you make of her?"

"Nothing, I'm sorry to say, Mr. Martin," replied Mary, laughing. "It was really too funny. I feel as Johnson said, that my education has been neglected. I regret that I was not better educated, ma'am," he said to her.

Mary went on in a low voice, "I was a little disappointed when I saw that the Countess de Beaurien was not the person I had heard of."

"What was she like?" demanded Mr. Martin, laughing too.

"Well, she was really rather fascinating," Mr. Martin began, taking her cue from this encouragement. "And stunning too. The French always are, don't you think? And she had on a duck of a dress. like this has ever happened to me before, miss, but I can't make her comprehend anything I say. She just sits and waits."

"What was she like?" demanded Mr. Martin, laughing too.

"Because he left the telephone number, sir, and I was to let him know if Miss Grayson came in, sir."

"Aren't you a little hard on Rodney, Mr. Martin?" asked Mary gently.

"Are you a little sweet on Rodney, Miss Mary?" retorted the soap king gruffly.

She had her head bent over her work, and he couldn't see her features during this colloquy. He would have to carry the plummet line a little deeper.

"Because if you are," he went on, "I warn you, you'll have to marry him for love. He'll get no money from me unless he makes good. I shall make a will leaving him only an annuity, the principal to go to charity when he has idled himself into his grave, and I'll see to it that the annuity isn't quite enough for two, let me tell you, let alone a family of kids. I don't propose to have him or a lot of worthless grandrats making ducks and drakes of my money when I'm gone."

"I see," said Miss Grayson. "Of course it's none of my business. Anything else, sir?"

A motor bus screeching along outside came to a full stop at the corner. Mr. Martin, who had begun to pace the room as he talked, forgetting his convenient or inconvenient gout, lingered at the window and saw two women alight and stand talking in definitely on the sidewalk. In one of the window panes where the curtains darkened it and made a mirror he could see Mary's pretty head drooping a little, giving her body a suddenly pensive air as she gazed abstractedly into the dying fire. He turned and spoke again and was pleased to see that she started involuntarily.

"Would you mind ringing for Johnson, my dear?" he asked, more pleasantly.

Mary rose and pressed the button and then sat down again as before. Johnson came presently and obediently replenished the fire, while Cyrus Martin twiddled his knees and small change in his trousers pockets. When Johnson's stiff back had disappeared through the doorway he began again on another tack.

"Look here, Mary," he demanded in a frank tone. "I want your help. You can help me if you will, and if you benefit by it yourself, why so much the better. Pitch in and catch Rodney if you want him. I should be glad of it. Only there would be one condition."

Beneath this direct attack the girl did finally blush a little. She gathered herself together again, however, and folded up her book by way of recapturing her composure.

"Why, Mr. Martin," she said, "what an idea!"

"Why is it such an idea? Is there nothing to attract a young fellow and a good looking girl like you to each other? You're too modest, Miss Mary."

"I'm not a judge of that, Mr. Martin," said Mary.

"Oh, yes, you are!" retorted her employer. "And I'm not so sure you're not quite willing myself."

"But I think you're very unkind to me," protested Mary, taking another cue. "You appeal to my woman's curiosity. Supposing for the sake of argument, that your son and I are madly in love with each other, what are your conditions?"

"Well," said her employer, "I tell you frankly I don't want to lose that $30,000 to John Clark, and I do want to stir Rodney up. He needs an incentive, and I've been ransacking my brains to find the right one. And I think I've found it. I think it's you."

"I, Mr. Martin? Do you really think so?" she expostulated demurely.

"Yes, I do really think so, Miss Grayson," he mimicked.

"Don't you think it's just perversity?" persisted Mary. "Do you think Rodney would really care about me if he could have me just for the asking? I don't see how I can help you at all."

"Oh, yes, you can! And I'll tell you just how. I want Rodney to work for his money and his wife together. I'm going to turn him out of here."

"Turn him out, Mr. Martin? What ever do you mean?"

"Just what I say—turn him out, throw him overboard. Didn't you ever hear of the old admiral who taught his children to swim by throwing them overboard? The girls as well as the boys. If they didn't drown they swam, he said. But they usually swam."

"But they might have drowned," objected Mary, with a pretty shudder.

"No," said old Cyrus, with a villain's chuckle. "I've got it all doped out. I'll turn him out, right enough. I'll find a good excuse for it. I'm mad enough with him half the time. Look here, Mary, has Rodney proposed to you yet?"

"Well, really, Mr. Martin," stammered the secretary, "do you really think—"

"Well, the next time he proposes you're to accept him. See? You're to tell him you'll have him if his father consents, and then send him to ask me. That'll be my big scene."

"You'll say yes—you'll refuse?" stutted Mary, showing some concern in the success of the plot, despite her efforts to be detached and business-like.

"Consent? No! That's my cue for turning him out of my house forever," roared the stage father, working himself up into quite an advanced condition of parental fury. "Let him marry a typewriter! (Don't let that hurt your feelings, my dear.) Let some designing woman get her hands on him for rich man's son! (Business of indignation, my dear.) I'll turn him down and out in proper fashion. Upon my word I feel like doing it this minute."

"But there's one chance you've overlooked, Mr. Martin," resumed Mary, pursing her pretty mouth slightly at the corners.

"What's that?"

"That he may not propose to me again—I mean at all," she corrected.

"Well, then, I'll disinherit him for sure," roared the soap king. "Now, be off with you, too, before I lose my temper."

But as Mary turned to go he called after her again, "Wait a flat, pretty back she had, he thought, subconsciously, as he watched her lay her hand on the door handle."

"Rodney, why don't you do something worth while?"

bargained for with the old magnate upstairs. Rodney showed only too plainly that he had something on his mind. He drew her into a small reception room on the first floor and made her sit down. It was a little pink and gold room which was never used except for a cloakroom when dinner was given or the housekeeper engaged a new servant. Lately Mary's typewriter had come to figure in the bargain.

Staff of High School Students Publishes One of the Livest Periodicals of its Kind

F.W.H.S. THE CALDRON STAFF 1916

There is a gay young thing among the periodicals of this land that bears the name of "Caldron." It is a husky infant, too, and has become one of the leaders in the social set in which it travels. The Caldron is the high school paper that makes its appearance each school month from the Barry street knowledge emporium.

For some dozen years the Caldron has gone forth from Fort Wayne to spread throughout the world that the Fort Wayne high is a live institution, and that its students are in the front rank in high school literary attainments.

But this year promises to be the best the Caldron has ever known. A crowd of as lively and enthusiastic magazine workers as ever chewed pencils and waited for genius to burn in the charge of the sheet this year, and the result is bound to be a real paper, a high school journal with a punch.

The Caldron staff. The medley of pained expressions to the left in the accompanying group is the Caldron staff. They were caught in the paper's editorial room one afternoon this week, and assumed the aforementioned and above-reproduced cast-iron countenances while they waited for the flashlight to go off, when to a score of the high schoolers are members of the staff, and it keeps them busy in their spare moments propounding the wisdom that is given to the world in each issue of "your valuable paper." The managing editor is John Kinner Blitz. He is the general manager of the paper. It is on his shoulders that the responsibility falls, and he has more than one man's share of work to accomplish.

It is this same John Kinner Blitz who is required by his oath of office to fight with the printer, keep the desk in order, write the editorials, discourage youthful authors who have more enthusiasm than style, read the proof, and put out the cat at night.

He is ably assisted by one Houghton Taylor, whose handsome visage adorns the starboard gunwale of the pictures. The dignified personage to the left of Mr. Blitz is Harry Warfel, business manager. It is his solemn duty to go out on dark nights with a lead pipe and hit business men for ads. The thing behind his ear is a penholder, which he keeps loaded, and he right now is suffering from writers' cramp. He freely admits that the Caldron is the best advertising medium to be obtained anywhere between New York and Singapore, and describes the merits

The Caldron. The Caldron has grown steadily since its inception, and has developed from a flabby little sheet into a booklet of considerable size and an unquestionable dignity. The department of jokes is the only relic of barbarism that remains between its covers, and even this is rapidly being civilized. As proof of this astounding statement one instance may be cited. The alleged joke concerning the freshman who said "I see you keep a bee" hasn't been published in night unto two years.

Last year the Caldron issued an annual booklet that was one of the most remarkable bits of literature ever turned off the press in this city. In it the name, date of graduation, present address and present occupation of every person who ever was graduated from Fort Wayne high in its fifty years of existence was published.

The "oldest inhabitants" were in a state of nervous collapse before the work was completed, but the number was worth every bit of the effort that was put on it, as it presents in concise form a history of Fort Wayne men and women that never could be produced in any other way.

But this year the school is working hard for a better and bigger Caldron, and the staff in charge of it is intent on making this the most successful season in the history of the paper. May luck be with ye, Caldronites. Go to it, do your worst.

KEY TO ILLUSTRATIONS.

Pictures and article by COUNTY AGENT C. HENRY.

Allen county has more milking cows than any other county in the state of Indiana and leads in the number of gallons of milk produced. We have about 12,000 cows, with an annual production of approximately 6,000,000 gallons of milk. This is an average of 500 gallons per cow, or 4,300 pounds. Average milk test 4 per cent, butter fat, which sells at about thirty cents per pound. Our average production of butter fat is 172 pounds per cow. This would sell for $51.60, or the total county production for $619,200.00.

To the average man who did not take the time to analyze these figures, our dairy industry would seem to be an enormous wealth producer for Allen county. If all of the items of expense in keeping a dairy cow were counted up, we would find these average cows were mere boarders, many of them mill stones around the financial necks of the owners. Feed, housing, taxes, interest on investment, and labor being the yearly cost of keeping a dairy cow in Allen county up to about $55. Not much profit in cows costing us $55 a year to keep, and returning to us but $51.60. A farmer having ten such cows might believe he was making money out of them, as they would be bringing him a gross return of $516, but if he went into his business a little deeper, he would find himself out just $34 for his trouble.

How to Make Money.

There are many cows in our county bringing in a gross return of $100 and more, leaving a handsome profit. As many more of them, however, are below the average. Shall we conclude, then, that there is no money in dairying and quit the business? The one way out is to use nothing but bulls having a long record of producers behind them. Ohio State university found that a pure-bred dairy bull was worth, to the first generation of offspring, $1,000 more than a scrub. These two bulls were crossed on the same herd of common cows on two successive years.

Eleven heifer calves resulted in one instance and seven in the other. The offspring of the scrub bull averaged 30 pounds of butter fat per year less than their dams, while the offspring from the pure-bred bull average 40 pounds of butter fat more than their dams. This made a difference of 70 pounds of butter fat per year in the offspring of the two bulls crossed on the same cows. This 70 pounds of butter fat would sell for $21. The production would continue to increase with each generation as long as a good bull was used.

Poor Business Methods.

The whole trouble is that the average farmer is a poor business man. The average farmer does not know how much butter fat each of his cows produces. In an average farm herd there are a few cows that are really making a profit, most of them mere boarders, and some that are losing the farmer money every day they are kept on the farm. Dairy records and a pure-bred bull of high breeding would soon eliminate the money-losers and make each generation higher producers than the last. Milk records require but very little time, and will pay high dividends. The Babcock test for butter fat is simple, and the only test that is reliable. The whole outfit, milk scales, tester and record sheets would cost about seven dollars, and would be the most profitable investments on the farm. The county agent stands ready at any time to demonstrate the proper method of keeping of these records and making the test to any group of individuals that may ask.

Only Three Creameries.

Allen county is as well situated for the dairy industry as any county in the state. Our transportation facilities are of the best, our soils are big crop producers, and our farms are of sufficient size. Yet our county, the largest in the state, has but three creameries.

SHOWS MUST BE KEPT CLEAN SAYS BOARD

Public Safety Department
Orders Police Head to Watch Burlesque.

That all performances in Fort Wayne theaters must conform strictly to accepted canons of decency or the theaters must be closed was the edict that went forth from the office of the board of safety after the regular meeting of that body Friday evening. Chief of Police Charles Lenz was directed to visit the Empress theater Saturday and if the performance at that playhouse transgressed rational propriety to order it stopped. He was also directed to inspect the Sunday performance at the Majestic theater, where a "girl show" is booked for that day, and pursue a similar course. The Empress theater already has announced a change of policy that its management expresses belief will allay the objections that have raised a protest against its performances. This action by the board of safety followed a conference Friday afternoon with Mayor W. J. Hosey with a committee representing the Fort Wayne Ministerial association and the Men's Christian league—the former represented by Rev. A. K. Zartman, of Grace Reformed church; Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, of Plymouth Congregational church, and Rev. C. O. Shirley, of Bethany Presbyterian church, and the league represented by President J. A. Price and Attorney W. L. Balton. The object of the conference, which was held at the city hall, was to ask the mayor to take steps to stop the burlesque shows. No question of the Sunday theaters was at the time raised. Mayor Hosey called the attention of the board of safety to the burlesque shows in a note he drafted before he left later in the afternoon for Rome City. The board took the action already detailed.

DEDICATION OF NEW SCHOOL.

Harmar Building's Completion.

From 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8:15 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock in the evening, Friday, October 22, the Harmar school building, the handsomest in the city and the latest to be completed, will be the scene of interesting ceremonies of dedication. The general committee of which Councilman Jacob Hartman is chairman, arranged the program at a meeting in the city hall, Thursday afternoon. The school will be dismissed for the afternoon and the patrons of the school and the public generally are invited to inspect the building. Five thousand carnations will be distributed. The public school's string orchestra will render a program in the afternoon, under the direction of Prof. G. J. Thompson. In the evening there will be music by the Elks' band, and the following program of five-minute speeches:

Jacob Hartman, who will make the introductory remarks; Prof. Justin N. Study, superintendent of schools and chairman of the celebration, who will talk on "Our School System"; Mayor William J. Hosey, "Our City"; W. H. Shambaugh, "Our Playgrounds"; E. W. Cook, "History of the Harmar School"; Professor Louis Dorn, "Civic Progress"; Jesse Macbeth, "Growth of the School City"; Harry H. Hilgmann, "Education"; and E. G. Hoffmann, "Greater Fort Wayne."

END OF PAVING PROGRAM NEAR.

Grace Company Will Complete Its City
Work in Two Weeks.

The completion of the 1917 paving program in Fort Wayne is near and will be reached in two weeks or less. The Grace Construction company will finish its concrete work on State boulevard Tuesday and will have the top put on within a week or ten days later. The company has completed the curbs and gutters on its portion of Wayne trace and has begun grading. Wednesday it will start to put in concrete. The job is small and will be completed soon. The McQuay-Norris construction company has the contract for the concrete portion of the pavement from Summer street to the Pennsylvania right of way, but may not complete the work this fall.

Youse was still in her bed at her boarding house, 250 West Main street, and had denied herself to all callers save most intimate friends. She refused to see newspaper men and was unable to keep an appointment with Chief of Police Lenz at his office during the forenoon.

Is Now Much Worried.

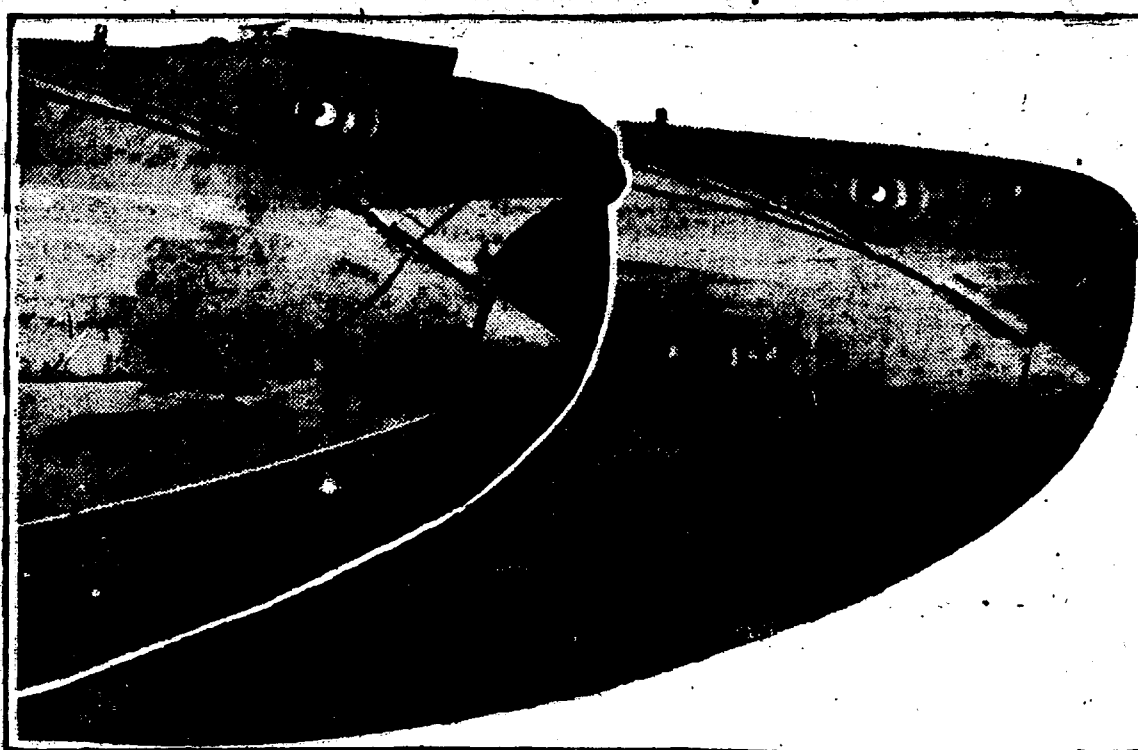

After talking with friends and some of her boarders, who were familiar with the details of Warne's operations in Fort Wayne, Mrs. Youse, who at first on her return expressed confidence that the man her daughter had married would return here soon and vindicate all his claims as to himself, began to be worried about her daughter. She expressed great anxiety for the welfare of Beulah and became intensely anxious for word from her. Up to noon she had received no word from Beulah, although when she left Warne and Beulah at Gary, Friday evening, when she took the train for Fort Wayne, the girl had promised to write at once.

Friday evening Mrs. Youse stated that the couple would take a short honeymoon trip and return to Fort Wayne probably about Sunday evening. That was the expectation she expressed to Chief Lenz in the long-interview she had with the Fort Wayne police head in his office.

She then was very reluctant to talk and it was with difficulty that the chief gained any information from her. She seemed to still have faith in her daughter's husband and appeared very indignant that sensational stories had been printed about herself and the couple. Went Through Union Station.

According to Mrs. Youse, herself, Beulah and Warne went straight to Chicago on the Pennsylvania train that bore them from Fort Wayne and they disembarked in the Union station in Chicago, where no questions were asked them. The Chicago police are known to have been notified to look out for the trio in ample time to have the station watched when the train arrived. Warne took them to a hotel, the name and location of which Mrs. Youse says she does not remember, and they were well provided for by Warne. The man seemed to be well acquainted with many persons whom he met while with the women and they were more than ever impressed that he was all he claimed to be. He wanted to spend money and Mrs. Youse says he frequently asked her to choose things for her own use or pleasure, but that she did not do so.

THE FISH THAT GUARD UNCLE SA M'S SHORES.

But they're not fish. These are the noses of two of our submarine s, taken as they lay side-by-side in a dry-dock at an Atlantic navy yard. Don't the hawser holes look like eyes, and don't the forward plates and the way they're put together look like gnat mouths?

Works a Chicago Jeweler.

In Chicago Warne took the women to a large jewelry store, with whose proprietor or manager Warne appeared to be well known and in that establishment about $500 worth of diamonds and other jewelry were selected. None of these purchases were taken away from the store, some of the rings requiring changes to make them fit.

Warne displayed his evidences of financial ability and was accompanied to the Continental and Commercial National bank, the great banking institution in Chicago and the second largest in the United States, where Warne made a deposit of his Fort Wayne certificates and cashed a check. This check Mrs. Youse thinks was for $50. Later the jeweler returned to his store, where the women were awaiting Warne's return, and stated that Warne and the president of the bank were evidently old friends, members of the same lodge and were having a friendly chat that was taking more time than the merchant could spare from his business and he had returned. Later Warne came back and left the store.

Knew Mrs. Youse's Old Friends.

Mrs. Youse states that after Warne had come to her home to board last week she discovered that he knew many of her early friends in her old home and was intimately acquainted with some of her relatives. His familiarity with names and places was intimate and detailed and made Warne seem to her like an old acquaintance. It was this line of work that evidently deceived the woman and her daughter and made it easy for Warne to creep far into their confidence.

Beulah Youse, who worked at the Boston store, left there Saturday night and did not return Monday to go to work and it was said that on Sunday she accepted Warne's proffer of marriage. A story is told that on Saturday Beulah wrote from the store to her mother that she was not to get rid of Warne; that she would not marry him and that this epistle was entrusted for delivery to a boy whose curiosity led him to read the unsealed letter.

Was Furnishing an Establishment.

Early in the week Warne and the two women went to the big furniture establishment of Fox Bros. & Co., Calhoun and Washington streets, and there selected about $5,000 worth of furniture with which to outfit the Cressler home, which Warne claimed to have purchased.

A rich dining room suite valued at $1,400, a gorgeous bedroom suite valued at $800—including a bedstead that was ostensibly to be the nuptial couch—and other furnishings to correspond were selected. None of this furniture was removed and was not paid for. It was merely "selected."

It was a part of the splendor and magnificence of the scale upon which Warne was providing for his pretty young bride, just as was the case when he took her to a department store, where some $600 or $700 worth of clothing for a tresson was picked out and some of it taken.

BIG LABOR MAN TO SPEAK.

Arthur E. Holder, of Washington, D. C., a member of the standing law committee of the International Association of Machinists, will be the principal speaker Monday evening at a meeting of local machinists to be held at the Elks' temple. Mr. Holder is also a member of the legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor and is regarded as one of the best posted men on labor matters in the country.

COOKERY WAS FORGOTTEN.

The fire department was called at 12:57 o'clock Saturday to 318 Harrison street, where someone had forgotten to take some victuals off the stove when they were cooked. Everything was burnt to a crisp and the entire house was filled with a dense smoke. There was no loss.

Chester Hinton returned on Friday from a two weeks' visit in Chicago.

There are families in Fort Wayne and Allen County to whom we have furnished Housekeeping Outfits for three generations. The good will of our store—built up through fifty years of honorable, truthful merchandising—is the most valuable asset of our business and the highest recommendation our store could have for the patronage of both old and new residents of Fort Wayne.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—Further progress for the armies of Field Marshal von Mackensen invading Serbia is reported by the war office today. The storming of positions south of Semendria and east of Pozarevac is announced. Bulgarian troops are progressing also in their attack and have taken the eastern fort of Zajevar.

An attempt by the French to capture a German position east of Aubervie in the Champagne, was repulsed with a loss to the French of more than 600 men in prisoners and three machine-guns. German army headquarters announced today. Attacks near Soudain. Les Menil and Lantrey also failed.

KING FERDINAND'S MANIFESTO.

Declaration of War.

London, Oct. 16.—Reciprocal war declarations between Bulgaria and Great Britain and Serbia, together with King Ferdinand's manifesto to the Bulgarian people, defining Bulgaria's cause and intentions, have marked another phase in the Balkan situation, which is slowly emerging from obscurity.

Greece's decision not to join forces with Serbia "at present," although causing profound disappointment in England and is regarded by many London commentators as equivocal and as violating the obligations to Serbia has, at least, been announced in words permitting of no further doubt as to the immediate position of affairs which, however, circumstances might alter at any moment.

Roumania remains the only sphynx-like figure in the Balkans. She, according to a telegram received in Paris from Bucharest, has decided to maintain strict neutrality, but this is not taken in London to be a definite answer.

Field Marshal von Mackensen's campaign against Serbia is developing with a slowness that is very gratifying to the allies of Serbia. He has advanced slightly and made some captures, but his troops, according to advices received in the British capital, have so far obtained no important results.

Ferdinand's Manifesto.

A copy of the manifesto of King Ferdinand to the Bulgarians, portions of which were forwarded from Sofia recently by telegraph, reached London today. The manifesto implies Bulgaria has no quarrel with the entente powers. It explains that they, like Germany, were prepared to give Bulgaria the greater part of Macedonia.

"Our treacherous neighbor, Serbia, alone remained inflexible in the face of the advice of her friends and allies," the manifesto continues. "Far from listening to their counsels, Serbia, in animosity, stupidly attacks our territory and our brave troops have been forced to fight for the defense of their own soil."

In conclusion King Ferdinand says: "The European war is nearing a close; with the victorious armies of the central empire in Serbia are advancing rapidly. I command our valiant army to drive the enemy from the limits of our kingdom and crush this felon neighbor. We shall fight the Serbs at the same time as the brave armies of the central empires."

On the Western Front.

On the western front the chief activity is reported along the French line, where small French advantages have been equalled, if not overshadowed by German gains, the French being forced to surrender some trenches in the Vosges under a heavy bombardment and a far-flung infantry attack. The Germans also have gained some ground in the Champagne region.

The British front has undergone no change, according to Sir John French, the British commander-in-chief. The Germans claim to have recaptured many of the trenches taken Wednesday by the British at Loos.

No. 2, the second $100 was voted for the benefit of the striking car men.

Complaint was made to the police Friday by Elmer Boeger, 1914 Hanna street, that while he was driving a horse and wagon on Pontiac street, the rig was struck by an eastbound city car, No. 204, badly damaging it. Boeger was thrown to the pavement and injured. The accident occurred at Pontiac and Hanna streets.

No Arrests in Gun Attack.

No arrests have been made by the police in the case of a strike-breaking crew who are said to have displayed firearms Friday night when a brick was thrown into a car on West Main street. The attack on the car was made about 11 o'clock and the crew got out and searched for the person who threw the brick. They are said to have drawn revolvers. A crowd gathered soon, but the car was started down town and was met at the transfer corner by Police Sergeant Zwick and Patrolmen Barr, Coulter and Hartzell. The members of the crew were searched, but only the motorman was found to have a weapon. This was taken to headquarters and the motorman was permitted to take his car to the barn.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.

New York, Oct. 15.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $158,263,720 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $1,111,000 from last week.

Madison and "Queen Dolly."

Cupid has dared to dictate to President Wilson and by now you are pretty well acquainted with his pretty love affair and of plans for his approaching marriage.

But are you familiar with the romances of other presidents of the United States—for many have had real romances. Here is the story of Madison and "Queen Dolly."

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

W SHORT HAUL FREIGHT TERMINAL

Nickel Plate Will Change from Continental to West Leipsic.

The lay-over point for the short hauls on the Nickel Plate is to be changed from Continental to Leipsic, according to news from the latter place. Nickel Plate has arranged to enter its yards and put in a turntable at Leipsic, but the mayor and village council secured an injunction against the more tracks across the main line of the town and the turntable was abandoned. Continental has used the terminal of the short hauls, however, but the engines had to run to Leipsic to be turned and the Nickel Plate filed a "kick" against the extra cost this arrangement made. Now, it is said, the terminal is to be changed to Leipsic and the ten or twelve crews away over night at Continental will be at Leipsic.

PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

Tresslar Has Only Slight Chance for Recovery.

Wabash official who came up from the town of Tresslar, Ill., this morning said that the condition of Daniel Tresslar, former Wayne resident, who was badly injured at Decatur last Thursday, is not improving. The attending surgeon has a chance for recovery, but very slight. Mrs. Elizabeth Tresslar, 323 West Williams street, the wife of the young man, is at his bedside in the Decatur hospital. Daniel went to Decatur with a number of other Wabash employees about a year ago. He is twenty-seven years old.

COMMITTEE TAKES A REST.

J. Schwanz, who represents the Wayne shopmen in the conference with the Wabash officials, came last night. The conference is complete and will be resumed next morning. There is no possibility of trouble arising out of this, it is said. The conference, and particularly those who go to the federated crafts—machinists, boiler-makers, pipe-fitters, black-and-car repairmen—are seeking working rule changes, as well as an increase in wages. The conference was held with E. F. Ham, superintendent of motive power, at Decatur.

EXAMINING A PENSION APPLICATION.

A pension examining board of the Voluntary Relief association of the Pennsylvania is looking into the application of William E. Emme, a stoker in the company's local yard, who seeks retirement on the illty clause. One of the members of the board is Dr. J. M. Kells, of Columbus, formerly of this city, who is in advantage of his presence here to a number of his old friends. William Emme worked for the company thirty-five years.

BACK FROM LAKE OUTING.

Engineers J. B. Maurer, D. H. Gray, E. H. Pierce and E. W. Crosby and men B. E. Ambler, Herman G. Man, Theo. C. Mungen, C. E. George, E. F. Union, of the Nickel Plate, E. L. Hutzler, of the Hutzler drug store, have returned from Lake James resumed their respective duties a week's absence. The outing at Lake was not a brilliant event in the of catching fish, but anything in that line was more than made up in other features. They had the time of their lives.

PILE DRIVER TO CHICAGO.

Work of setting the piling for Osage street subway under the Nickel Plate, has been temporarily interrupted by a shortage of material. About half of the piling was driven when the supply was exhausted and now had to quit. They went to Chicago this morning to get about 200 and when this work is completed, they will return here to resume at Osage street.

DUCTOR INJURED AT ADAMS.

Conductor C. L. Filley, who has a Pennsylvania work train, injured a badly sprained ankle this morning when his foot was turned under a stone when he alighted the caboose at Adams. He had to be up the run and will probably be unable to work for several days.

L SPEND WINTER IN SOUTH.

Mrs. Robert John will soon leave for Florida, where they will spend a part of the winter at least, and most of it. Mrs. John has been sick several months and the doctors in South will be undertaken in the that it will restore her health. John is a retired Nickel Plate engineer.

WILL BUILD A HOME.

B. Hughes, assistant foreman of Pennsylvania round house, has purchased a vacant lot at the corner of Pontiac street and Hoagland avenue and will immediately commence the erection of a house, which will be occupied by himself and family when it is completed.

LABORER LOSES A FINGER.

When Tony Christ, a helper in the Bass foundry, got his left hand caught in the gearing of a crane yesterday afternoon, the second finger was so badly crushed that the surgeon may have to amputate it and the third finger was severely lacerated. Dr. A. J. Kresler is the attending surgeon.

ROUND HOUSE EMPLOYEE HURT.

Karl Braun, of the Pennsylvania round house, sustained a painfully sprained ankle Thursday when his foot slipped upon a piece of round metal when he jumped into an engine pit. He can scarcely walk without a cane and will be off duty several days as a result of the injury.

YARD ENGINEER HAS FOOT HURT.

W. H. Ferguson, Pennsylvania yard engineer at Lima, Ohio, who resides in Fort Wayne, is at home with an injured foot. The member was bruised when a piece of metal fell upon it. Engineer R. Koch has taken Mr. Ferguson's place temporarily.

JOHN STANFORD RECOVERING.

FURLONGED FIREMEN RECALLED.

To meet the demands caused by the increasing traffic on the Nickel Plate, some of the furloughed firemen are being recalled. Yesterday S. Thomas, W. Kruse and J. Rider, firemen who were furloughed all summer, were recalled.

A movement looking towards inaugurating a moving picture show at the Wayne Knitting mills to entertain the employees who take their lunch during the noon hour. The matter is not fully decided, but it has strong supporters.

Thomas Pritchard, one of the veterans at the Bass foundry, resumed work there this morning, after several weeks of absence. He had been visiting his son in San Francisco and incidentally attending the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Ed J. Chavanne, a Nickel Plate engineer, who was temporarily firing on a passenger train with Engineer M. J. Marouney, has been advanced to running on freight and George Swartz has taken the place in the cab with Engineer Marouney.

R. J. Perry is a new man in the store room at the Western Gas works and the following are new employees in the boiler department: Boiler-maker Joseph Carlo and Helpers Merritt Pettit, Joseph McGary, Oscar Bieberich, C. Kesterson, William Baughman, Luke Cook, Elmer Krueger and Alfred Huth.

Passenger Engineer Peter Reilly, of the Pennsylvania, is off duty on account of sickness. Mr. Reilly is getting very near the retirement point of his railway career. He has worked many years for the Pennsylvania company, beginning as a fireman when wood was the only fuel on the road. When he became an engineer, injectors had not been invented and water was forced into the boiler only while the engine was in motion. One of the first trips as an engineer made by Mr. Reilly was during the prevalence of a terrific snow storm and his train became stalled.

After awhile water became low in the boiler and it was necessary to cut loose from the cars and start down the track to "pump up." The snow was several feet deep and Mr. Reilly had gone but a short distance, when his engine stalled and to his dismay, he was unable to move it either backwards or forwards and had to wait until the crew could shovel some of the snow off the tracks before he could get back to the train. The present day engineers and firemen are spared such unpleasant incidents, though they some time have their trains snowbound.

IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC.

LYMAN HOWE'S PICTURES
ONCE MORE THIS EVENING.

The most beautiful of universal expositions will be portrayed by Lyman H. Howe, at the Majestic again this evening. Just whether this means the exposition at San Francisco, or the one at San Diego, is a decision that rests with every spectator of Howe's Travel Festival, since the wondrous charm of each is set forth in all its glory in Howe's films, and so it becomes a matter of personal opinion after both are viewed through the lenses of Howe's cameras. But there is this much to be said—each is entirely different from the other in both general plan and in architecture, as well as in every essential detail. There is only one thing that both expositions have in common and that is that they are both celebrations of the same epoch-making event—the completion of the Panama Canal. But there the similarity ends. Not so with Howe's films, because they show also the event itself—the operation of the great waterway through the isthmus, as shown in the progress of a great modern steamship proceeding through the series of locks and lakes which constitute the canal. If the completion of the Panama Canal has been a task of stupendous magnitude triumphantly accomplished, so, too, have been the celebrations both at San Francisco and San Diego. The first impression imparted by Howe's films of the San Francisco exposition is apt to be one of bewilderment at the Aladdin-like city of palaces reared here. These wonderful colonnades and domes and towers embowered by tropical foliage of exquisite loveliness amaze the vision. The San Diego exposition has a haunting beauty all its own—a beauty that is beyond expression, yet it is entirely different from

AT THE TEMPLE.

"THE ROSARY."

Great Moral Play to Be Presented by Temple Players.

"The Rosary," undoubtedly the greatest dramatic success of the past few years, and the play that has thrilled more audiences than any other production, is to be the next attraction at the Temple. The play will run all of the coming week.

The story of "The Rosary" is that of Bruce Wilson, who has amassed a fortune and lavishes it on his wife. Their happiness is complete until discord creeps into the home and the two begin to drift apart. No one but Father Kelly, a good old priest, and Bruce's former tutor, sees the conditions, and the priest labors to find the cause. He comes too late to prevent the breaking up of the home and the drifting apart of Bruce and Vera, but not too late to bring them together again. With the faith that moves mountains and the belief that all things are good, the priest sets to work and, removing the cause of the discontent, brings his children together again.

"The Rosary" has had the endorsement of the clergy, Protestant and Catholic, and the lay theatre-goers have enthusiastically pronounced it the most soul stirring production on the stage. There is enough comedy to relieve the more serious situations, but the audience never for a moment loses sight of the great lesson as imparted by the good Father Kelly. Blosser Jenkins in the role of the parish priest, has a part into which he can throw every bit of his ability. The role has awakened his interest as no other role has, and has given him an opportunity to show a phase of his ability never shown here.

Tonight sees the close of "Our New Minister," this week's Temple success. Pleased as she was with the role of the evil-laden boy and successfully as she played it, Miss Hamerick is quite willing to get back into dresses again and to be her delightful self once more.

AT KEITH PALACE

"IN DREAMLAND."

Bob Matthews and Al Shayne Head Big Palace Bill.

"Dopey Penny," a character who has won his way into more hearts than any character in vaudeville, is at the head of the new Palace bill, which opens Monday afternoon. Bob Matthews, who has made the character famous, will be here with his partner, Al Shayne, clever portrayer of Hebrew characters, and they have with them as pretty a company of girls as has been seen here for some time. Their playlet opens with the dope fiend and the Hebrew merchant on a bench in New York, the Hebrew listening with amazement to the stories of the effects of the drug. He is prevailed upon to try some, and when he does so he is transported into the center of an ancient Egyptian tomb, where the mummies of Egyptian dancing girls are seen swathed in their grave clothes. The princess slowly unwinds the cloths from herself and the other mummies, and the girls then do one of the prettiest oriental dances, not the vulgar burlesque kind, but one full of beauty and grace, that a Fort Wayne public has yet seen. The third scene shows the dopey back on their bench, getting over the effects of the drug, and the act ends with a brisk song that captivates the audience and makes them want more.

Ethel Hopkins, daughter of J. D. Hopkins, one of vaudeville's pioneers, will be here with a delightful singing novelty. Miss Hopkins is decidedly good to look upon and she comes with the reputation of being some singer.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips, offering "Sweets to the Sweet," have something new. Their act is best described by a description of them. He—bunch of natural masculine qualities done up in 135 pounds, 5 feet and 6 inches. Youthfulness, enthusiasm and ambition protruding from all corners. She—bit of femininity, a dash of daintiness, a dot of impertinence, with an abundance of personality, packed in 94 pounds and five feet.

A comedy dialogue bristling with laughter, is that to be offered by La France & Bruce. These blackface comedians are coming with a trunkful of new ideas which they call "The Argument," and the audience gets a lot of fun out of the troubles of the two black men.

William Ferry, "The Frog," is coming in all of his slithering sliminess. He squirms, slithes, wriggles and serpentine wriggles himself through his act and convinces the audience that there is not a bone in his body that is not made of rubber or spaghetti. Other acts are those of Patricola & Meyers, and Paul La Varr & Bro.

The current bill, headed by Jovial Tom Lewis and his company of rapid fire funmakers, and with a string of other good numbers on the bill, continues to pack 'em into the Palace.

NEW POLICY NEXT WEEK.

Empress Abandons Burlesque Field for More Attractive Line.

Tonight will be your last chance to see Fads and Follies and incidentally burlesques at the Empress, for this popular little playhouse will undergo a complete change and any burlesque atmosphere that might have hid itself in a corner will be swept out. Starting next week a brand new policy will be introduced, which will be high class and refined musical comedy in tabloid form catering to ladies and children as well as gentlemen. There will be three shows daily, at 2:30, 7:45 and 9:00 p. m. and the prices will be within reach of all, being 10, 20 and 30 cents in the evening and a thousand seats for 10 cents and a few at 20 cents at the matinees. The shows will all be refined, the comedy clean and wholesome and fit for any lady or child to see.

The first attraction to appear under the new policy will be "The Battle of Pickle Hill." This is a roaring comedy with lots of new music and good singing, and several funny comedians to make you laugh till you cry. The "Battle of Pickle Hill" has been breaking all sorts of records wherever it has appeared and is reported as being one of the best musical shows on the road today. It carries a car load of special scenery and lighting effects, beautiful new costumes and everything that is necessary to make a good show. The cast will be one of exceptional merits, having several among it that have starred in musical attractions of much fame. George Bartlett and See A. Fitt are the principal comedians and are two very capable men for the jobs they are both experienced men in this line and have appeared in Fort Wayne several times with large productions. The remainder of the cast, Tom Duffy, Eddie Aiken, Billy Ballers, Edna Raymond and Irene Edwards are well known to musical comedy and are of exceptional talent. With all this "The Battle of Pickle Hill" should be a sure winner. The future attractions will all be of the same standard and there are some very good ones on the books to appear later. If you miss the big opening you are missing something worth while. You can sit in the front and be neutral and see one of the funniest wars you could imagine. Go to the Empress, take the wife and kiddies and have a good time.

Every Day to Be Ladies' Day. Every day will be ladies' day at the Empress hereafter and there will be matinees daily with 1,000 comfortable seats at 10 cents and a few reserved at 20 cents. Ladies and children are especially invited to attend and have a good time, and see a good show with plenty of what some comedy given out by expert comedians, brand new songs and pretty costumes. Beautiful scenery will always be seen and a good show is always assured. The evening prices will be very low, giving everyone an opportunity to see these wonderful productions. You can not afford to stay away from the Empress when you can see a two dollar attraction for 10, 20 and 30 cents.

through her moral awakening and the transforming power of a mother's love. A wonderful tale of love, politics and conspiracy tingling with tense moments of suspense and hair-raising situations of excitement, magnificently staged and acted by a company of seven stars, including that former matinee idol of the western coast, Marshall Mayall. An actual reproduction of the United States senate in full executive session is only one of the many big vital scenes which, with the ball at the executive mansion, form two of the most stupendous settings yet seen in a photoplay. This magnificent five part feature with Neal, of the Navy, and a Pathe comedy, forms one of the best Jefferson for many Saturdays.

YOUNG WIFE'S THROAT CUT; HUSBAND IS HELD

Connersville, Ind., Oct. 16.—Robert Davis, 30 years old, is in jail here charged with slashing his wife's throat with a pocket knife at their home yesterday afternoon. The victim, Ruth Davis, 19 years old, is probably fatally wounded, physicians say.

The husband was arrested at Liberty an hour after the attack. At Brownsville men saw him in a railroad box car and the door was slammed shut and bolted. The prisoner was dragged from the car heavily ironed, and was returned to this city by Sheriff Hendrickson.

Davis and his wife have been separated. Neighbors assert he went home in an angry mood and loud voices were heard. A few minutes later Mrs. Davis began screaming, and the husband dashed from the house and made his escape, brandishing the knife covered with blood. The woman tottered through the door and fell unconscious on the sidewalk. The wound in her throat extended from ear to ear and her shoulders and back also were slashed. A wound nine inches long and two inches deep was opened just below her right shoulder.

Davis has a police record. He told the officers, it is said, that he was sorry to hear that his wife was yet alive.

FORMER PURDUE MEN ATTEND HOMECOMING

Fifty former Purdue students left Saturday morning at 6:30 o'clock in a special car over the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company's line for Lafayette to attend the Wisconsin-Purdue football game and the annual homecoming celebration. The trip was made in three hours and thirteen minutes. A large number also went by way of the Wabash railroad, nine leaving on the early morning train and more on the train leaving at 11:30 o'clock.

IN MOOSE CIRCLES.

A large class of candidates will be initiated Tuesday evening, October 26, by the Loyal Order of Moose. Sunday afternoon the Mooseheart legion will initiate a class of candidates. A special meeting of the Women's Loyal Moose circle will be held Sunday afternoon, when eleven candidates will be initiated.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE UNDERWORLD

By ONE WHO HAS LEFT IT

In the underworld there is an active, industrious and capable class of thieves whose operations are remarkably profitable, but of whom the general public seldom or never hears, although they are quite numerous. Even in the underworld itself comparatively little is known of the extent of this remunerative graft, because the masters of it are careful to protect themselves, as far as possible, against imitation.

The victims are in most cases reputable business and family men, either from out of town or away from their own neighborhoods, who much prefer to conceal their losses rather than enter the limelight of newspaper publicity sure to follow complaint to the police. Indeed, more often than not any complaint seems folly, because they seldom know just how or by whom they were "trimmed."

VICTIM'S LIPS SEALED.

There is another reason—more or less powerful as an influence in the grafters' favor—the victim, if a "ripe sucker," is at a loss to paint his own conduct with the harmonious color-tone that the artistic nature of his wife demands in all the word-pictures he may depict for her of his actions.

These thieves are called "lush grafters" and "sharks." As a rule two work together, but the cleverest of them play lone hands. They are expert "tools" (pickpockets) who do the actual stealing, as distinguished from "stalls," who merely divert the victim's attention while the "tooling" is done, whose appearance, dress, personality, conversational powers, tend to stamp them as honest, substantial gentlemen.

Some years ago I was working for a "fence" (receiver of stolen goods). He and I were sitting in the "shop" together and a big man of about 40 years walked in. At first I took him to be a "dick" (detective), one of the many who came in there on private business which had to do with their well-known (in the underworld) money hunger. My well-dressed stranger was a regular thief who carried no police badge. The fence bought three gold watches from him of considerable value and he went out.

"Did you take notice of that shark?" asked the boss.

"Yes," I replied. "Who is he?"

"You would not think to look at him, that he has killed more than twenty-five men in his time, now, would you?"

"No," said I. "How did he kill them?"

"With knock-out drops—before he finally got wise how to use the stuff right."

A few days later I was "shooting craps" in a gambling house and this same shark "gave me the office to quit, but I paid no attention to his signal—I was a loser and was bent on getting even—then he came over to my side and whispered in my ear: 'Say, you are working for' ain't you?"

"Yes," I nodded.

"Well, he is friend of mine—you are in bad here. Quit, the dice are crooked."

Thus was started a friendship between one of the most interesting characters in the criminal world and myself. This friendship has stood the test of time over many years.

"Big Hiram," we will call him, with his bonny smile, ready wit and sympathetic blue eyes that truly bespoke absolute fearlessness, could win the confidence of a sucker—were he old or young, quick-witted or stupid. They all fell for Big Hiram's winning ways, and to tell the truth he was dependable and trustworthy in everything but money matters. Hiram could be depended upon to "clean a mark" of all his valuables without a "blow" (detection), but when it came to splitting up—well, he preferred to set, with his partner, when possible, an opposing cipher in .50 per cent to .05 per cent—we all have our little weaknesses.

PIRATES OFF FOR CRUISE.

I will take you with Hiram and I (Hi now works without the knock-out drops) as the silent observer of an evening's work, but you must be careful to pay strict attention to us only and close your eyes to others engaged in the same. It would not do to observe too closely every one you meet, for among them you might see an occasional front of office dick and hear him ask: "Any suckers stirring tonight, boys? Don't forget papa." And in that event your taxpayer's heart might skip a few beats.

I met Hiram by appointment.

"Hello, Hiram, I see you are on time. It's 8 o'clock—let's go."

"All right, Senator."

We strolled down C—street and Hi, the tool, stands outside while I, the stall, with keen powers of deduction and appraisal, enter a cafe and buy a cigar. Standing drinking at the bar are three friends in fine fettle. From their talk I gather that one is an "out of townner." They look like "solid" men—the visiting one is sporting a "beautiful front" (gold watch and chain)—all three have several drinks and are feeling up to snuff. The prospect is good, so out I go to Hiram. "Come in in two minutes. The mark is from Sioux City, all dressed up in a gray suit with green tie to match." Re-entering, I stand at one end of the bar and order a drink. Presently in comes Hiram, evidently in a hurry. He takes a smiling position at the other end of the bar—the suckers between us.

Among the duties of a bartender one of the most sacred is to meet smile with smile before he asks "What will it be?" and this is a bartender. Watch Hiram lean over the end of the bar and chuckle into that wondering worthy's ear: "Give me the best little old drink in the house, chief—my wife just gave birth to twins—got the news over the phone this minute."

HIRAM RADIATES FRIENDLINESS.

"Is that so?" grins the drink dispenser with genuine answering chuckle.

"You bet, and I'm going to buy the house a drink on the strength of it—see what the gentlemen will have," says the radiant Hiram, beaming on the house with contagious good fellowship in which no trace of guile or presumption suggests itself.

The bartender, already under his spell, is a willing go-between to effect the formalities of a toast from all to the health of the newborn twins at the expense of their fond father.

Hiram is in a hurry to go and see his offspring and buys another drink quickly before shaking hands all around. I wait until Mr. Sioux

City has his turn to congratulate and at the psychological moment butt in and cover Hiram while the front is lifted with the nimble dexterity of long practice. If Sioux City has a "leather" (wallet) and conditions are favorable it, too, "comes away."

Hiram beaming beams of happiness, waves a fatherly-of-twins farewell from the front door and I sedately follow after to the appointed meet. This slipping-up conference over, we again stroll along, but with much more confidence and gusto—for we have "broken the ice" with raw work and are now prepared to enter the higher paths of our operations, where we mingle with our clients and pay small attention to fronts unless they are unusually valuable.

SIZING UP PROSPECTS.

Perhaps several cafe and hotel bars are visited before we see a good prospect in "Billy"—Billy is a middle-aged business man. In his office he is held in awe as J. William Worthman, but the hotel bartender calls him Billy at 10 tonight because he has just dropped in to have his favorite bartender mix him a night-cap, after having doffed his pyjamas at the lodge meeting over which he may have presided with rare dignity, although Hiram expressively describes him as a "Poppa Guy." Hi is wearing a sparkling diamond on his well-shaped and cared-for hand, and his eyes are twinkling merrily with thoughts—perhaps—of the christening of his twins. (Hiram is now in town from St. Paul, studying the well-known "double standard" and I am selling him an automobile.)

Billy gets an earful of all this quickly, and Hiram in short order is asking Billy if he knows the Exalted Past Master of Hocus Pocus Lodge and his exalted family—cousins of Hi's on the twins' side. Sweeping all formality aside, we become a party of three and as the minutes pass we drink rapidly. St. Paul (Hiram) cautions Billy about his drinking whisky in such a way that the Poppa Guy increases his doses to show his mettle.

At 10:30 I make the delightful proposition that we three go to a certain flat where live three bachelor girls who play the typewriter in my firm's offices. "But, now, St. Paul, don't go to spoiling these chickens if we go. Don't send out for champagne for them. Take that diamond off your finger and act like a poor man for once in your life. Be liked for yourself for a change. And you, Billy, take that pigeon-blood ruby off your finger and that jeweled charm off your chain—tie them up in your handkerchief and put them in your pocket so, wealth out of sight. And, Paul, give Billy some money and let him do the honors; he is more lady-like than you."

HIDDEN JOKE IN FUNNY STORY.

At this Billy pulls out his little wallet with neatly folded yellow bills in it and protests: "What do you boys think I am? A tramp?"

"All right, then, let's go before the girls get in the hay."

The street car's arrival finds Hiram in the middle of a screamingly funny story about a fat girl who grabbed hold of him "like this" (illustrating on Billy's willing person). Billy is helped up to the car platform still laughing at the story. The car starts and Hiram and I wave joyous farewells to our slightly ruddled, wholly mystified friend—turn away, walk to the corner and are on our happy way.

When Billy got on the car his handkerchief with the ruby and jeweled watch charm tied in it, and his wallet with its yellow contents were safely in Hiram's possession. All Hiram is worried about now is how he can "weed out" some of those yellow bills before we get a chance to count them over together.

In the leather we find business cards and private papers, which without delay we inclose in a stamped envelope addressed to J. William Worthman, editor of the Daily Burst, and the next day that journal of uplift appears with a long and instructive editorial on "The Curse of Drink."

SQUARING "THE BOYS."

"Hello, Hi. How are your children? We just heard you had twins tonight over in the Fashion Cafe."

"Did the sucker put up a collar?" we ask.

"Yes, but he don't know who got his darby—not yet. We have his address, boys, and he is hot after that watch."

"I tell you what we will do," says Hiram. "You Sherlock Holmes

The Psychology of Misers

Dr. Burr of University of Pennsylvania Gives Results of Interesting Study of Their Peculiarities

One of the characteristics of misers is the lack of the social sense, the self-centeredness, the absence of the need of companionship. It is true that not a few of them have been married, but in all instances the wife seems to have been taken simply because she was cheaper than a servant or because her money was desired. It is rather remarkable, therefore, that there is alleged to have existed in London at one time a misers' club called the Split Farthing Club.

Neither intellect nor education prevents the development of the miserly instinct. The tinker and the man of science alike fall victims. No veneering of acquired characteristics can prevent the real man showing through.

When we try to learn the true psychology of the miser we find there is but little data; authors are so interested in the melodramatic and the eccentric, in the queer and the squalidly picturesque events of the lives, that they pay attention to nothing else.

Mental ability does not protect against miserliness, for there have been many men of mental power far above the average who have suddenly lost interest in intellectual pursuits, without any other evidence of insanity, and have lived the lives of misers. So scanty is our data, therefore, that to draw conclusions about these people we must often, and sometimes doubtless erroneously, draw inferences from trifling incidents.

guys take the watch—get expense money from the mark to go after it—get a reward for its return—both. We will keep the slang (chain) and give you a 'sawbuck' ($10), or you can do what you like with the slang and we are square. The Senator and I have a date with another John Henry. So long."

EVERY CALLING HAS ITS PHRASEOLOGY.

In today's article Mr. Peters, former crook, who turned to "the square game" after "doing a stretch at Sing Sing," tells of "lush grafters" or "sharks" who, aided by "stalls," pit their personalities against those of "ripe suckers," carrying a "good front," "tooling" them of their "darby" and "slang" or "cleaning the mark." They "weed out" as many "sawbucks" as possible before the "show down" to their friends, the "dicks." The "ripe sucker" is given "an easy trimming" by the "dicks" before he recovers the lost "sparklers" or "darby."

under the hardest conditions of life. It does prove that congenital ability to resist stress has more to do with long life, not with the mere saving for a few years of useless lives, than any external circumstance. Surely few men leading the most hygienic and sheltered lives, and the terms have unfortunately become in the minds of many people synonymous live as long as many misers who expose themselves to so many of the evils that we are taught always kill.

Social standing has no bearing on the causation of miserliness, since its victims are found in all ranks of society. Children of rich and poor, learned and unlearned, of good and bad, all alike may come to the same end, and disbelievers in heredity may use this as an argument, but they should remember that external play little part in heredity. Need of money seems rarely, if ever, to be an exciting cause in starting from necessity what later becomes a fixed habit.

That the condition is pathological goes without saying, but it is not an insanity in the technical, restricted meaning of the word.

I have tried to learn—because I believe that all constitutional disease stamps the external anatomy with its individual hall mark, only our eyes are not sharp enough often to see it—whether there is a characteristic physiognomy in misers, but without success.

The only conclusion that one can draw is that misers, like most abnormal people, do have certain countenances which are unlike the ordinary types of faces. Many of them have the same look of furtive intensity that is common in the paranoiac, the religious maniac, and in many other dwellers in the borderland of insanity. They are almost all thin, but often wiry. They are long-faced, and may have high or sloping foreheads. Their noses are frequently long, and seldom broad at the opening of the nostrils.

In one minor mental characteristic they often resemble a certain type of chronic maniac in possessing a cutting, sarcastic and cruel sense of wit. Doubtless many of the witty sayings attributed to them are apocryphal, but many are true, and even the false ones show that unconsciously the public has learned to associate a certain form of wit with miserly characteristics.

EDDYTORIAL ON CHARITY.

Being as we can't think of nothing better to write a editorial about for this issue of the Bugle, we will therefore write on the subject of "Charity," which is a good deal better than writing nothing at all. We will probably not be much disputed when we say that there is a large number of residents of Bingville who don't know what the word charity means, and probably never will—they wouldn't know what it meant if they was to look it up in the dictionary, which is impossible, being as there ain't probably more than two dictionaries in Bingville, one at the school house and tother at the Bugle office, to which we refer repeatedly and often in order to ascertain how certain words are spelled and the meaning of same. Charity consists of being charitable. Them as has charity are always long suffering with their neighbors and are always ready to overlook faults in others and willing to suffer being imposed upon without losing their tempers, rolling up their sleeves and wanting to fite. That's what charity is. It is said "charity begins at home," but charity in Bingville don't begin at home by a doggoned sight. It would be a good eal better if it did. It would be a good eal better if folks here in Bingville would stop 'considering the motives' in their nabor's eyes and pay a little attention to the katterpillers in their own eyes. It would be a good eal better if they didn't talk about each other behind each other's backs and always try to git the best of each other, whether it is in a horse dicker or anything else. While charity is a good thing, enough charity is sufficient and too much is a-plenty. It is possible for a person to have too much charity—look at us as editor of the Bingville Bugle, for instants! Now we have got so much charity for people that we keep on sending them the Bugle year after year and they never give us a red cent in return for it, and probably never will. Perhaps we will git our reward in heaven, but if we could get a porshion of it here and now, it would enable us to pay off some of our obligashions, and probably enable us to buy a square meal with what would be left over. If you subscribers, who are ten years or more in arrears, thinks that you can rub it in 'on charity much longer, you are mistaken, and if you don't pay something on your back subscriptions the law must take its course. Beware!

Tother day as we happen to be a going past her residence she knockt on the window and beckond us to come as she wished to speak to us and we done so only to find Samantha settin up close to the fire all bundled up in shawls and blankets and shivering like everthink like as if she was freezin to death.

Samantha tuk us to book for not mentioning the fact in the Bugle last wk that she was on the sick list and not only that but on a sickler list than usual. We apologise to Samantha who was purty mad about it and told her that if we did mention her being on the sick list last wk it was a overite being as we aim to state this fact about Samantha in every issue of the Boogie the y round and have did so with but very few exceptions for the past several yrs.

Then Samantha seemd to cool down a little mite and said for us to see to it that not mentioning that she was on the sick list every wk hereafter diddnt occur agin.

Samantha states that the reason she is on a sickler list than usual this week is becuz last Saturday night her sister with who she lives with come to her bedroom to ask her a question after she had went to bed for the night and left the door open mowen a minnit and that the draft of coolish air which come into the room from the outside is what give her a fresh cold. Samantha sleeps under two or three sets of blankets and allus has her bedroom doors lockt tight and the winders all shet tieren a bung.

Samantha says that with this fresh cold which she has ketcht she persoons that she will remain faithfully on the sick list all this coming winter and that she wont stick her nose outen doors until about next May 1916. We dont know of no person in Bingville who enjoys being in poor health as much as Samantha does and hereafter we will endeavor to state she is on the sick list each wk as reglar as clockwork.

Hi Ort to Lorn to Read

Hi Cranby one of our most prominent citizens and also one of our most ignorant ones received a letter tother day in the mail from the co seat.

Hi was a good eal surprised when Eph Higgins our accomodating P. M. handed him the letter and Hi turned it over and lookt at it and then lookt at the address right side up and upside down and askt Hen if the letter was shurely for him.

Eph said it was and then Hi who cant read or even spel cat for that matter askt Eph if he would be so accomodatin as to open the letter and read him the contents there was in it if enny.

Eph said he would and so he opened the letter and read it over hisself first and when he done so he begin to laff like everthink. Hi askt him what he was laffing at and soon as Eph could git straightend up he read Hi the letter which was nothink mowen a bill from a licker dealer at the co seat from who it seems Hi purchased 3 gals of rum mowen five yrs ago and aint never paid for yet.

When Hi found out what was in the letter he snatcht it outen Ephs hands and shuk his fists under Ephs nose and told him if he ever ketcht him readin his own personal and private mail matter agin he would report him to the P. O. orthorities at Warshington! Then Hi clumpt off home maddern a wet hen.

Jabez Wouldn't Sign

Two weeks ago there was a registered letter came to the Bingville postoffice for Jabez Simpson, and when he called for his mail Eph Higgins, our accomodating postmaster, told Jabe that he would haft to sign for the letter before he could get it.

Jabe refused to sign, he said that ever since he had signed his name as security for a note four years ago and had to pay for the full amount of the note hisself, he had took a oath that he would never agin put his name down on a piece of paper, and he'd be doggoned if he would do it this time.

Eph told him that it was government rules to sign for a registered letter, less he signed, he couldn't have the letter.

Jabe then told Eph that 'less he give him the letter right off, he'd give him one of the doggondest drubbings he had ever had.

Eph told Jabe if he laid so much as a finger on him he would have him peresecuted to the full extent of the law for assault and battery on a servant of the government, which skeered Jabe some, and he went away without his letter. Eph says Jabe can't have that letter less he signs for it if it has to lay in the Bingville postoffice until it rots.

Winter Is Approaching

We desire to state very briefly that winter is approaching almost afore we are aware of it, but there aint no doubt we will be aware of it after it gits here and the thermometer drops down to 15 or 20 degrees below zero.

We would suggest that unless some of our dead beet subscribers desires to have us make a assignment before winter arrives that they drop into the Bugle office and pay us somethink on their back subscriptions. At the present writing our assets is away below our liabilities and unless we git some money soon we persoon we will haft to close up shop for lack of funds.

Are You a Nut—?

lover? In that case this advertisement will interest you. Listen: I have for the past 2 or 3 wks been gathering and storing away in my barn a whole mess of different kinds of nuts for human consumption this winter by them as desires nuts. These nuts inlcouds walnuts, hickory nuts, beech nuts, chest nuts & other kinds of nuts too numerous to mentshion.

What is niser during the long winter evgs. than to set down before the fire before you go to bed and crack a lot of nuts and etc same? Answer—nothing is niser. They go good in connectshion with appels or they're turrible good alone. Not only that, but the colonels of nuts of various kinds is nice to make nut cake out of, also to put into taffy. An fact, nuts is good for menny things and they're awful nurrishing, too. You've herd the saying, "as swete as a nut," ain't you?

These nuts which I have gathered is all spread out on my barn floor drying and curing, as I mite say. I diddnt gether 'em to etc —I getherd 'em to sell. If you desire nuts give me a call and I will make the price right on same. Satisfaction garranteed or money refunded. I don't charge enny mowen these nuts is worth consider that I risked life & lim gettin some of em offen the trees. See me if you want nuts.

DETROIT RACES PROVE BASE BALL IS NOT CROOKED.

Chirps Of the Railbirds About "Throwing" Games Amply Contradicted By the Results Of Last Season—Rumor That Magnates "Framed" to Beat Comiskey, the Noblest Roman Of Them All, Is Set At Rest—General Gossip Of Past Doings In the Big Leagues

"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

We wonder if the smart Alecks, who always are first to scent something crooked in baseball, are literal minded enough to study the foregoing aphorism.

In a number of years of baseball writing, the writer never has heard a man exclaim of the crookedness of baseball whose own moral character would stand even a cursory analysis.

The fellow who believes world's series are "framed," who says every prize fight is a "fake" and who sees nothing but cork-screw crookedness in most athletic events is the very gentleman we would not trust around a corner.

There was an old attic saying; "To the pure all things are pure." This does not imply a lack of sophistication but is an indictment against the evil-minded.

Unusually close races in the American and National leagues this season have set the same old tongues to wagging with the same stereotyped old phrases.

We hear that the American league is "framing" for Comiskey and are asked to consider the acquisition of Jackson and Collins by that team as leading evidence.

IMAGININGS OF THE SKEPTICAL.

Rot! The White Sox can not win the pennant, and a tremendous expanse of energy has been wasted if there was any "framing" for Comiskey.

That Philadelphia and Brooklyn are being "shooed in" and the National league race kept close for box-office purposes are more imaginings of the worse than skeptical.

That any baseball team or teams could "frame" anything and get away with it today is so highly improbable as to be well nigh impossible. To do such a thing would entail the implication of so many men that a story would be sure to leak out sooner or later.

One man cannot "throw" a ball game. Assume that a player in any position was an out and out crook and was to be paid any amount up to $1,000,000 or more, if you will, to "throw" a game and he could not guarantee to get away with it.

Certainly a pitcher who was morally oblique enough to sell out could not guarantee positively to "throw" a game. His team might get a large number of runs to begin with and the moment he became ineffective the chances are he would be derrickd by his manager. So much for the pitcher's chances and the pitcher being 80 per cent of the game, as Addie Joss used to aver, he more than anyone else could "throw" a game if such a thing were done, which it is not.

TALK OF RAIL BIRDS.

From the inception of the world's series these evil-minded rail-birds of the game have averred that series were protracted for box-office purposes. These took not into consideration the fact that the players received percentages of only the first four games played and therefore had no possible reason for wanting the series to go further.

The Boston Braves just about broke the back of this canard last year. When they won the world's title in precisely four games they killed once and for all the timeold rumor that world's series were shaded for the "gate."

Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the Braves in commenting recently on this series said:

"I sat up there during the fourth game and rooted myself out of $48,000."

JUS' CHILDREN.

That was the advance sale for the fifth game of the series had there been one which there was not.

If there can be any extenuation offered for the talk of crookedness in baseball it only is because ball players have given such amazing examples of moral obliquity in jumping and rejumping contracts, since the organization of the Federal league.

But this is more a gross incapacity for understanding torts and contracts on the part of the average ball player than any downright desire to be dishonest.

"Most ball players," a big league manager recently said to the writer, "are just children with children's brains and consequently a child's understanding. With a very few exceptions I doubt if any ball player who jumped a contract realized the moral inaptitude of his action. He saw more money here than there for following his chosen line and saw no reason why he should not take what was offered, being assured by smart managers and magnates that he was well within his rights. As a matter of fact, the court has decided against these jumps but in few instances.

"But this is different than the out and out throwing of a game. I would like to see anybody try to buy up my team!" Here the manager swelled visibly. "I think they'd string him to our flag pole."

When Snodgrass muffed that fly ball in the world's series between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox a roar went up among these parasites of baseball who professed to see something "queer" in this miff. Snodgrass made an unfortunate miss just as many an outfielder does, but to reason that he was paid for muffing this ball is too silly to deserve serious comment. How could anyone ever have foreseen a circumstance in which the losing or winning of the ball game would have depended upon Snodgrass who was in right field where about one chance in 15 is the average?

FIGHT TO BITTER END.

Teams whose members are friendly toward each other will fight to the bitter end to beat one another, though one team may have a chance at the pennant while the other is hopelessly out of the race. Most of the National league clubs this season would like to see either the Phillies or the Brooklyn Dodgers win, but anyone who thinks the teams are making the way easy for these two clubs has merely to gaze at the percentage standing to verify his mistake. By the same token the Boston Braves are highly unpopular with all the ball teams, but St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and New York fight as hard against Philadelphia as do they against Boston.

The western teams of the American league, to a man, are pulling for the Detroit Tigers to win the American league pennant, but such a lowly team as the St. Louis Browns has beaten Detroit enough games to give it a safe lead in the American league sweepstakes.

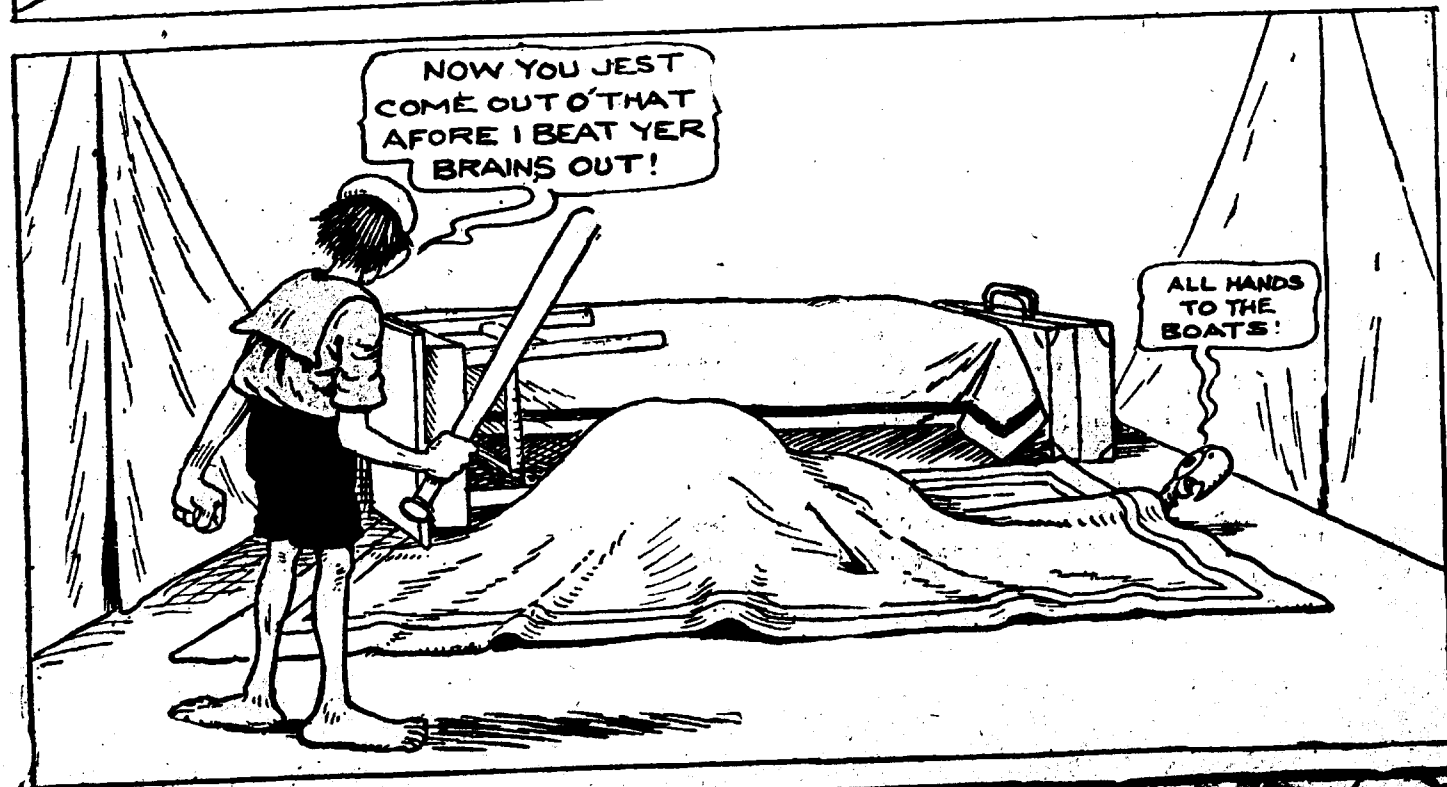

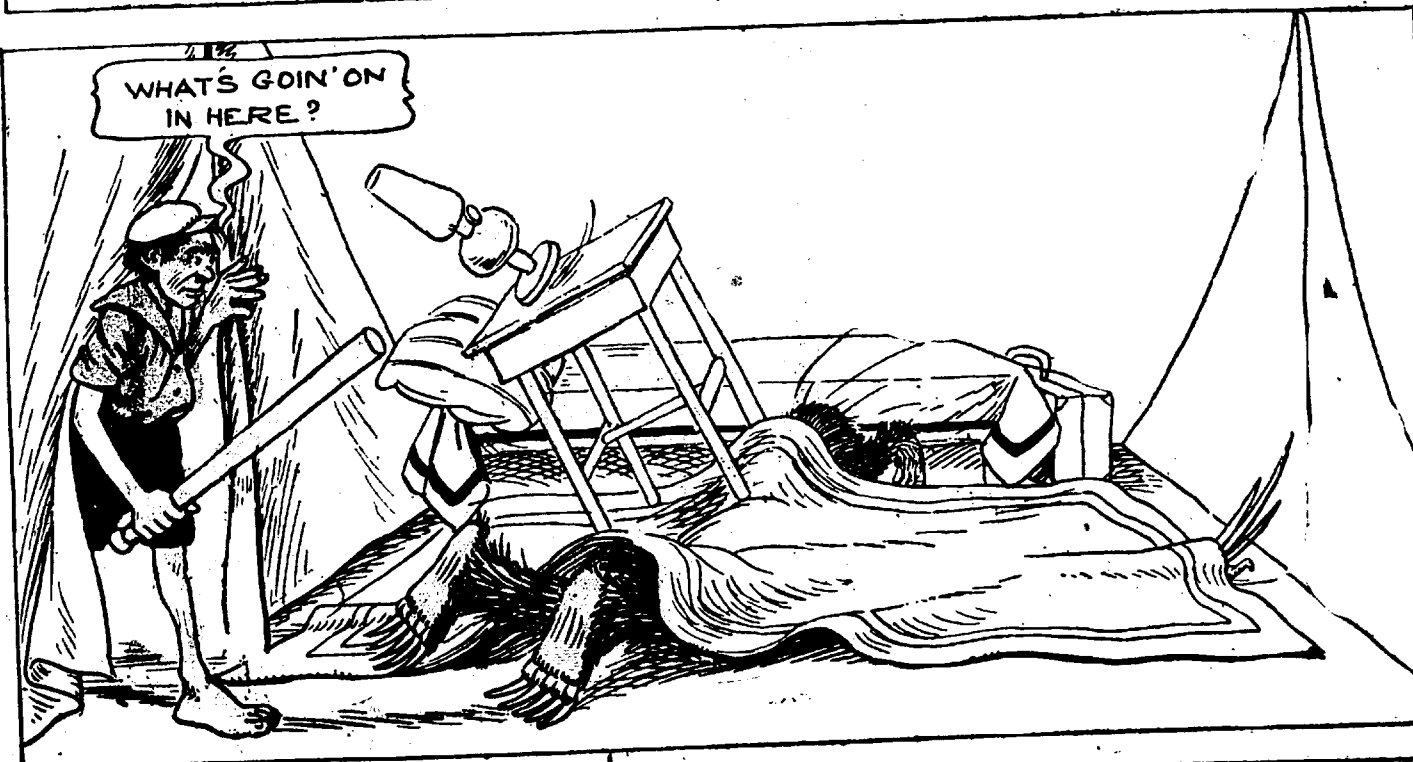

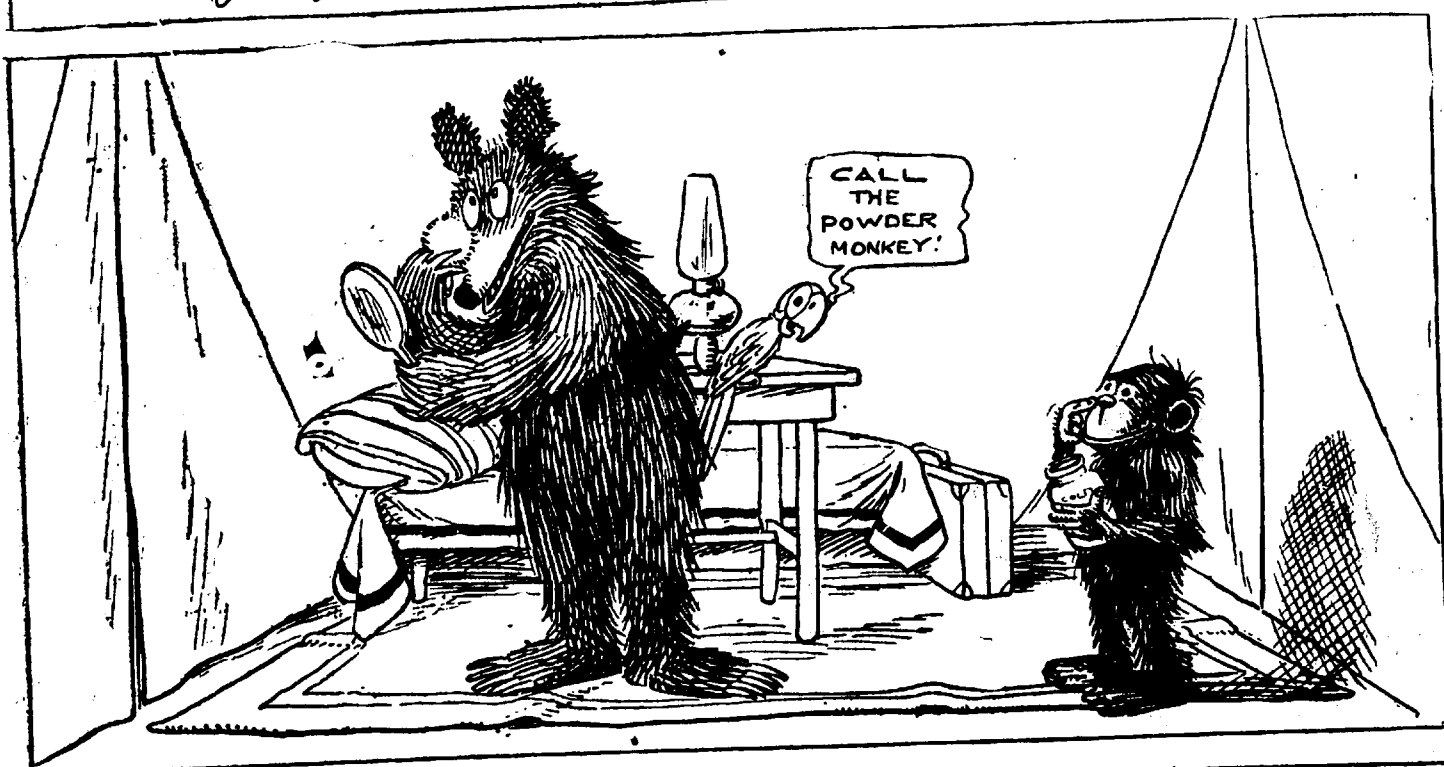

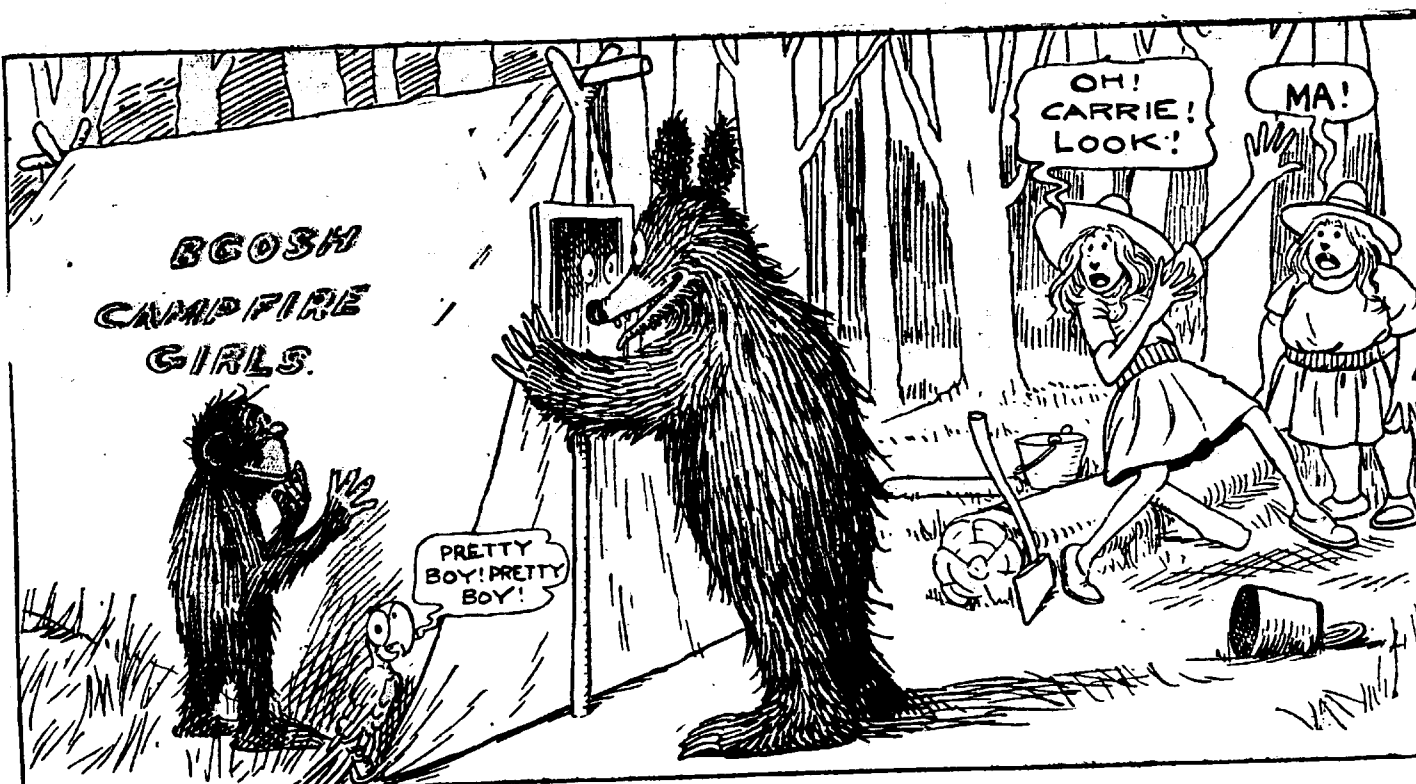

One pitcher alone on the Browns has beaten the Tigers seven times this year and he is started against the Tigers every time they come to town. Does this look as though the Browns were trying to help Detroit? Yet every man jack on the St. Louis Americans secretly would like to see Detroit win the gonfaloniere. It is the same all the way round.

NEW GERMAN DRIVE WINS

SERBIANS NOW FALLING BACK

Strong Resistance to
SEVERE FIGHTING
PROCEEDS IN WEST
Allied Troops Join Serbs in Rapid Thrust at Bulgaria.

Today's War News Given in Summary

While Bulgarian and Serbo-French forces are clashing for possession of the Saloniki-Wish railroad in southern Serbia, the Austro-German invaders are continuing their advance from the north. Berlin today reported further progress for the Teutonic armies south of Belgrade and in the Pozarevac region.

In the Macva district on the Save-Drina front where the Serbians have apparently hardly budged since the beginning of the invasion they are now beginning to give way, Berlin heights.

The Bulgarians pressing from the east to form a junction with the Teutonic forces coming from the north have captured additional heights.

A rapid thrust at Bulgaria by allied troops in conjunction with Serb forces has resulted in the capture of the Bulgarian town of Strumitza, 50 miles northwest of Saloniki, according to the Allied press.

Hard fighting has been in progress in the western front. Berlin chronicles the repulse of repeated attacks by the British with strong forces in the vicinity of Verdun and the breaking up of French advances at Tathure in the Champagne.

Defeat for the French in attempts to retake lost positions south of Lezard and of the Schtrassmann in the Vosges is also reported by the German war office.

In the official report from Paris the only infantry clash of moment noted was in the neighborhood of Souchez where it is declared three German attacks against positions at Boise-en-Hache were completely checked. German airmen dropped eight bombs on the French fortress of Belfort, Berlin announces, the aviators noting that a number of fires followed the explosions.

In Russia Field Marshal von Hindenburg reports good progress in his attacks of Riga. Russian attacks west of Jacobstadt and in the Smolensk region were repulsed, while the Germans claim to have captured Russian positions in a front nearly two miles west of Ilouk.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—The Serbian forces in the Macva district of the Save-Drina front in northwestern Serbia, where strong resistance has been offered to the Teutonic invaders, the now beginning to retreat, it was officially announced today by German army headquarters.

The Teutonic advance south of Belgrade continues, and progress is also being made in the Pozarevac sector. Additional successes also are reported on the Bulgarians on the eastern border of Serbia.

In recording the progress of operations in the Balkan theatre of war today's announcement says: "In the Macva district the enemy is beginning to retreat. Our troops are advancing south of Belgrade against Cvetkova-Grob and the village of Vroin. Southeast of Pozarevac we took Cernace and Bovevac."

"The Bulgarians have occupied the heights of Mulheim and Badin Zueb."

GERMAN ATTACK REPULSED. French Beat Back Three Assaults, Says Paris Report.

Paris, Oct. 18.—French forces repulsed completely last night three German attacks, according to the announcement given out this afternoon by the French war office. These took place at Boise-en-Hache, to the northeast of Souchez.

The text of the communication follows: "Three attacks on the positions at Boise-en-Hache, to the northeast of Souchez, were completely checked last night by curtains of fire in which both artillery and infantry participated."

"To the south of the river Somme, in the sector of Libons, there has been almost continual fighting with trench weapons, while in the meantime our batteries directed an effective force against the German works."

"To the north of Verdun German forces have endeavored to occupy the craters of certain mines recently exploded between the lines. They have been repulsed everywhere."

"Last night witnessed very spirited fighting."

FIGHT TO FINISH IS TO BE WAGED

New Men Have Been Assigned Regular Runs, Says Greenland.

Three weeks ago Monday morning the car men refused to go to work following the refusal of General Manager Sam W. Greenland to sign a new agreement recognizing the newly organized union, providing for local arbitration of all grievances and a hearing within twenty-four hours after a man had been laid off for an alleged offense. Since then the traction company has employed new trainmen and after a few days' interruption in the service succeeded in restoring approximately normal service, which is now being maintained on all lines.

The cost of the strike has been enormous to both the 150 car men and other unions that are lending them financial aid and to the traction company, in the way of loss of revenues and extra expense in employing new men and for police protection.

In the meantime hundreds of jitneys have been put into service, many accidents have occurred and business in general has been affected. Notwithstanding, the end is not in sight.

"We will continue this fight to doomsday, if necessary," declared Joseph C. Colgan, of the Amalgamated Association.

DISGRACE TO STATE, DECLARES GOV. DUNNE

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 18.—The hanging of the negro, Joe De Berry, at Murphysboro Saturday, when more than 1,000 persons admitted as deputies were permitted to witness, was referred to as a "scandal and disgrace to the state" by Governor Dunne today, according to Sheriff James A. White, of Jackson county, who has charge of the execution. In his message the governor asked that the hanging of Elston Scott, a negro, set for next Friday in Jackson county, be conducted with "decorum, decency and privacy."

De Berry was hanged for the murder of a white woman. Scott is to die for the killing of his mate in law.

CONVENTION WILL CONVENE WEDNESDAY

Realty Men from All Parts of the State Are Coming.

Between three and four hundred delegates, many of them accompanied by their wives, will be in attendance at the annual convention of the Indiana Real Estate association, which will be held in this city Wednesday and Thursday.

The first delegation will arrive Tuesday evening from Indianapolis in two special cars. The Evansville delegation will arrive Wednesday morning at 9:40 o'clock. Practically every city in the state will be represented.

Mrs. Louis F. Curdes has been named chairman of committee in charge of the entertaining of visiting ladies and Miss Ethel Doud, secretary. A meeting of this committee was held Monday morning at the Anthony hotel. For the entertainment of both the men visitors and their wives the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange has made elaborate preparations. The convention promises to be the most profitable as well as pleasant two days the real estate men of Indiana have ever known.

Scott R. Brewer, executive secretary of the state association, arrived in the city the latter part of last week and will remain here until the convention is over.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY IS PLACED ON TRIAL

New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Zora Emma Howe, known as the "woman of mystery," was placed on trial today in General Sessions on indictments charging her with grand larceny in having obtained money by posing as the widow of Henry M. Flagler, a former president of the Standard Oil company.

Mrs. Howe is alleged to have obtained $4,435 from Frank J. Mahoney by claiming that she would receive $15,000,000 when the Flagler estate was settled. She appeared calm and confident in court. Subsequent to her arrest three months ago the district attorney's office received communication from police at Chicago, Washington and Pittsburgh, saying a woman had swindled persons in those cities through posing as the widow of Henry M. Flagler.

DELAY IS REFUSED IN CHARLTON CASE

Italian Judge Proceeds to
Prisoner.

Como, Italy, Oct. 18.—When Porter Charlton, the American charged with the murder of his wife, was called today Signor Catano asked for a further postponement to give M. Picardi, Charlton's chief counsel, who is indisposed, further time to study the case. Baron Sciacca, the presiding judge, reserved decision on the motion and began trial in parts of the case wherein a defense is not necessary.

Baron Sciacca later rendered a decision refusing consent to a postponement of the trial, saying that he considered the presence of Signor Calaneo, of Charlton's counsel, sufficient to protect the interests of the accused. The court thereupon proceeded to interrogate Charlton. The prisoner spoke for about an hour, giving a complete account of his life from the time he met Mary Scott, whom he married and of whose murder he is accused up to the time the crime was committed. Charlton spoke in Italian but owing to the delay he experienced in finding just the proper words with which to express himself the court frequently helped him out.

Charlton was attacked with a fainting fit during the progress of the interrogation and was obliged to retire from the court room. When he returned Baron Sciacca continued the inquiry. The public is being excluded from the court room because of the nature of the testimony.

BONDS OF ALLEGED ROBBERS FORFEITED

Accused Men Fail to Appear When Case is Called at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 18.—The cases against Max Hamburg, Dennis J. Murphy, George Burge and Henry Lane, the Plaza hotel pool room robbers, were set for trial in the Vigo circuit court today but the men were not present. Default was entered in the cases of Hamburg, Burge and Lane and their bonds of $1,000 each were declared to be forfeited.

Affidavits were presented from the health and police authorities of Toledo, Ohio, showing that Dennis J. Murphy, whose real name was Charles A. Brinton, had died of appendicitis in a Toledo hospital August 1, but aside from making an entry to this effect on the record no action was taken in the Murphy case. The men were captured by the Indianapolis police on September 2, 1914, and were in the custody of the Indiana state prison at Joliet, Ill., at the time of their arrest.

Louis C. Rippe, proprietor of a tailoring and dry cleaning establishment at 3084 Broadway, was elected secretary of the B. U. V. Society at the regular meeting held last night at the Hotel Hamilton. He was elected in place of the late Mr. J. C. Rippe, who died recently.

STATE DEPARTMENT NOT LIKELY TO ACT

from Many Others.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The state department does not contemplate any action on the affidavits filed by the German embassy charging that marines and sailors of the British patrol boat Barralong killed the commander of a German submarine.

Officials pointed out today that the case did not differ from many others filed by belligerent governments charging violations of military law and atrocities. The American government has merely filed all such protests.

Officials foresee, however, that if such incidents became a general practice they might possibly affect the submarine controversy between the United States and Germany. They fear that if British ships generally attack German submarines, interfering with the attempts of the latter to visit and search, the submarines might resume their practice of torpedoing without warning.

The use of the American flag by the British patrol boat is regarded as a ruse in keeping with the naval practice of previous wars, and used by the United States as well as other nations. The only requirement is that a war vessel must show its true colors before opening fire.

BODY IS BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

The remains of Daniel Tresslar, who died at Decatur, Illinois, from injuries sustained in the Washash shops of that city, arrived in Fort Wayne at 4 o'clock Monday morning and were taken to the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Tresslar, 325 West Williams street.

Funeral services Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence and at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Interment at the Catholic cemetery.

Word was received Sunday evening that he had passed away at 1:20 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Tresslar was 27 years of age and was employed as a blacksmith in the railroad shops at Decatur. Thursday he was seriously injured when a piece of iron, seven-eighths of an inch thick thrown by a steam hammer pierced his abdomen. The iron passed entirely through his body.

The young man was born in Chicago and came to Fort Wayne with his mother when he was very young. After graduating from the St. Patrick's schools he became an apprentice in the local Washash blacksmith shop. He completed his trade and two years ago was transferred to Decatur.

He was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church, the Knights Columbus, Moose and Maccabees lodges and of the Blacksmiths' union. Besides the mother he is survived by four brothers and one sister—Carroll J. and William Tresslar, of Chicago; Frank Tresslar, of this city; Mrs. Mayne Lindell, of Chicago, and John Tresslar, of Seattle, Wash.

WILSON WILL URGE DEFENSE IN SPEECH

Washington, Oct. 18.—President Wilson will open his campaign for his national defense program in a speech before the Manhattan club in New York on the evening of November 4. It will be the president's first public appearance on the subject since he approved the plans prepared by Secretaries Garrison and Daniels, and the speech is expected to be of significance because the president is expected to disclose the reasons he will urge upon congress why the United States should be more adequately prepared for defense.

Today the president received a letter from a peace delegation for national defense asking him to take steps to assure the United States against attack from abroad. The letter was signed by Gov. Goldborough, Walter Smith, Representative Condy, Linthicum and Talbot, and many business men, bankers, lawyers, judges and others.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD AT SHOOTING PROBE

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 18.—Companies of state militia still were on guard today while civil officers began their investigation of the shooting last Friday in the room of the city's dramatic executive committee. Soldiers guarded the building where Coroner Matfield began an inquest into the death of Sidney J. Cohen, a newspaper reporter, shot during the fight. Soldiers also were on guard at a state court for the habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Edward J. McDonald and Harry J. Brown, charged respectively with sedition and with conspiracy to overthrow the government.

IS BROUGHT FROM VALPARAISO HERE

Located With His Bride by Pennsylvania Railroad Detective.

Charles Luther Warren, possessor of visionary millions and foster of checks, whose operations in Fort Wayne and his elopement and marriage with Miss Beulah Youse, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Youse, 250 West Main street, have been a sensation in Fort Wayne for five days, was arrested at police headquarters here at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, charged with uttering a fraudulent check.

A short time later a warrant was read to him and he was placed in a cell at headquarters.

Warren and his bride were taken into custody at 9 o'clock Monday morning in Valparaiso, Ind., by James A. Jones, a special officer of the Pennsylvania railroad, who recognized the pair at the Pennsylvania depot in that city. They arrived in Fort Wayne in charge of Officer Jones at 12:35 Monday afternoon, were taken to police headquarters and turned over to Chief Lenz.

Says He Will Make Good.

"If I have done anything that was not right here I will make it good," said Warren, after his arrest. "I don't know of anything I have done, but if they have anything on me I will make it right and clear it up."

To questions, Warren returned sometimes frank questions and sometimes evasive or light-minded replies. He was extremely nervous and his hands shook as with palsy as he referred to details of his operations in this city and Chicago, and then to a group of newspaper men he stated:

"I am able to pay anything I owe or have contracted to pay, here or anywhere." Warren said in answer to several questions as to reasons why he should not, said Beulah Youse Warren, the 29-year-old bride of the man who had just been arrested and taken from her side.

Mrs. Youse-Warren had been cleverly questioned by Chief Lenz, but she had little information to give. Her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Youse, and other relatives arrived at headquarters soon after this.

WANT AUTOMOBILES AND APPLE PICKERS

Anyone who is willing to furnish an automobile for use in bringing the apples to the city on Tuesday at the apple day round-up is requested to telephone Mrs. Mary Keel, 2942, and she will make the assignment of roads to take and places to go. Pickers of the apples are needed, too, and anyone willing to help in that way should let Mrs. Keel or Mr. Mohler know. Applicants for fruit are to make their wants known to Mr. Mohler at the Associated Charities office. Thirty bushels were brought in on Saturday and the work of giving them out began today at the Pettit warehouse, where they are deposited.

GREAT CLOTHING VALUE

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

LAST Spring while all clothiers were buying for Fall, we made our regular purchases. As the season advanced business in all lines began to improve and we thought we saw a great Fall clothing business ahead and then in addition to our regular purchases [which were more than any other four clothing stores in Fort Wayne] we made another purchase of fine clothing. We are positive we can show more hand-tailored suits and overcoats than any other store in the state and we guarantee to save you from $2 to $15 on your purchase. Clothing materials have advanced during the past two months from 20 to 50 per cent. A great many merchants bought very light for Fall and now, with the increased business, the market is practically bare of Fall weight suiting and overcoat materials, yet our great purchase allows us to sell you all-wool suits and overcoats at $9.75 that will cost you twelve to fifteen dollars elsewhere. MOONSHINE CASES CALLED FOR TRIAL

Revenue Officers Among the Defendants in Trial at Fort Smith, Ark.

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 18.—Trials of a number of defendants in the so-called "Moonshine" conspiracy case in which more than twenty men, residents of various states, have been indicted, were set for today in the United States district court here. It was expected upwards of a dozen men would appear for trial.

trial. Some of the men indicted have not yet been arrested, a few are fugitives from justice and others, successfully have resisted extradition from their native states.

Of seven officers in the government revenue service who are among the defendants two of them, Knox Booth, of Nashville, Tenn., and James Surber, of Atlanta, Ga., will not be tried until the January term of the court, their trials having been postponed.

Thomas C. McCoy, of Asheville, N. C., a former revenue agent, upon his arrest, instituted proceedings to restrain his extradition to Arkansas and the court upheld his contention. Nearly all the men arrested have been released under bond.

John L. Casper, of Kansas City, an officer of a distilling company and known as the head of the alleged "Moonshine" organization, gave bond in the sum of $35,000. Guy L. Hartman, of Kansas City, former business partner of Casper, forfeited a bond of $20,000 by failure to appear for his preliminary trial. James C. Brebaker, also of Kansas City and formerly connected with the distilling company, is under indictment but has not been arrested. The alleged conspirators are said by government officials to have defrauded the government of millions of dollars. Specifically, it is charged that the men illegally operated a distillery in Fort Smith and instead of sending the product to a government warehouse, shipped it to Kansas City. There, it is charged, the contents of the whiskey were fraudulently stamped with old revenue stamps, thus allowing the distillers to avoid the payment of taxes.

When the case was called today the court granted the motion of the defendants for continuance until tomorrow.

MRS. A. H. HANSON DIES.

Former Fort Wayne Lady Passes Away at Her Home in Sioux City, Iowa.

Mrs. A. H. Hanson, of Sioux City, Iowa, formerly Miss Susan Lepper of Fort Wayne, daughter of Louis Lepper, of 1325 Lillie street, died at her home Sunday shortly after midnight. She had been ill for the past year and death was not unexpected.

Mr. Lepper, father of the young lady, had been at her bedside for the past week and her only brother, August Lepper, 1827 Green street, left Monday noon for Iowa. Mrs. Hanson was born in Fort Wayne and was educated in the Concordia Lutheran school and later graduated from the International Business college. For some time she was employed at the National Mill Supply company. She was united in marriage to Mr. Hanson in June, 1911, and immediately moved to the west.

The father and brother are the only surviving relatives.

"HOSTILE ATTACK" NEAR END.

But Result of War Game Awaits Decision of Umpires.

New London, Conn., Oct. 18.—An attack by a "hostile force" on the forts at the entrance to Long Island Sound, which, as a part of the army and navy maneuvers, began late yesterday, was expected to end today. Whether the attacking fleet of destroyers, mine planters and sub-mine planters, succeeded in running the forts and landing troops, or were sunk by the defending forts, will not be known, however, until the umpires make their report. Through out the night, while the great search lights swept the waters of the "enemy," the big guns at the forts replied vigorously to the bombardment of the attacking foe.

FORMER ALLEN CITIZEN DIES.

Auburn, Ind., Oct. 18.—J. H. Myers, of Midway street, who has been a sufferer for the past four years as a result of a paralytic stroke, passed away at his late home here. He was born in Lehigh county, Pa., February 11, 1839, and was a son of Nathan and Leah Myers. When but a small child, he moved with his parents to Seneca county, Ohio, and lived there until he was in his teens, when he came to Indiana where he has resided ever since. He first lived in Allen county, but had resided in DeKalb county for the past thirty-five years. April 3, 1884, he was married to Margaret Barrett in Percy township, Allen county. There were three children born to this union, one William Myers, who is still living. He resides on a farm near Huntertown. The first wife died February 6, 1874. On December 26, 1880, Mr. Myers was again married, this time to Mary A. Harkey, of Auburn, who still survives him.

MONTPELIER STUDENTS ORGANIZE

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 18.—At a meeting of the high school students, a literary society for the school was formed. The following officers were elected: Oscar Rogers, president; Lawrence Andrews, vice-president; Babel Harry, secretary; Margaret O'Donnell, treasurer. The society will hold business meetings every two weeks on Fridays after school session and on Friday evenings will have an entertainment. The first entertainment was held Friday evening in the high school building. A musical and reading program was given after which refreshments were served.

BLUFFTON BAPTIST HONORED.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 18.—William R. Barr, one of the prominent members of the First Baptist church of this city, has been honored by election to membership on the executive committee of the Indiana Baptist convention, which met this week at Hammond. Rev. O. R. McKay, pastor of the local church, was chosen president of the convention and the election of still another representative from the Bluffton church to an official position in the convention is quite a recognition for the Bluffton congregation.

WOMAN GOES FREE.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 18.—A charge of assault and battery filed against Sylvia Cole, of Muncie, in the court of Squire Lewis here, was dismissed Saturday morning without trial. Sylvia McKinley Reichart, formerly of Newcastle, caused the arrest of the Muncie woman. It developed that when Mrs. Cole came here to attend the funeral services of an uncle, she found the Reichart woman installed in her parent's home against the wish of her aged mother. She ejected her and the suit in court followed.

ONION CROP IS ROTTING.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Local onion growers and commission men, who are purchasing the crop and storing it, are encountering heavy financial losses as a result of the onion becoming putrid. In many instances the grower has been compelled to throw away practically two-thirds of his crop and some growers have declared they were obliged to throw out from 5,000 to 6,000 bushels. The Ohio onion crop was very short this year and in other localities reports have been received that there was a short crop. The demand for onions has been quite good and the price is high.

HOG CHOLERA NEAR ETNA.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 18.—A considerable amount of hog cholera is reported around Etna and it is said that east of Etna there is quite a lot of it. Hundreds of hogs are being vaccinated as a precaution against the disease and numerous farmers, whose herds have thus far escaped, are holding their breath, lest it break out on their farms. The germs are fearfully contagious and may be carried for miles on the sole of a shoe, a horse's foot, by dogs or birds, so it is about the next thing to impossible to entirely safeguard against it.

CLEANS UP HIS DOCKET.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 18.—This was the closing day of the term of the Wells circuit court and there was a lot of business disposed of, but there is still a Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 18.—The program for the United Brethren meeting at Pleasant Dale, in this county, to be held October 27 and 28, has been announced. Dr. Shannon, of Marion, will be one of the speakers. The meeting will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Dawson, pastor of the Hartford City U. B. church.

DEFICIT FROM FESTIVAL.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 18.—There will be a small deficit from the fall festival this year, owing to the fact that there was a deficit last year. The collections and receipts this year about equaled the expenditures, but the deficit last year will have to be carried over.

WILL NOT REQUIRE OVERSEA IMPORTS

German Farmers Will Continue to Feed Country Without Aid.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—German farmers will continue to feed the country without the aid of overseas imports, in the opinion of Prof. Gerlach, an authority in agricultural chemistry. Speaking before the German agricultural society at its yearly meeting at Berlin, he gave details showing to what extent in 1914 and 1915 the yield of crops was increased by using sulphate of ammonia and cyanamide, a combination of atmospheric nitrogen with calcium, as fertilizers. In these fertilizers, he says, German farmers have a fully satisfactory substitute for the nitrate of soda which they have been importing to the amount of about 800,000 tons a year. Prof. Gerlach regards the new industry of extracting nitrogen from the atmosphere as of great promise for the future of the German food supply. He said that the factories for its recovery, mostly begun since the outbreak of the war, are now finished or nearing completion and that when they are all in operation they will produce yearly an equivalent of 120,000 tons of pure nitrogen or already considerably more than half of what was formerly imported. A considerable proportion of this is now being used by the military authorities for making ammunition but will, after the war, be available for fertilizing purposes.

Pending the increase of the output till all kinds of crops can be fertilized with cyanamide. Prof. Gerlach advises that it be used mainly for increasing the grain yield; potatoes—the largest crop produced in Germany—can do very well without a fertilizer, as is proved by the splendid crop of this year.

Speaks a Good Word for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mrs. J. N. Rose, Verona, Pa., makes a good report of her experience in the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as follows: "It has been used by myself and family for a number of years for colds and coughs. I also gave it to my grand-daughter aged three and a half years when she had a cold last winter. It broke up the attack at once. I have recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to many of my friends and neighbors who have used it with equally good results." Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

LABORERS WANTED.

Demand Greater Than Supply at Free Employment Bureau.

An appeal for machinists, moulders and core makers has been received at the Fort Wayne office of the state free employment bureau, from the branch at South Bend. It is not often that more calls for labor are received than applicants, but such is the case at the Fort Wayne office. The same situation prevails at South Bend and practically every employment office in the state, indicating that labor conditions are improving.

SOUTH BEND PLANS BIG CELEBRATION

State Centennial and City Semi-Centennial to Be Duly Recognized.

South Bend, Oct. 18.—Plans for St. Joseph county's celebration of the 100th anniversary of Indiana to the statehood and of the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of South Bend as a city, are progressing satisfactorily. According to F. A. Miller, editor of the South Bend Tribune, who is serving as director of the dual celebration on authority vested in him by the South Bend Chamber of Commerce.

"It is too early to announce definite plans," said Mr. Miller, "for the reason that our ideas have not yet been crystallized sufficiently to be given out. However, two features have been decided. One of these, and it probably will be the big feature of the celebration, will be a pageant depicting the history of this section. The present plan is to put this on at least two evenings in Springbrook park. I have selected the pageant master F. B. Barnes, municipal recreation director, and he is studying with a view to presenting to the people something out of the ordinary and something instructive. Beyond doubt it will be worth going many miles to see."

"The other feature decided upon is a baby parade. This, of course, is in a lighter vein, so to speak, and will be one of several parades to be given during the celebration. Miss Ella Learn has been appointed director of this event. She will have as her assistants some of the best known ladies of the city. It is hoped to have not less than 100 children up to seven years of age entered."

"The date for the great dual celebration has not been fixed, but it probably will be the latter part of May or the early part of June. Other features than those mentioned are planned, but are not ready for announcement. I think it safe to state that St. Joseph county's celebration will be the best in Indiana."

ORPHANAGE FOR METHODISTS.

Plans for Greenacres Church Members to Be Carried Out.

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 18.—Plans formed several months ago by Greenacres Methodist church for the opening of an Indiana Methodist orphanage here will be carried out and the home will soon be in operation. A house has been rented here. Miss Aggie Goodwin will be the superintendent. The Indiana conference endorsed the move and property will be bought as soon as and the northwest Indiana conference endorses the plan, which it is expected, will be done next year. Children under ten and twelve years will be admitted and kept until suitable homes are found for them. More than $20,000 has been given toward the institution.

William Shorey was struck by an automobile at Grand and Hanna streets Saturday night driven by J. W. Judd, knocking him from his motorcycle to the pavement. His right kneecap was split and he had to be removed to St. Joseph hospital.

Exodus 18:1-12.

1 When Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father in law, heard of all that God had done for Moses and for Israel his people, and that the Lord had brought Israel out of Egypt;

2 Then Jethro, Moses' father in law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife, after he had sent her back,

3 And her two sons, of which the name of one was Gershom; for he said, I have been an alien in a strange land:

4 And the name of the other was Eliezer; for the God of my father, said he, was mine help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh:

5 And Jethro, Moses' father in law, came with his sons and his wife unto Moses into the wilderness, where he encamped at the mount of God:

6 And he said unto Moses, I thy father in law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two sons with her.

7 And Moses went out to meet his father in law, and did obeisance, and kissed him; and they asked each other of their welfare; and they came into the tent.

8 And Moses told his father in law all that the Lord had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had come upon them by the way, and how the Lord delivered them.

9 And Jethro rejoiced for all the goodness which the Lord had done to Israel, whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians.

10 And Jethro said, Blessed be the Lord, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

11 Now I know that the Lord is greater than all gods: for in the thing wherein they dealt proudly he was above them.

12 And Jethro, Moses' father in law, took a burnt offering and sacrifices for God; and Aaron came, and all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with Moses' father in law before God.

Seeking Farm Credits Laws.

It is becoming increasingly plain that the demand for farm credits legislation, which has occupied a more or less prominent place in public attention for the past three years, will be denied but little longer. More adequate financial accommodation for the farmer when he requires it, based upon the product of his acres, is to occupy a large place at the third national conference on marketing and farm credits, to be held at Chicago beginning November 29, and there is every indication that something forceful will be the outcome.

The National Council of Farmers' Co-Operative Association has joined with the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits in issuing the call for the meeting. The National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits is the instrument through which the various interests are brought together rather than representative of a particular interest. The National Council of Farmers' Co-Operative Associations also is a central body. It represents 2,600 co-operative companies which own and operate grain elevators in the middle west and which have an aggregate membership of over 300,000 grain growers. The National Farmers' Union, the National Grange, and various state branches of the American Society of Equity, making a total representation of a million farmers, also have been asked to send delegates.

A million farmers banded together should be able to get pretty nearly anything they desire, and inasmuch as both eminent financiers and distinguished congressional leaders have been invited to assist in threshing out the question, there is small doubt that definite accomplishment will come from the Chicago meeting.

Not long since newspaper dispatches carried a story of a legal hanging in Mississippi which was made a veritable holiday in the town where it occurred, the entire citizenry of city and countryside for miles about flocking to see the execution, which was held in public. Thousands of curious folk with an abnormal appetite for the gruesome stood about to see the poor wretch expiate his crime on the gallows. Now comes Illinois, where the demand to see a hanging induced the county sheriff to permit a crowd of two thousand persons within the enclosure where the convicted man was sent to his doom. Apparently it is still quite as impossible to account for tastes today than in the times of the sage of long ago who declared that it simply couldn't be done.

There are renewed indications of the periodical revival of the project for the construction of an interurban line to connect Fort Wayne with Lake Wawasee, Ligonier, Goshen and other points to the northwest and there will be general hope that there is substantial basis for the new prospects. At various times promoters have dreamed of a network of trolley lines radiating from this city and linking up a network of thriving Northern Indiana towns in Whitley, Noble and Elkhart counties. Whether now or later, we think it very certain that there is to come some dreamer who will be able to make his entrancing vision a reality.

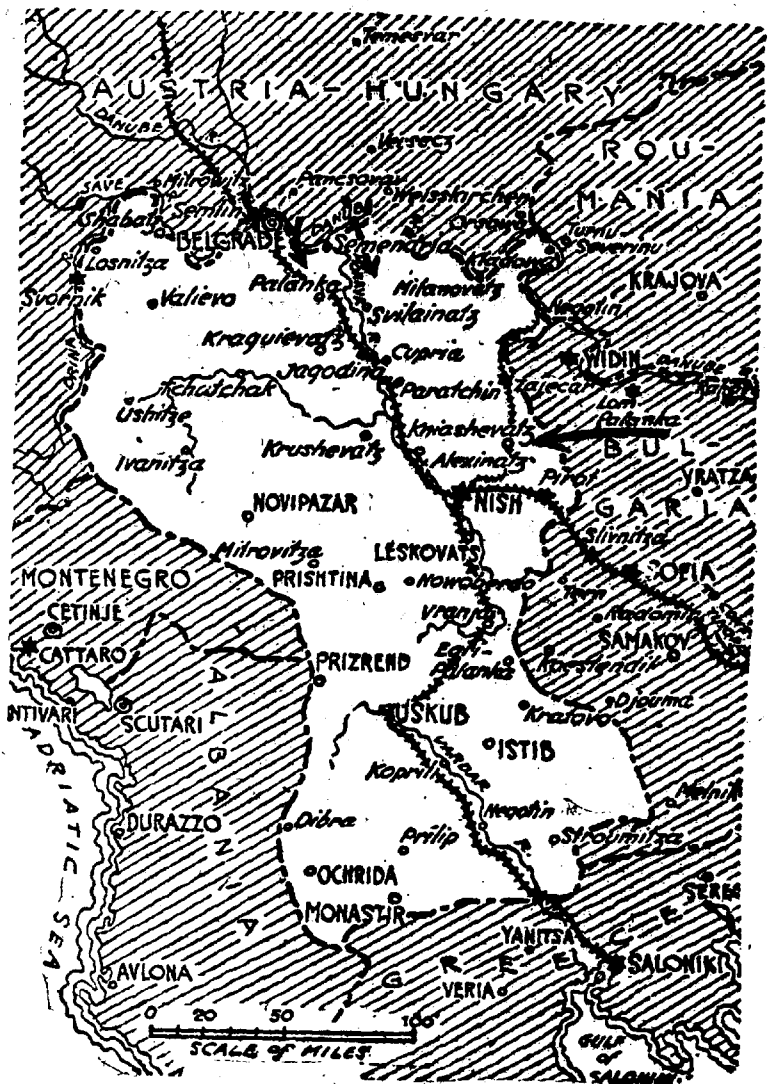

Information from Washington is to the general effect that the federal parole board will turn down flat the petitions for release filed in behalf of the Terre Haute election crooks who were sentenced to the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth earlier in the year. Apparently Washington believes that the professed moral regeneration of that crowd should be subjected to the acid test before it is accepted at its face value, and that the impressiveness of the prison term has hardly had time as yet to "take" thoroughly.

Benjamin W. Louthain, one of the veteran figures in Indiana newspaper work, is dead at his home in Logansport after a protracted illness. Long in the editorial harness, Mr. Louthain was very widely known, and his career extending over many years was an active and useful one. He leaves as his heritage not only a very wide circle of warm friends, but his lifetime of fine endeavor and a monumental sum total of work well done.

According to the postoffice department $239,000,000 has been filched from the American public during the past four years by fraudulent schemes operated by charmers, matrimonial agents, medical fakes and get-rich-quick schemes of all varieties, despite governmental watchfulness. In the face of this showing it would be interesting to know just how much the financial geniuses operating them could have gotten if they had been given an unrestricted chance at the purse of the general public.

New reports of the death of General Villa by violence are now shown to be unfounded—which shows that the reports of Villa's death are still running absolutely true to form.

HERE'S SERBIA, THE BATTLEFIELD OF THE BALKANS.

This is the latest map of the little country where the deciding battle of the world war seems likely to be fought. The arrow at the right shows the direction of the Bulgarians' drive into Serbian territory—a drive aimed at the railroad between Nish, the new Serbian capital, and Saloniki, in Greece, where the French and British troops were landed to help the Serbians repel the German, Austro-Hungarian and Bulgarian invaders.

WHEN THE STATE CALLS.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch).

Leaving aside for the time consideration of the horrors that war brings, the misery of which there can be no alleviation, the grief that must be felt, the latest proposal which Britain has, to face will make many Americans realize the blessing of peace and the value of preparedness that peace may be assured. Half of every Briton's income is now asked by the government to carry on the war. Coupled with the announcement that conscription is likely to be realized any day, this brings home in concrete form, one effect of war that every man can appreciate. It is a truism that a man is his hardest through his pocketbook. How many of us would like to hand over half our weekly pay envelope for an indefinite time, if it so happened that we escaped service in the trenches?

It is popular to cry against the rate of taxation, although some very good students of the tax question insist that we are not taxed nearly enough when the benefits given in return for our money are considered. How would the average American feel if he were told half of what he was accustomed to spend on his living expenses and his recreation was to go to the state—and that the state would let him know later whether it wanted more? In England the whole mode of living must be rearranged. Everything that savors of luxury must be dispensed with. All things needless are to have no place in the people's daily life that the state may have wherewithal to fight the battle. It is a lesson which might be taken to heart by our countrymen. The bulletin board strategists might feel less assurance with his daily ration sadly diminished in quantity and kind. The cost of preparedness may seem high. Who can say what would be the cost of conflict?

WINNING BACK THE EAGLE.

(Chicago Herald).

Twenty-eight years ago the admirals of John L. Sullivan's fist prowess presented him with a costly specimen of the goldsmith's and jeweler's skill as an emblem of his success over all other pugilists. But Sullivan had been fighting an opponent not of the flesh, though many truly believe it is of the devil.

Though his "strength was of the strength of ten," Sullivan couldn't beat his plan of battle. No man can. For years John the man fought John the spirit in the old way, and weakened in every round, until at last he was beaten by opponents of flesh also. And in the succession of defeats that followed even the cherished emblem of gold and jewels went into pledge and John L. Sullivan was like a French regiment of the days of Napoleon's glory which had lost its "eagle."

Then John the man changed his plan of battle with John the spirit. It took years of hard work to win back the fortune so lavishly squandered. But because man if he will may overcome an evil spirit John the man had the satisfaction the other day of buying back in Chicago that belt of gold and diamonds and was like a French regiment of the days of Napoleon's glory which had won back its "eagle" from the foe.

There is little reason to fear now that John L. Sullivan's victory over John Barleycorn will not be maintained as long as life endures. And what an encouragement his victory must be to other fighters against that foe! They can win, no matter how hopeless seems the struggle, if they will change the plan of battle as did John L. Sullivan. The grace of God which some are old-fashioned enough to believe must help and such struggles can be won if fought in resolute faith, and with that aid the victory is assured.

LABORER SAVED $60,000.

Curtisville Man Left Estate to Heirs of Sister in Germany.

Tipton, Ind., Oct. 18.—Miss Sinton, who died at Curtisville, Tipton county, left an estate of more than $60,000 to heirs of his sisters in Germany. He was a bachelor, a man of peculiar habits and had accumulated his money by working as a laborer for the Pennsylvania Railroad company for a quarter of a century and investing in farm land. No one knew until after his death how much he was worth. Personal notes and bank deposits, which failed to be reported to the assessor, indicates that Sinton owed the county several thousand dollars in taxes, aside from the inheritance tax, and the county assessor will endeavor to collect.

He Made Just Two Million Perfectly Good Dollars Out of a Pile of Junk Enterprising Young American from Indiana, Now in British Navy, Took a Plunge and Made It Win.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 18.—How an enterprising young American from Indiana, an officer in the British navy, got possession of a floating junk pile and made it earn millions of dollars is one of the strangest stories ever written.

He is Capt. D. H. Smith, and the junk heap is the convict ship Success, the oldest ship in the world, which recently ended a month's stay in Seattle harbor.

He staked his savings on her in a gamble with chance and a "hunch" as she lay in the Thames, at London, eight years ago, a white elephant on the hands of her owners.

He has converted her into a perpetual gold mine, and now, at 42, he is worrying because he can't let go of her. Let us now temporarily forget Capt. Smith and consider England's penal system early in the 19th century.

When men committed offenses then they were often deported to Australia in Britain's notorious prison hulks. There were five of these prison hulks, and Capt. Price was their commander. He was a veritable find, and his subordinates were demons and his ships were floating hells.

For years this went on, until the Australian commonwealth arose in protest and abolished the system. Out of the fleet of five prison hulks, four were broken up, by government order, for the teak wood and copper in their hulls.

By some oversight no order was entered against the Success, flagship of Capt. Price. This was in 1859.

From then until 1880 she served as a woman's reformatory, and then for two years as an ammunition store ship, when a syndicate bought her, anchored her in Sydney harbor, and started her on her career as an exhibition ship.

Small boats carried many sightseers from the shore to view her, until the government, alarmed that its past sins should thus be shown, ordered the ship scuttled and sunk.

She lay at the bottom of Sydney harbor for years, and the syndicate died of financial paralysis. A second syndicate raised her and took her back to England, where she was again opened as an exhibition ship, on the Thames.

She was moored at an obscure pier in London, and London knew nothing of her. She was just a little "tuppenny show." She lay there for years, a miserable frost, and her Australian owners, 16,000 miles from home, were sick of her, and offered her for sale.

Here enters Capt. Smith.

Capt. Smith was born in Indiana of English parents. On his 18th birthday, at their instance, he entered the British navy and sailed all over the world. He heard many times of the Success, and took an interest in her.

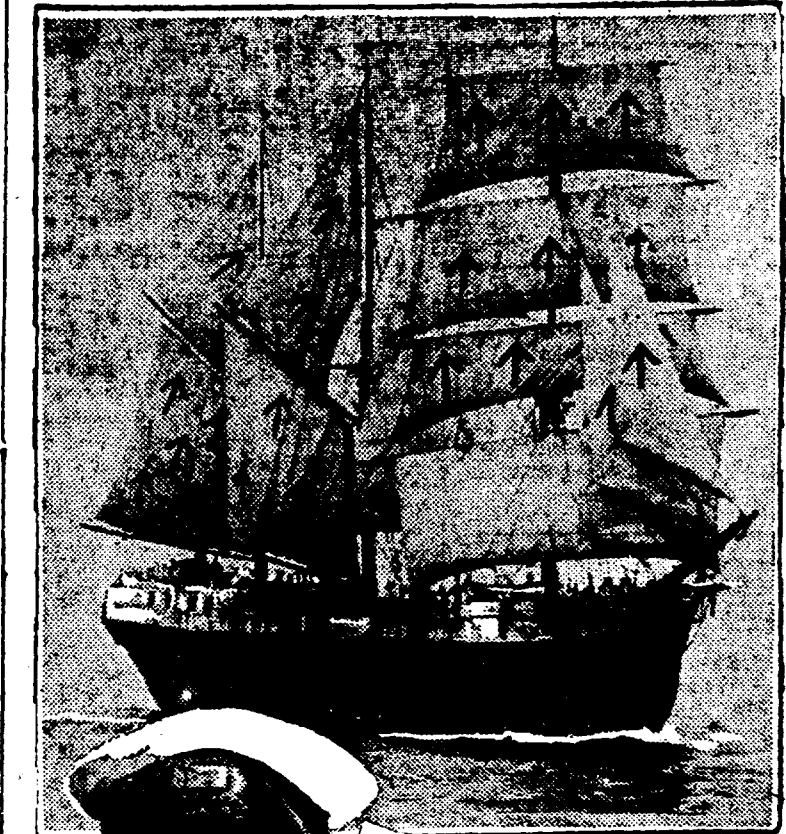

He found her one day as he was exploring through London's streets, and went aboard. He had heard she was for sale.

Capt. Smith had a little money saved. With part of it he got a 30-day option on the battered old ship, and then hastened to the British museum, where he read up on the old convict system, taking notes as he read. He had dreamed of no such blot on the pages of Britain's history. He picked up his notes and hurried to the editorial office of the 16 leading dailies of London.

The editors sat up and rubbed their eyes. It was new stuff to them. They saw news in it—all but the stately Times, the official organ of the government, "the watchdog of Great Britain." The Times suspected a veiled attack on the government, and would have none of it.

Capt. Smith frankly unfolded his plan to the editors. He would open the Success to the public if they would give him their editorial support.

He had never been in newspaper work himself, but he pointed out the news value of the Success and 15 of them promised to back him. Then Capt. Smith dashed downstairs to the business offices of these 15 dailies and spent all the money he had left in the first day's advertising.

"I figured I'd either lose it quick or make it quick," he explained. He moved the ugly vessel from her obscure berth to a pier near the Strand, in the heart of London; he collected historical relics of torture and historical data, and hired trained lecturers to conduct the crowds over the ship.

Also he raised the price of admission from "tuppence" to a shilling.

The shillings began rolling in, and as fast as they rolled in Capt. Smith gathered them up and took them to the business offices of the dailies, where he bought more advertising.

Some of the London dailies charged $1,100 an issue. But he got results.

Then he bought that 30-day option he told himself the ship either would break him or she would pay for her self in a year. She did neither. She paid for herself in six months.

She lay at that pier three years, the longest any show ever ran in London. And when, after a cruise to other English cities and around the Irish coast, she sailed away for America, the ship had cleared him a million dollars in less than four years.

Robert B. Hanna was the principal speaker Saturday evening at a called meeting of Post A. Travelers' Protective association, in the headquarters, room 12, Arcade. He spoke on the subject of "Good Roads."

The Degree of Honor lodges in Fort Wayne will entertain the superior chief of honor, Mrs. Buell Olson, the fore part of November.

POLICE CHIEF SLAIN.

Galesburg Official Killed in Leading Raid on Gambling House.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 18.—Lyman Mathews, chief of police, was shot and killed last night while leading a raid on a negro gambling house. His assailant is said by the police to have been Tootie Hopkins, a negro gambler. The shot fired by Hopkins was the signal for general fusillade, and when it ended it was found that Hopkins had escaped. Mathews was 38 years old, and leaves a widow. He was shot through the right lung and died in a few minutes.

Says Youthfulness is Fashion's Watchword

MRS. RIPLEY.

BY MRS. ALLA RIPLEY,
President Fashion Art League of America.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Smiling, good taste, youthfulness, these are the watch-words of fashion this fall.

And the most important of these is youthfulness. In this day of active, efficient women youth must not be lost sight of. No woman will consent to appear old before her time, no woman wants to look old before she feels old.

As to details of fashions that have come in with the fall—the short, full skirt is finally established, it's a little longer and a little wider than recent models, but it's by no means long from three to six inches from the floor, is the approved length; the width of the skirt is governed by the length of the coat—the shorter the coat the wider the skirt.
The extremely high waist line has been displaced by the normal or natural waist line, this line is indicated in coats by stitchings and embroideries and partially cut-in motive.

To emphasize the princess effect now so popular the coats have long closing lines, some of them even buttoning to the shoulders, and others have a long, diagonal line from throat to waist line.

PATHWAY IN CHINA

Superstition Resents Any Change to New Order of Things.

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Difficulties which beset educational leaders in their battle against Chinese superstition are illustrated in a recent riot at Peitai, caused by the conversion of a Buddhist monastery into a public school.
For several years the Sunching monastery had been used in part for school purposes. In deference to the superstition of the villagers, however, the school committee did not remove the idols of Kuan Yin and other buddhas from the monastery until such a step became necessary to make room for more pupils.

The monks were indignant and inspired a number of hags to circulate the report that Buddha Kuan Yin had by means of inspiration ordered them to ask the community to resist the removal of the images from the monastery temple.

Fired by the monastic warning, excited countrymen organized a mob and destroyed all the public school furniture and books. The mob then moved against Messrs. Tsai and Tung, the heads of the public school committee, and destroyed their homes. All the shops and public buildings in the village closed to avoid the fury of the mob, but no further damage was done.
The rioters all reside within the jurisdiction of Shanghai officials, who are now attempting to locate the leaders of the mob. Buddhist monasteries throughout China are falling into ruins and their temples are badly neglected.
In many cases they are used as tea houses or shops. Sometimes they are even used as stables. Natives make fun of the monks and give them little support. But in time of illness and financial troubles the ignorant Chinese turn to the monks and priests, who still hold sway over a considerable portion of the coolie class.

WILL CASE AGAINST
MORGAN IS DROPPED

Fairfax Court House, Va., Oct. 18.— Martha Washington's will, which was taken from the court house here by a union trooper during one of the battles of Bull Run and later found its way into the collection of the late J. P.
Morgan, was returned to the county archives today with elaborate ceremonies.

Recently the state of Virginia sued
J. P. Morgan in the supreme court of the United States to recover the historic document. Mr. Morgan suggested that it be placed in Mount Vernon, Fairfax county, Va., however, claimed it as part of their court records and today it was restored to its place beside the will of Gen. Washington. The case against
Mr. Morgan will be dropped.

FUNERAL FOR DAVIS' CAPTOR.

William P. Stedman is Buried at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Funeral services were held here today for William P. Stedman, a former private in the Fourth Michigan regiment during the civil war, and the captor of Jefferson Davis after the fall of Richmond. Stedman died here yesterday at the age of 79 years. He had been a resident of Washington for almost a quarter of a century and at the time of his death was an employee of the department of agriculture.

Plans are already being made for the golden jubilee of Sol D. Bayless lodge,
No. 359, F. & A. M., to be held May 28,

BY CAROLINE COE

From time almost immemorial it has been the custom to celebrate Hallow eve, and the date, Oct. 31, in olden times was the day the priests set aside for a great religious feast or festival. It was called "All Hallow" because it preceded "All Saints Day."

Most of the old customs, especially those of religious origin, when handed down to later generations, lose not only their real significance, but are often entirely misconstrued.

The Hallow Eve of modern times is nearly devoid of religious ceremony—and is fast becoming only a day for fun and entertainment, and all ages and sizes look forward to the day of "fortunes and fakes."

The combining of light, fire and candles make the expense of a party very small, and the effect is often weird and wonderful.

If one is fortunate enough to live "on a farm" the Hallow Eve party has almost any possibility. Clear out the "crops" from the main floor of the big barn and give the party there. Use big, bright bonfires to light the way to the place where the "mystic and mighty" rites are to be performed, and where fun takes the fortunes will hold forth.

If the danger of the big fires seem too great, set big pails or iron kettles up high on stump or log, fill these with ashes and pour kerosene over the ashes and light when the guests begin to arrive. Great care must be taken, and only once must the fires be started. Do not turn more oil over the hot ashes.

Of course, pumpkins—Jack-o-lanterns—will be hung in every possible spot and corner, but a new "lantern" may be made by cutting a face in a piece of black cloth and pinning the cloth around the oil lantern; leave the top of lantern uncovered to allow a current of air.

Cozy corners may easily be made of branches of autumn leaves and cornstalks; in one of these corners must stand the dreaded witch, who reads the innermost heart and has the power to tell your past as well as your future. The witch should be someone who knows all the guests and who is quick witted and has great imagination. She should be dressed in Mother Goose costume and so disguised that none may know her.

If the party is dancing have the "grand march" start to music made on combs covered with paper. The Scots use a piper, and the music on the combs is much the same.

Have the refreshments served at different places; on the first table place the plates and silver and the sandwiches; on sandwiches the shape of broom or witch cap, or roll some, placing inside the bread a picture of some one's "future husband"; these may be cut from a magazine, and the guest must guess his occupation from the picture.

Scoop out the centers from large cabbage and fill the space with salad, and serve with the sandwiches. At the next table serve the coffee or punch; these two may be "sold," the price to be a good joke or story on any of the guests and these may be auctioned off at the end of the evening. Each guest has a chance to name whom she thinks the joke is on.

At the third table have individual pumpkin pies, and ginger cookies cut in the shape of a cat; dip cookies after baking in chocolate icing and fasten a skewer in the back and the cats will sit up on the table.

Popcorn balls may be wrapped in colored paper. Write on a paper a quotation then cut the paper in two parts, wrap two popcorn balls and partners for next dance are found by finding the beginning or end to the quotation on the ball of corn.

Fill peanuts with rice or buttons; or a dollar sign, tiny clothespins; each having its significance; rice, wedding; button, single blessedness; dollar sign, riches; clothespin, work for a living.

These peanuts are easily made—remove the kernels and fill the space with anything desired and wet edges with a little glue and press the shells together, allow to "set" and they are ready for the fun.

GO WHERE THE CROWDS GO

CHICAGO WOMAN'S HOSPITAL UNIQUE

Mrs. Mary Borden Turner
Devises Field Institution
"Out of Ordinary."

Busbridge, Belgium, Oct. 9.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—
While rushing through Belgium three cups full of officers and correspondents stopped at the unique field hospital conducted by Mrs. Mary Borden Turner, of Chicago.

It is constructed of portable sections, electrically lighted from a plant in a motor-lorry, nine long wooden buildings in all, with operating room and X-ray plant, its own laundry, and most of the features of a permanent hospital.

When the party arrived American ambulance drivers were removing ten men who had recovered sufficiently to be taken to hospitals further away from the firing line. After a tour of the wards, Mrs. Turner entertained the party at tea in her own little wooden office building and talked of the work.

"When Dunkirk was bombarded, my friends at home were worried because we are so near the Germans, but it is so satisfying to be where we can see such results. And these uncomplaining soldiers are splendid. We have 135 here now. The only complaining one is a British soldier. He hurt his ankle badly playing football. He said he was ashamed to go back with that kind of injury, so we are letting him stay. As a rule we move farther to the rear all who can go, to make room for those brought from the trenches."

The Benevolent Order of Bulalofoe gave a fall feast and entertainment in their hall, 130 West Berry street, Mon-

DEER AT LARGE IN INDIANA.

Seven Escape From a Park at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—There are wild deer in Indiana. It became known today that seven of a local herd had escaped and that efforts to capture them had been fruitless.

Led by a big antlered buck, the entire herd of twenty charged through the wire fence about the park in which they were kept and escaped early Saturday. Thirteen of them later straggled back to the park. The other seven were seen frequently yesterday, but they fled at the approach of men.

The regular meeting of the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange will be held Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Commercial club. It will be the last meeting before the state convention to be held here Wednesday and Thursday.

Society

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Blitz, in West Wayne street, was the scene of a happy gathering today as Mrs. Blitz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Barcus, of Bluffton, are here celebrating their golden wedding anniversary and meeting during the day and evening such of their old friends as find an opportunity to call. Mr. and Mrs. Barcus lived in Fort Wayne for many years and Mr. Barcus was a prominent confectioner at that time. Mrs. Blitz, who is an only child, has her home beautifully decorated with smilax, red oak leaves and yellow chrysanthemums and roses in honor of the occasion. Nearly forty people, all relatives, gathered at the Blitz home today and enjoyed a reunion at a dinner at the noon hour. At the table with Mr. and Mrs. Barcus were their brothers and sisters and Mr. and Mrs. Blitz and three children. The table is trimmed with a big bowl of oak leaves and yellow mums and bows of yellow tulle and yellow hooded lights carry out the appropriate color effect, while all appointments of the table are elegant. Smaller tables have Italian ware, low vases of yellow roses in their centers and about the room smilax is used on chandeliers and in festoons as a beautiful setting to the gold lettering and the dates in gold are another bit of effective decoration. The guests at the dinner and the day are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennett, of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barcus, Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, Mrs. Martha McFarren, Mr. and Mrs. John Goodyear and Mrs. Clara Springstead, all of Bluffton, who are the brothers and sisters of Mr. and Mrs. Barcus. Other guests from away are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barr, of Celina, O.; Mr. and Mrs. James Lepper, of St. Mary's, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McFarren, Mr. and Mrs. Earl McFarren and Mrs. E. Patrick, all of Bluffton; Mrs. Robert Robertson, of Paducah, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson, Mrs. Catherine Wells and Miss Harriet Deam, all of this city, and all relatives.

Mrs. Clarence Schuch is visiting her mother and sister in New Albany. Miss Sadie Fleming is in Lafayette visiting Mrs. Charles Corey for a few days. Misses Marguerite Flick and Margaret Pooley are visiting friends in Logansport. Mrs. W. L. Near and son, Marshall,

Airy-Fairy Frills for Debutantes

By Betty Brown.
An airy-fairy thing of many frills is this evening gown Mimi Ripley has designed for the autumn debutante. It's made of a delicate biscuit shade of taffeta embroidered in silver and gold threads of lace. Fine cream lace forms the upper part of the gown, the sleeves and the bottom of the skirt. The princess lines are defined by a girde of silver ribbon; the girde is caught in the front with a yellow rose corsage.

TWINS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

CATHERINE AND DOLORES KROUSE

Catherine and Dolores Krouse are twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Krouse, of Smith street, and at a recent celebration of their fifth anniversary they entertained sixteen of their small playmates and other friends, who spent the afternoon. After playing games the twins led the way to the dining room, where a table beautifully decorated and many good things to eat awaited them. Mrs. Joe Krouse, of Sheldon, and Misses Iva and Irene Harkender assisted.

Mrs. Krouse in serving the children. Among the beautiful gifts the children received were dolls, and Grandpa Harkender's gift was a big doll for each, which the children held when their pictures were taken. The children present were Dorothy Geiger, Mercedes McCune, Mabel Cramer, Esther Tagmeyer, Catherine Childers, Violet Becker, Mary Walt, Gladys Moore, Ira and Earl Palmer, Thomas Edker and Clyde Krouse, of Sheldon.

Cranton, Clara Ankenbruck, Adele Bohde, Clara Nichter and Messrs. Clem Schneider, Bert Sheffer, Russell Bennett, Lester Frank, Ed Ehrman, Bob Neher, Frank Oddou and Bog Craig.

Eighteen years old and eighteen friends calling at eight o'clock last Friday evening gave Miss Cora Miller something to remember in the way of a surprise for a long time. A birthday cake made its appearance from somewhere, with white frosting and pink candles. When the guests were served each received a piece of cake with a tiny candle lighted on it. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Frick, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Scherer, the Misses Edna and Marie Lieberenz, Edith and Minnie Schuster, Mary Shivers, Grace Whitmore, Bertha Connett and Messrs. Walter and Dewey Lieberenz, Walter Howe, Lyndon Parker, Elmer Fox, Frank Connett and Gottlieb Lamle.

A delightful time was spent on Saturday evening by a company of young people, who surprised Miss Anna Huebner at her home, 220 Killea avenue, as a reminder of her birthday anniversary. Progressive bunco was enjoyed and music furnished by Herman Gerdon. Prizes in the contests were won by Miss Pearl Stimmel and Gertrude Lankeau and Messrs. Herman Gerdon and Fred Bicknese. Two birthday cakes ornamented with candles and a lighted pumpkin added a pretty touch to the table, at which a tempting luncheon was served. Those who participated in the party were Misses Laura Quicker, Gladys Alley, Luella, Gertrude and Irma Lankeau, Casima and Pearl Stimmel, Dora Backofen and Anna Huebner and Messrs. Leonard Kinley, Ivan Hoobs, Jack Vos, Herman Gerdon, Fred Boedecker, Fred Bicknese, Bruce Stewart, Charles Backofen, Milford Gerding, Miss Casima Stimmel and Miss Luella Lankeau assisted the hostess in serving the luncheon.

One of the prettiest parties of the season was given on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Smith, 340 East Woodland avenue, when their daughter, Miss Mildred, celebrated her sixteenth birthday anniversary by entertaining about thirty friends who were Irene Rupp, Mildred Bitner, Valente Daseler, Nellie Tomkinson, Evelyn Arik, Ethel Peterson, Myrtle Miller, Jean Dobler, Louise Baade, Arthur Mills, Bob Burns, Frank Shannon, Lester Frech, Matthew Glenn, Paul Peterson, Charles Tilden, Reynold Eggenmann, Walter Arik, Clarence Figg, Floyd Baldwin, Mrs. Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. Wagoner, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Enrick. Bunco and other games were enjoyed. Miss Daseler and Mr. Peterson won the prizes. The house was tastefully decorated in pink and white flowers. An elegant supper was served.

Miss Ruth McClellan. Mr. and Mrs. J. LeChot were quietly married on Saturday evening at the parsonage of Trinity English Lutheran church by Rev. Samuel Wagnenhaus. Only immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a handsome broadcloth suit with hat to match. The bride and groom left on a wedding trip to points in northern Ohio, and will stop in Akron, which was formerly Mr. LeChot's home. Mr. LeChot is a young druggist and is employed at the Dreier store. The bride is a bright and sweet young woman who has many friends who are interested in her marriage. Mr. and Mrs. LeChot will make their home in Fort Wayne.

McMaken-Engish. Mr. J. K. McMaken, an Allen county farmer, and Miss Elva C. Engish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Engish, of South Calhoun street, were married on Saturday evening by Rev. E. Q. Laudemann, at the parsonage of the First Evangelical church. Mr. and Mrs. McMaken will make their home with his parents, who live on a farm four miles north of the city.

Thursday Shakespeare Club. The first study meeting of the Thursday Shakespeare club for this season will be held this week with Mrs. Allyn, 125 Wildwood avenue. The club is reading Richard the Third and will discuss the date of composition and the sources of the plot of the play and the conditions in England when Richard III ascended the throne. Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Rhoads and Miss O'Rourke are in charge of the program. Officers of the Thursday Shakespeare club are Mrs. P. F. Dixon, president; Mrs. H. E. Allison, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Voorhees, secretary, and Miss Grace Hogan, treasurer.

HUSBAND CHARGES WIFE WITH CRUELTY

Suit is Filed by Franz Mann for Divorce from Clara Mann.

Mann.

Charging extreme cruelty, inasmuch as she refused to cook his meals and for weeks would not speak to him, Franz Mann filed suit in the superior court Monday asking a divorce from Clara Mann. Mr. and Mrs. Mann were married May 20, 1907, in Dresden, Germany, and separated October 18, 1915. They have two children, Erna, 7, and William, 6. Mann alleges that on one occasion his wife threw a coffee pot at him, striking him a terrific blow above the left eye. The suit was filed through Attorneys Harper and Fuelber. Judge Yaple granted an injunction Monday restraining Mrs. Mann from disposing of any property.

Notes of the Courts. Suit for $56, alleged to be due for harvesting eight acres of sugar beets, was filed Monday in the circuit court by John Benchof et al, against the Continental Sugar company.

Judge Eggeman, in the circuit court Monday, heard the case brought by Fred Pranger, guardian of Henry Welp, against Frederick Blaising for the cancellation of a mortgage.

Suit for $421.50 damages for breach of contract was filed in the superior court Monday by Elgie B. Stevens, through Attorney Clark P. Squires, against Seraphim Miller and Catherine Miller.

A judgment for $223.05 was allowed by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court Monday to the People's Collateral Loan company against Anna Gagnor.

The transcript from the court of Justice of the Peace, C. Niernman filed in the superior court Monday in the case brought by the Enterprise Investment company against Arthur W. Harris for $75, alleged to be due on a contract for financing the Enterprise company.

A cross complaint has been filed in the case brought by Jessie Orin Longworth against Ralph W. Cramer et al.

Judge Yaple Monday approved the appraisal of the property of the Indiana Printing company in the case brought by the J. W. Butler Paper company. The property was appraised for $44,356.47.

The case brought by Charles R. Rovine against the Engineering company has been sent to the Adams circuit court on change of venue from the superior court.

Application was filed in the superior court Monday by Bessie Keller for support in divorce case originally brought by John C. Keller.

Judge Yaple, in the superior court, Monday granted a decree for divorce to Esther Pommert from Francis Pommert and ordered the husband to pay $8 each month for the support of their child.

AMERICAN YACHT IS HELD.

Colombian Government Sees Suspicious Circumstances.

Bogota, Colombia, Oct. 13.—An American yacht bound from San Francisco, the name Academy painted over the name Ethel, and carrying an unusually large crew, is being detained by government authorities near Buena Ventura, a Colombian port on the Pacific, under suspicious circumstances. According to the Colombian officials the vessel's papers are irregular. The German name of the master of the ship, it is asserted, has been erased from the papers and an American name substituted. The yacht was searched but nothing was found to indicate the mission of the crew. The vessel will be detained until her legal status has been established.

FRANK CASE CONTINUED.

Mendel Frank, who is charged by Joe Marino with assault and battery on Patay Vastana and Dominic Sacco, two 7-year-old Italian lads he found in an unoccupied house owned by Frank, last Saturday, was continued until October 20 in the city court. Young Vastana was struck in the eye by a stick, it is said, and may lose the optic. The other boy was also struck in the eye.

SHELDON NOT IN THE RIOT.

It should be stated that Fred Sheldon, keeper of a saloon on Wells street, was in no way implicated in the riot at the Wells street bridge early Thursday morning when Perry Frobright, a strike-breaker, shot Al McKee and A. C. Caldwell, following a row. Mr. Sheldon and his wife merely happened to be passing at the time and was only a witness of, not a participant in the trouble.

RESULTS IN MOTOR RACES.

Speed Tests Leave Each Still Confident as to His Own Car.

After postponing the Saturday events till Sunday and spending much time wrangling over the minor details, the following are the results of the speed tests at the Centlivre park track.

Event 1—Won by Packard; William Yackey.

Event 2—Won by Stutz; Joe J. Murdoch.

Event 3—Won by Chevrolet; William Brown.

Event 4—Won by Stutz; J. J. Murdoch.

Event 5—Won by Maxwell; Billy Tidmarsh.

Event 6—Billy Tidmarsh equalled the world's record of 1:07 2-5 for one mile.

Event 7—Won by Chevrolet; William Brown.

There still is much discussion as to the relative merits of the cars in the match race that was run, the Chevrolet and Maxwell drivers each claiming the small end of the chance to shine. Brown and Tidmarsh each claims high honors in the events.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO PRESERVE PRE-HISTORIC MOUNDS

Monks Of Cahokia Observe Strange Ritual In Honor Of a By-gone Race—Dress and Ceremonies Resemble That Of the Ku Klux—The Members Of This Secret Organization In Illinois Are Now Engaged In a Weird Task

About an ancient mound, where many centuries ago a now forgotten race worshipped, at the present day there appears mystic figures wearing cowls and masks and singing strange incantations that in their weirdness seem to be revivals of the chants of the original dwellers of the land.

These men or the Monks of Cahokia, come at night to honor the memory of that forgotten race of centuries ago. Not one is known to the other, not a word is spoken except the strange incantation and no eyes save those of the monks are allowed to gaze on the mystic rites for the dead buried beneath that mound.

The Mound of Cahokia is near East St. Louis. It is the work of the mound builders and its history is lost in the oblivion of the past.

The Monks of Cahokia are business men of Illinois. They now number more than 500, yet as was said before, during the entire ceremony at the mound the identity of each monk is concealed from that of the other and no word is interchanged between them.

There, before that mystic pile that contains beneath it the bones of perhaps the oldest inhabitants of this continent, with the moon as the only light for ceremony, the Monks of Cahokia chant their sad song to the memory of a forgotten race.

The chant of the new in the honor of the old is the only link that binds a forgotten race of mound builders to the present generation of Monks.

DRESS LIKE KU KLUX.

The organization of the Monks of Cahokia was formed many years ago and not until recently were the names of any of its members known. As mysterious as the Ku Klux or the night riders of Kentucky, these men in their cowls and wearing masks gathered at periods to engage in their mystic work. Glimmering lights appearing as will-o'-the-wisps occasionally gave to passersby a glimpse of this secret organization at its ritualistic work, but the full account of what occurs about the mound when the monks are at their prayers or rather incantations never has been fully known.

There are weird sounds, strange noises and strange words as the songs are sung for the dead of Cahokia Mound. The fleeting figures in their queer garb, the almost uncanny sounds of the incantations and the very mystery of the action of the monks, might lead to the belief that the dead mound builders were reincarnated and were singing their lamentations.

Until recently the names of the leaders of the Monks were shrouded in mystery. Some of the forms were recognized, but the Monks never revealed any of their secrets or admitted even their membership.

However, they finally decided that this gigantic mound should be perpetuated, and decided to call on congress to purchase the land on which it is located. Congress, however, failed to act favorably and now the matter is before the Illinois legislature.

The publicity necessary for such a project revealed the names of the leaders of the movement. George E. Little of Edwardsville is Lord High Chancellor and J. H. Dierker of Edwardsville is amanuensis. Among the recently admitted members are Congressman William E. Dudenberg, Judge W. E. Hadley of Edwardsville and Dr. Henry H. Whelpley, an archaeologist of St. Louis, who has explored the ancient mound and has taken from it many valuable relics.

MIXING IN THE MODERN.

The membership of the order now equals 560, more than 150 new ones being initiated at a recent meeting at the Elks' club. This was one of the few initiations not held at the mound itself, and antiquity was mixed with the modern by a cabaret following the initiation.

Before the service the Monks in their strange garb paraded the streets of East St. Louis, headed by a brass band. They were so disguised by their masks and with the hood of their cowl drawn over their heads that it was impossible for the crowd that viewed the parade to recognize any individual.

The Mound of Cahokia is in St. Clair county, Illinois. It is surrounded by a chain of smaller mounds. In all there are 26 mounds in an area of 250 acres and it is this land that the Monks have asked the state of Illinois to purchase as a park.

The history of the ancient race that constructed these mounds is buried in the deepest antiquity. Archaeologists are certain that they even ante-dated the Indians who were supposed to be the first inhabitants of this continent.

Geologists, too, give to the mound builders a very early period in the history of the world. It is certain from observations of both classes of scientists that at some period estimated as far back as 10,000 to 20,000 years ago by the geologists and 2,000 to 5,000 by archaeologists and historians, there lived in America an ancient race that in many ways excelled in accomplishments the Indians who succeeded them.

What the exact period of their existence was never will be learned, unless at some future date the exploration of some of the mounds reveals tablets that will give the world the history of this most ancient race.

HISTORY IN DOUBT.

Whether they flourished before the glacial period has not been established. The high-class of their work indicates that perhaps it was after the glacial period. Drawing on the rocks on the bluffs along the Mississippi river may have been by the mound dwellers or the Indians who succeeded them. These drawings in a mixture of red fire clay and some peculiarly lasting oil, represented strange birds and animals, now long extinct. One prominent one drawn on the limestone of the bluffs is of the Piasa bird, a bird of mythology that may have had something to do with the religious worship of this ancient race.

The exploration of many of the mounds found throughout the United States brought forth indications that the mound builders were of the same high order of civilization as the Egyptians, if not of a contemporaneous period.

Their pottery work far excelled that of the Indians who inhabit the United States.

They had pots and vases with handles, showing the higher accomplishment in the production of clay utensils.

They had spears with iron heads and bodies of bamboo, crudely fashioned. Knives of iron blades and wooden handles.

They had mills for grinding meal, the latter showing that in civilization they surpassed the Indian, although they ante-dated them.

The mound builders evidently were a peaceful nation. They hunted game as the relics of animals found in the mounds indicate. They apparently cultivated grain. They had a high degree of cultivation. They were home loving. Nothing has been discovered to indicate that they ever warred. Little there is to indicate that there were heroes among them or that any were called on to defend their homes.

What became of this ancient race? Certainly they were not wiped out by the Indians as there is nothing in the history of the latter race to indicate this.

WHAT WAS THEIR FATE?

It almost is certain that the ravages of disease could not have wiped out a nation that apparently was spread not only over North America, but evidence of which also is found in South America. Further proof that they lived before the great glacial period is found in the fact that in the ruins are found the bones of prehistoric animals—animals that were so gigantic that nothing but nature itself could have rendered them extinct.

There are many positive proofs that through a depression in yearly temperature a glacial period invaded Europe, Northern Asia and North America, burying wide expanses of territory under an ice-sheet of whose character and extent northern Greenland with its surface capped by ice can afford an idea. The immediate result of this sudden climatic change was an essential alteration in the fauna. Animal forms that were unequal to the impaired climate, that could neither resist it or adapt themselves to it, were at first driven back and then annihilated.

Were, then, the ancient builders of mounds of Cahokia and of other such mounds throughout the United States among those to be caught in the glacial period—that ancient time that ante-dates history itself and is known only from the unmistakable marks of its existence that archaeologists and geologists have found?

The glacial or drift period drove many animals from the western hemisphere to the eastern across what is now Behring sea.

Thus it is apparent that the last vestige of human life disappeared after the great ice flows came down from the north. When after thousands of years this ice melted there came to North America the Indians. They found the land uninhabited. But did they find the same mounds that are now seen through the country?

Whether or not the mound builders pre-dated them perhaps never will be learned.

It is this very mystery that the Monks of Cahokia today worship. There is something strange about those mounds as one views them. They cannot but recall vivid mental representations of an era long gone when a strange race trod there.

It is this veneration for antiquity that created the Monks of Cahokia, the most unique organization of its kind in the United States.

MADE MUNCIE LOOK LIKE RUSSIAN ARMY

"Disorderly Retreat" of Converville Crew in Sunday Farce.

From state champions in 1912 to their present condition is some drop for the Converville football team, but, according to the score board yesterday, they were repaid with interest for the infamous defeat they administered the Friars two years ago. The Muncie team was hopelessly outclassed in all departments of the game, and most notably in defensive work; their secondary defense did not hold once out of twenty times and as a result the locals crossed the goal line for sixteen touchdowns and finished with a score of 109 to 0.

The feature of the game that excited the most admiration was the interference of the locals. At least three and sometimes four men sprang the opposition out of the way of the man carrying the ball. The Friars are now a well trained, smooth working scoring machine and when Wabash puts in an appearance here they will doubtless be disagreeably surprised. Lambert showed what he could do in open field work, and Chambers demonstrated that he was still able to plough through the lines.

The closest Muncie came to scoring was in the first period when they actually got to within fifteen yards of the goal, but the Friar line held and Muncie finished the game with a goose egg to her credit. Straight football gave the locals 27 for the first half; Kennedy crossed for the first and a few minutes later La Pado registered on a long forward pass. Kennedy then scored with two more, which finished the scoring for that quarter.

Lambert started things in the second period with two successive touchdowns and Kennedy registered once. Then a cog slipped in the Friar machine and Muncie gained possession of the ball. Then the visitors attempted to give a demonstration of their much advertised trick play and after three miserable failures punted. La Pado tallied, bringing the score up to 55.

The Muncie organization instead of tightening up seemed to get worse as the third quarter progressed, and the locals scored at will. This quarter was played almost entirely by second string men and these seemed to experience no trouble in crossing Muncie's goal. Toward the close of the game, in response to the frequent calls of the crowd to "make it a hundred," the Friars did so and went down one better, scoring once after the century mark. PLENTY OF SPACE
TO SET A SPELL

(By Brown Holmes).

Braves field, Boston, seats 44,000 persons. The Harvard stadium seats 50,000. The Yale bowl seats 70,000.

Now comes the Sheephead bay speedway which seats 120,000. On dope, the speedway is the biggest thing ever in the way of a palace of sport. In the old days it was claimed the Circus Maximus seated 250,000. That is doubted. It was also claimed the coliseum would seat 87,000 Romans, but measurement of what is left of the coliseum indicates it would hold about 45,000.

The Speedway, scene of the Astor cup race, is located on the old Sheephead bay race track, Long Island. It contains a two mile track and is a wonderful piece of work.

The track surrounds 450 acres of ground. It is not to be used only for auto races. There's a football field, a baseball field, fifty tennis courts and enough room for an aviation meet, a horse show and even a military tournament.

Besides, it is probable space will be allotted for open air grand opera in warm months and skating and hockey in the winter.

The speedway cost a lot of money to build. It will cost a lot for maintenance. But there are enough rich men behind the scheme to make it a go.

Local Fighter to Meet Tom Stevens at Muncie Tonight.

Frankie Mason, crack Fort Wayne pugilist, is promised the hardest battle of his career when he meets Tom Stevens, former Philadelphia bantam whirlwind, in Franklin hall next Monday night in the main go of a boxing carnival to be given under the auspices of the Delaware Athletic club.

It will be the first appearance of the Philadelphia boy in the middle west. In the east Stevens met and defeated some of the fastest boys in the bantam class. Then opponents became scarce and he decided to come west. Stevens has made his home in Columbus, O., and has been training diligently for a go with Mason. He hopes to wrest the Indiana-Ohio title from the Fort Wayne boy in the ten-round bout at Muncie Monday night. The bout is to be fought at 112 pounds.

FIFTH OF A SERIES OF PICTURES POSED BY EDDIE MAHAN, HARVARD CAPTAIN, AND ONE OF THE GREATEST PLAYERS THE GRIDIRON HAS PRODUCED, SHOWING HOW HE PLAYS FOOTBALL.

In running with the ball I carry it with one end against the crook in the elbow and the other in the hand with the fingers spread out and gripped tightly.

The ball should not be tucked back under the arm (as shown in the middle picture) for in that position it can be punched out.

I believe that in some places players are taught to raise their leg up when catching punts. I do not raise my leg, but catch the ball against my chest with the arms bent to make a pocket, and one hand crossed over the other (as shown in the picture on the right).

EVANSVILLE MOTHERS WOULD CENSOR FILMS

Say Daughters Take What They See at Movies Too Seriously.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Evansville mothers fear their daughters are adapting to real life the romances they view in "fool life." At a meeting of the Mothers' club of Centennial school, plans were discussed to obtain mother supervision of the "movies."

Although the screen drama's worth as an educational agent is admitted by teachers and parents, they have returned the following indictments: Young girls are prone to take too seriously the romance of the movies. They yearn for the seeming ease of milady of the screen. Marriage is held up to ridicule.

E. P. Wiles, principal of the high school, says the rapid transitions of some films detract from the child's power of concentration. To offset the evil influence they fear is produced by certain classes of filmed theatricals the mothers would put the ban on the following: The melo-dramatic gunplay drama; the "love-sick" moving picture; moving pictures holding marriage up to ridicule and depending for comedy on violations of the marriage vows.

Women say that federal censorship of the screen play will be the subject of resolutions submitted to the State Federation of Women's clubs at Indianapolis. They declare that different grades of pictures should be provided for people of different ages and this work, it was said, would have to be done by women.

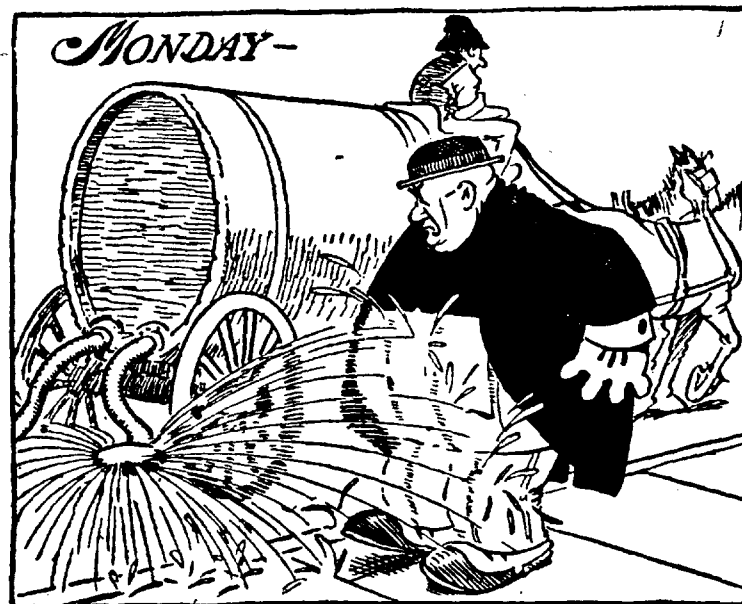

Mrs. Molly Carter, of the Rosedale Mothers' club, said her organization would be glad to join in a campaign for better movies. She said: "We mothers have noted the effect of various pictures on our daughters. The girls see too much love making in moving pictures and as a result they begin to think of the boys too early in life. They become less obedient when they observe the free and easy attitude of the women of the motion picture. Many of these so-called comedies use indecency to marriage vows as the central plot. Marriage is held up to ridicule and the young people think of the marital state more lightly. The national board of censorship is doing good work, but it is necessarily limited in its activities. E. P. Wiles said: "Pictures that shift rapidly from scene to scene have a tendency to destroy the child's power of concentration. Motion pictures, when used in the right way, have a great educational value. As soon as the mothers demand a better class of plays for their children, the exhibitors will insist on a better class for their houses. What's all right for the adult may not be good for the child."

The Mothers' club of Centennial school will ask the co-operation of other mothers' clubs of the city. The mothers will endeavor, they say, to have certain days set aside on which special pictures will be shown for the little ones.

NEW BOXING OFFICIAL FAVORS DECISIONS BY REFEREE.

Fred A. Wenck, new chairman of the boxing commission of New York state, favors decisions by referees. Wenck says decisions would make "stallers" hustle but the drawback is the chance that a gambling clique would spring up. Wenck will take up with other commissioners the proposition of allowing decisions.

Decisions in New York will greatly affect the game as the biggest purses are to be had there.

BIG EASTERN FIGHT NEARS

New Jersey Will Vote on Woman Suffrage Tuesday.

3 OTHER STATES TO DECIDE IT SOON

Wilson's Endorsement is Big Aid to Cause in His Home State.

New York, Oct. 18.—The first great eastern fight on the farflung battle line of woman suffrage is today only 24 hours away. At 6 o'clock tomorrow morning the polls throughout the state of New Jersey will be thrown open to determine at a special election whether "votes for women" banners will be planted victoriously thereafter upon the Atlantic seaboard.

Two weeks from tomorrow the three other eastern states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts likewise will decide whether they will join their twelve western sister states in giving women the ballot.

Expected to Win. President Wilson's declaration for suffrage, reinforced by a thorough and vigorous campaign waged by organizations and workers is expected by suffrage leaders to carry the day for woman suffrage in his home state of New Jersey. More than 350 women speakers and other workers went over the battlefield today, their automobiles carrying them through the sections where the fight will be the hottest, into even the smallest towns and hamlets. In the big cities the campaign was similarly intensified. From many vantage points, including thousands of street cars, cartoons and picturesque posters pleaded earnestly with voters to cast their ballots for woman suffrage.

Opponents Also Active. Less spectacular, but none the less thoroughly organized, was the campaign conducted by opponents to suffrage. Party lines have been obliterated in the contest, democrat and republican leaders are working both for and against the cause. Some suffrage workers feel that both organizations are quietly opposing them but there is no open evidence that this is a state-wide condition. Women watchers and workers to the number of 5,000, admitted to the polls at the forthcoming election for the first time in the state received their final instructions today and prepared to take their places tomorrow at virtually every one of the polling precincts in the state.

VICTIMS OF CAR RIOT WILL BOTH RECOVER

Young Bruick and Strike Breaker Conductor Under Arrest.

Word from St. Joseph hospital, late Monday forenoon, was that Theodore W. Bruick, aged 18, and John R. Tibbles, a strike-breaker, conductor employed by the city street car lines, will both recover from broken heads they received at noon Sunday during trouble that took place at Anthony boulevard and East Creighton avenue. Both are under arrest on charges of assault and battery and each will be required to furnish bond of $1,000 as soon as he is able to leave the hospital or go to jail.

The cases were called in the city court Monday morning and continuances granted until Thursday. John Palmer, motorman on the car of which Tibbles was conductor, was put under $300 bond for his appearance as a witness. He furnished the bond, after having been detained at headquarters since the trouble Sunday.

Conductor Attacks Lad. The fight in which young Bruick and Conductor Tibbles were injured grew out of the attempt of Tibbles to take from Bruick a switch hook he had had. Bruick and several boys were standing on the corner of East Creighton avenue and Anthony boulevard at noon when Tibbles ran his car onto the "V" to turn it. According to witnesses there was no provocation of the car crew and nothing to cause a conflict until Tibbles noticed the switch hook carried by Bruick when he left his car and sought to wrest it from the boy. Bruick resisted and Tibbles wrenched the implement from the youth's hands and struck him a heavy blow over the head with it. The hook tearing through Bruick's hat, cutting his scalp seriously and penetrating the skull.

Assaulted Boy Throws Brick. Young Bruick then picked up a large brick and hurled with great force at his assailant, striking Tibbles on the side of the head and fracturing his skull. Tibbles got aboard his car and drawing a revolver fired three shots at the crowd that had gathered. All of his shots went wild and no one was struck by a bullet.

Motorman Palmer is said to have tried to prevent Conductor Tibbles from using his revolver but was unable to do so. He started back to the city with the car and injured conductor. Crowds that had heard of the shooting congregated along the way and there was the spirit of serious trouble abroad. Tibbles, alarmed by this, left the car and appealed to Rev. W. H. Langstaff, who resides on the Lima road, north of the city, for help and was taken in that gentleman's automobile. The automobile was intercepted at John and Buchanan streets by Detective Sergeant Charles Spillner, who turned the injured conductor over to Officers Kavanaugh, Barr and Hartzell, of the police flying squadron, which had meanwhile arrived.

Palmer Exonerates Bruick. In a signed statement given to Chief of Police Lenz at headquarters Motorman Palmer exonerated Bruick from blame for the start of the trouble. He says Tibbles asked him to stop the car before it had been turned and started back to the city, saying he "wanted to

71 LOST LIFE WHEN FRENCH BOAT SUNK

Survivors of the Admiral Hamelin Sent Down by a Submarine, Have Arrived at Marseilles.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Seventy-one persons lost their lives when the French steamship, Admiral Hamelin, was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine. A dispatch to the Havas agency from Marseilles, which brings this news does not specify whether the victims were passengers or members of the crew.

A Paris dispatch sent early Sunday morning said that the steamer Isphahan had arrived at Marseilles from Madagascar, having on board Captain Guibert and the crew of the steamship "Admiral" which was recently sunk by a submarine. Probably this is the same vessel referred to in the more recent dispatch from Marseilles. It is not stated when and where the steamer was sunk.

KING'S CONTEMPT FOR DANGER. Victor Emmanuel's Attitude Source of Worry to Gen. Cadorna.

Paris, Oct. 18.—King Victor Emmanuel's contempt for danger, says a dispatch from Rome, is the source of one of General Cadorna's greatest anxieties. Recently the king stood watching a battery in action on the Corso front when a hostile aeroplane flew right over it. His staff begged him to move but he refused.

Two Italian aeroplanes meanwhile gave chase to the enemy, which flew back towards his own lines, dropping get that switch hook." Palmer sought to dissuade Tibbles, who refused to listen and continued to use the switch hook in which both men were hurt.

On the car Tibbles, after firing into the crowd, turned his revolver over to a stranger and asked him to take care of it and urged Palmer to get him to a hospital as quickly as possible. The revolver was recovered Sunday afternoon on the rifle range of Company E, I. N. G., north of the city, by Sergeant Robert Bartol, when he found Harry Wagner engaging in pistol practice. Sergeant Bartol turned the gun over to the police. Wagner says it was given to him by a man on the street car, who he saw at first hid in the sandbox on the car.

Palmer's Son Held for Toting Gun. John Palmer, Jr., son of Conductor John Palmer, who was on the East Creighton avenue car, was arrested Monday morning on a warrant charging him with carrying concealed weapons. He is said to have fourished a revolver Friday night when a street car was attacked on West Main street. He is a strike-breaker motorman brought here from Indianapolis at the beginning of the present street car trouble in Fort Wayne. Young Palmer was escorted to a cell but a short time after his father had been released from one. He says he was employed as a strike-breaker in the Indianapolis car strike a year ago. He was continued for trial until Tuesday morning and his bond was fixed at $100.

Dr. Charles E. Barnett will leave Tuesday for Lexington, Ky., where he will attend the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Medical Society. Results.

FIVE PERSONS HURT WHEN CAR HITS AUTO

Mrs. Nora Havens in Serious Condition as Result of Injuries.

Mrs. Nora Havens was reported in a serious condition Monday morning at St. Joseph hospital as the result of injuries she sustained when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by an eastbound interurban car on the Ohio Electric shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday evening on the first crossing west of New Haven, just off of the Lincoln highway. Four other persons were injured, but were able to be removed to their homes.

An X-ray examination of Mrs. Havens' injuries was made Monday morning. She suffered a compound fracture of her left leg, a broken right ankle and internal injuries. The others injured were:

R. K. Miller, 1708 Illinois street, a city mail carrier, cut in forehead and cheek; left shoulder injured and numerous bruises about the body. Mrs. R. K. Miller, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoemig, painfully bruised about the legs and arms. Charles Hoemig, father of Mrs. Havens' two ribs fractured and numerous bruises about the body. Mr. Hoemig is proprietor of the Hoemig Barber Supply company, at 1512 Wells street.

Auto a Total Wreck. The large Paige touring car in which they were riding and belonging to Mr. Hoemig is a total wreck. The fact that the occupants of the machine were hurled for several yards away from the track is believed to be the only thing that prevented them from being killed. Mrs. Havens, who was driving, saw the approaching interurban car as did the other occupants, but it is believed they did not realize it was so close. No sooner was the automobile on the track than it was struck, the auto being carried along a distance of nearly two hundred feet before the motorman was able to stop. The occupants were hurled in every direction.

Several Witnesses. The accident was witnessed by a number of persons who happened to be passing in their automobiles, as well as by the crew and passengers on the interurban. Every possible assistance was rendered the injured, who were carried to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eggeman, Dr. G. G. Brudi, of New Haven, was the first physician called and he was soon joined by Drs. J. W. Thimlar and Elmer C. Singer, both of this city. The doctors were assisted from the Lutheran hospital training school for nurses, who happened to be passing soon after the accident occurred. The injured were identified by Mrs. Frank Behrman, of New Haven, a passenger on the interurban car, who some years ago lived neighbors to the Hoemig family.

Taken to the Hospital. After the wounds of the injured had been temporarily dressed by the attending physicians, they were conveyed to the St. Joseph hospital in the Schone & Ankenbruck and Klachur & Mohling auto ambulance. Later all but Mrs. Havens were able to be removed to their homes.

Mrs. Havens' condition is regarded as extremely critical. She resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoemig, 216 Fourth street.

Thrown Many Feet. Mrs. Hoemig stated Monday morning that the only thing she remembers was that just before the crash she realized something was about to happen. When she regained consciousness she was sitting in the house. Mrs. Hoemig was hurled a long distance, but in of the nature that because of the shock alone, ing she wore her injuries were not more serious. Mr. Hoemig was suffering intensely Monday morning and will be confined to his home for some time.

UNIVERSITIES MAY AID. Expected to Co-Operate in Industrial Research Work.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Inquiry is to be made by a special committee of the chamber of commerce of the United States to ascertain to what extent the leading universities of the country may co-operate with business establishments in industrial research work. A statement issued today by the chamber of commerce points out that the United States industrial research has been conducted upon independent lines, whereas in other countries the work has been co-ordinated with greater economic advantages.

DURBOROUGH IN AN AEROPLANE SNAPS THE RUSSIAN RETREAT.

A 25c Jar of Sanitol Cold Cream 10c

Most women know of the excellence of this delightful cold cream. Those who have never tried it will have an opportunity of doing so at a trifling cost, for we have been permitted by the manufacturers of Sanitol Cold Cream to make a special introductory selling price of 10c for the regular 25c jar.

Sanitol Pure Cold Cream is a cleansing cream that removes dust and grime from the skin, leaving it smooth and soft. It can be used daily as a massage or dressing for the skin, without fear of injury.

This week only—25c Jars for 10c

A Little Chapter On CROCHETING

The revival of the old art of crocheting grows steadily in popularity. Everywhere you see needles, "crochet hooks" flying—they sparkle and glint day and night and, fed by skilled fingers, fairly eat up skein after skein of wool, or the famous Royal Society floss!

Towel ends seem to be the most fascinating of all crochet work—and no wonder, for the patterns are almost without number and all irresistibly pretty. Mrs. Wilson, our art instructor, now has on display the very newest of these designs and invites all women to come and learn the new stitches free of charge.

At the Linen Section is gathered the finest assortment of toweling by the yard shown in the city. It includes weaves especially intended for fancy towels—handsome effects, both plain and fancy, in every weight and width.

In single towels there is also a large assortment of colored border effects in blue, pink, orange and heliotrope—large, small and medium, with face cloths to match, priced at 5c to $1.00 each.

You'll find, too, at the Art Section all shades of cotton to match towels, at 10c and 25c a ball.

Robbers Pull Off Bold Job at U. S. Revenue Office in Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Cracksmen evidently familiar with the ground plans of the local federal building early today forced open the safe in the United States internal revenue office and took $15,000 in emergency war stamps. The robbery was committed while postoffice employees were busy on the floor below and the night watchman was making his rounds of the building.

Deputy Collector Foley asserts the robbers overlooked several thousand dollars worth of tobacco and liquor stamps which are not easily disposed of. The war tax stamps can be readily turned into money, officials say. No explosive was used in opening the safe. A drill was used, after which the robbers evidently used a powerful instrument to peel back the steel door. The tools used were left in the office and form the only clue.

TOTAL OF DEAD MAY NEVER BE LEARNED

Randolph, Kas., Oct. 18.—The exact number of dead in the wreck Saturday of the Union Pacific motor train at the Fancy creek bridge, near here, may never be known. When the car, which plunged headfirst into the creek was raised yesterday the front end dropped out, carrying into the stream those bodies which the rescuers were unable to reach Saturday night.

Estimates today placed the number of dead at 15 to 17 persons, including the eleven whose bodies were found Saturday. Forty persons were injured, several probably fatally.

TEACHERS WILL HEAR PRESIDENT WILSON

Practically every teacher in Fort Wayne and Allen county will attend the sixty-second annual meeting of the Indiana State Teachers' association at Indianapolis, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 27, 28, 29 and 30.

The state legal authorities have ruled that teachers may be allowed daily wages for attending the state association, under the law enacted by the legislature permitting school authorities to set aside three days out of each school year for visiting other schools and attending teachers' meetings.

The big feature of the meeting will be the address by President Woodrow Wilson, who is scheduled to speak on Friday afternoon in the coliseum at the state fair grounds.

REACHES CENTURY MARK. Baltimore, Md., Oct. 18.—William Wallace Spence, for many years a leading financier of this city, is celebrating today the 100th anniversary of his birth. For years Mr. Spence has expressed the determination to live to be 100 years old, and the fact that he has done so is attributed largely to his iron will.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

FREIGHT TRAFFIC IS ON INCREASE Railroads Report Improvement Which is Expected to Be Permanent.

Traffic on the east and west railroads is again showing an improvement and on the Pennsylvania, the Wabash and the Nickel Plate it is considered fairly good for the time of year and promises to be better in the future. The Pennsylvania had twenty-one freight trains out of Fort Wayne last night, which is said to be a good run for twelve hours. Business on the G. R. & I. is also showing an improvement and occasionally promotions are made. The latest advancement is that of Passenger Fireman W. M. Smith, who has been assigned to trains 3 and 6. The Pennsylvania has increased its yard force also. Engineer F. H. Rogers and Fireman H. A. Welch have been given day work on the coal dock engine and Engineer H. S. Current and Fireman F. E. Sarver have been assigned to the additional engine in the east yards at night. These and other changes at the yards will result in the recall of Yard Fireman C. T. Meehan and O. A. Stahl, who, during the lull in traffic, were acting as callers of engine crews.

SAYS BUSINESS IS GOOD.

W. M. Stevenson, of Chicago, traveling salesman for the Crucible Steel company, of America, of Pittsburgh, was calling on Fort Wayne patrons of the company today. Mr. Stevenson says the Crucible Steel company's business is the best in the history of the company and the works are being run nearly every hour of the day with all the men who can be handled advantageously. There is a great demand for all kinds of steel and manufacturers are selling on six to nine months delivery. This is particularly true of sheet steel and boiler plate. One big consumer of this kind of metal is now placing orders on nine months delivery for the first time in its history. On one or two former occasions this company was obliged to wait six months for the delivery of its steel, but never nine months. The great consumption of metal in the manufacture of war munitions is responsible for the present condition.

E. T. C. FIRST MEETING.

The first of the series of the 1915-1916 season entertainments of the Electro-Technic club will be given tomorrow night at the auditorium at the Electric works. E. A. Wagner, chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged a good program, which will include a five reel moving picture show, one of the Panama canal, another dealing with railroads and the other three of a comic character. Frank Goetz' mandolin club will give several selections and there will be other features of interest.

PASSED ON EMME APPLICATION.

Dr. J. M. Kells, of Columbus; Dr. R. F. Price, of Terre Haute; and Dr. J. T. Foster, of Richmond, all of the Pennsylvania Southwest system, passed favorably upon the application of William Emme, the cabinetmaker, of this city, for admission to the pension system last Saturday afternoon. The meeting was held in the office of Dr. J. E. Bickel.

BRIDGE OF NOSE BROKEN.

A misdirected blow with a heavy hammer sent the tool against Machinist John Panyard, of the Nickel Plate shops, Saturday night, breaking the bridge of his nose and bruising the flesh badly. He is off duty as a result of the incident.

HAVE DECATUR SWITCH RUN.

Engineer A. H. Cloetman and Fireman P. M. Krause have been assigned to the beet sugar switch run to Decatur. This run is only temporary, lasting probably two months, during the harvest of the beet crop.

ANOTHER TRIP TO FARM FOR BRENNAN

Booze-Fighting Dick Has Been Back a Month and Due Again.

After Dick Brennan had pleaded guilty in the city court, Monday morning, to a drunk charge, Judge Kerr told him he was due to go right back to the penal farm for another and a longer stay. Dick returned two or three weeks ago, either kept straight or dodged the cops until Saturday morning, and then ran afoul of Officer Paul. He was well piped and went to a cell. He begged for mercy Monday morning, but Judge Kerr continued the case until Tuesday, when there would be more time to dispose of him.

Another Chance for May. May Doherty, who comes and goes with the regularity of a new moon, was in again on a drunk charge. She pleaded guilty and with vast assumption of nonchalance perused a newspaper while she stood up and Officer Erdman gave testimony that she was "very drunk" when he arrested her late Saturday afternoon.

She was still deeply engrossed in the intelligence of the day as Judge Kerr gave her a lecture, but got back to earth sufficiently to deny that she had been before him "fifteen or twenty times," as the court had declared. She said she hadn't been arrested for five months. Judge Kerr said he was going to give her a last chance and turned her loose.

Abused His Mother. Joe Luger, charged with drunkenness, was accused of violently mistreating his aged mother at her home, 320 West Jefferson street, Saturday night. He admitted he had been drunk, blamed his sister for the trouble at home and denied any knowledge of abusing his mother. Officer Madden testified that the aged woman was on the street at 1 o'clock Sunday morning and bore the marks of mistreatment. The case was continued until Tuesday morning and Luger was to be tried.

Other City Court Cases. Martin Jackson, a lotterer, who had been about the city soliciting help, was turned loose to get at once out of town. He is well dressed and says he has been expecting a check from his folks in Springfield, Ill.

H. V. Blosser was fined $25 and costs for speeding his automobile on Spy Run avenue. He was sent to the station by Motorcycle Officer Kintz, who "clocked" him.

I. S. Streibig, a jitney driver, whose lights have not been on the job for several nights and was arrested Sunday night by Officer Cogges, was given a chance to get them fixed. Otherwise he will be fined.

Drunks were thus disposed of: Frank Duffy, $1 and costs; Pat Murphy, continued to the 22nd inst.; Joe McGinnis, $1 and costs; Henry Kruse, $1 and costs; William Kirby, $1 and costs; John Allen and Martin Aust, turned loose.

Ernest Bowman, charged with child neglect, was continued until November 18 on his own recognizance, promising to give his wife $4 a week.

Ed Bailey, charged with disorderly conduct, was allowed to go on an indefinite continuance.

The case against Charles Holthouser, charged with uttering worthless checks, was continued until Wednesday and he went back to jail for want of $1,000 bond.

STOLEN MAIL SACK FOUND.

Returned to Gaston Postoffice From Which it Was Taken in June, 1914. Gaston, Ind., Oct. 10.—A mail sack, which was stolen from the postoffice here was robbed, June 16, 1914, was found under the Allen schoolhouse, in Madison county, near Summitville. Some money order forms were in it when found, and the outfit was turned over to the postmaster at Summitville, who was instructed by the postoffice department to return the sack to Gaston. The burglars are thought to have used the sack to carry off their booty, and then hid the sack and order form at the schoolhouse. Five or six hundred dollars were taken in stamps and money, and a 3,000-pound safe was completely wrecked by explosives.

HERE'S HOW THEY LOOK WITHOUT 'EM—THESE FIVE HEADS OF GREAT NATIONS NOW AT WAR.

Czar Nicholas of Russia, Emperor Yoshihito of Japan, Kaiser Wilhelm and King Edward.

Each of them wears a mustache and, in fact, their mustaches are the most characteristic thing in their appearance.

Just how they look without 'em is shown in this picture. And, if your like, you may cut out the mustaches of the Kaiser, with a shave, resembles King Albert of Belgium.

Anyway, what shall we do without them?

Save Enough Per Week In Fuel to Pay for a Peninsular on Credit

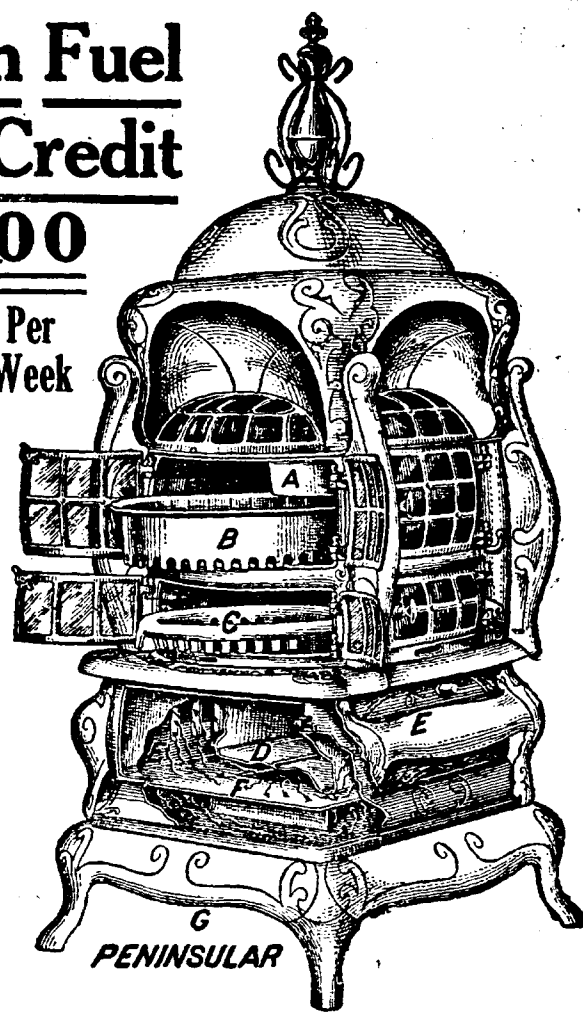

These Facts About the Peninsular Base-Burner Will Assist You in the Selection of Your Stove

$1.00
Per Week

The first cost should be the last consideration in the purchase of a stove that is guaranteed by America's, most progressive stove makers to give greater heat at a smaller fuel cost than any other, because the saving in fuel soon reimburses you for the slight extra cost for this high-grade base-burner; and the genuine comfort and satisfaction derived from the use of the Peninsular cannot be figured in dollars and cents. These are absolute facts which we can prove to you. A base-burner to be efficient must have a sufficient amount of radiation. The greater it is the better the heater. That's why the Peninsular produces more heat from the same or less amount of fuel than any other stove.

NEW SONG WITH QUAINT MELODY

Odd Ballad Said to Contain Many Pretty Strains.

New York is ringing with a new song called "Could the Dreams of a Dreamer Come True?" which is quite a craze with the fair sex. It is written by Jeff Brannen, and is on the order of his previous successes, "In the Valley of the Moon" and "Virginia Lee." Although the song is written in only one octave range it possesses a number of quaint harmonies which lend a fascinating effect when sung. Here is a part of the chorus:

Could The Dreams Of A Dreamer Come True

The song contains quite a number of old rhymes and jingling musical measures used for singing or dancing purposes. The chief merit of the ballad is its clean sentiment appealing to the home and parlor.

Sample copies of the song were received in this city yesterday in some of the ten cent stores.

INDIANA MAN ON JOB AS GUIDE AT CAPITOL

"Bill" Jones Making Good
Washington.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Indiana has one place on the force of guides at the United States capitol, which is not so bad when the guide force is limited to twelve men. Positions as guides at the nation's capitol are not classified in common parlance in that definition "political sine" though they are eagerly sought after and there always is an anxious waiting list. As long as the memory of the oldest inhabitant runs, the guide force has consisted of twelve men—no women have ever served in that capacity. Six of the members are selected by the sergeant at arms of the house and six by the sergeant at arms of the senate. When a vacancy occurs it is filled by the sergeant at arms who appointed the retiring member. In the absence of any rule by which these places might be apportioned, appointments come through winning the favor of the sergeant at arms of one body or the other. Kentucky is the only state that has double representation on the force—a condition resulting from the double-headed activities of Senator James at one end of the capitol and Representative Arthur B. Rowe at the other.

Lieb Was Active.
That Indiana is represented at all is not a new thing.

Terrible Croup Attack Quickly Repulsed By Old Reliable Remedy

Best Way

You don't want to save your money some way, any old way; you want to save it the BEST way.
Don't overrate your own shrewdness. You may know a lot but there's still a lot to learn.

The Savings Bank system is a Natural Growth. It represents the Experience and Intelligence of the human race.

due to the activity of Representative Charles Lieb, of the First district, who has a keen scent for jobs where others are utterly unable to locate them. It was Representative Lieb, who induced Sergeant at Arms Bob Gordon to appoint W. H. Jones, of Hatfield, Ind., on the guide force, and now both Gordon and Lieb are glad of it, for Jones has made good at a sixty-horse power rate every day he has been on the force.

Everybody in Spencer county knows Bill Jones, as he is called by the home folk. Likewise the name of Bill Jones has resounded for many years in other counties of the pocket, especially along about campaign time, for Bill has been a mighty clever performer and quick on the trigger when it came to putting across a handsome political stunt for some friend of the Democratic party as an abstract proposition.

He was born in a log cabin not very far from the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln lived as a boy. This gave him the right start for a successful career. When he was a young man he taught school, and then for fifteen or sixteen years, he was in the grain business. Being always of a studious frame of mind, and a great reader, he brought to the duties of capitol guide a much better mental equipment than is ordinarily possessed by a member of the force. Before he set foot in Washington, a few years ago, he had a wide fund of information concerning the United States capitol, the epochal events of history, and he has had stereotyping views, and the great men who have made their mark there. Coupled with his knowledge of the building and the history that clusters around it, Jones has a pleasing manner of speech and a flow of language equal to every occasion. The capitol has an intense fascination for him, and he has had stereotyping views, prepared of its most interesting features for the entertainment of the people back home on his occasional vacations.

Not on Pay Roll.
Contrary to a somewhat general belief, the guides are not on the government pay rolls. All they make for their services belongs to them. Every night the earnings of the day are put into a common pot, divided into twelve equal parts, and each guide takes his share. They have their captain, who has headquarters in the capitol rotunda. The captain solicits visitors and assigns guides to conduct the various parties about the building. In the evening the captain divides the income of the day among the guides, each receiving his share. At a quarter of twelve every morning the guides begin work and they "knock off" at 4:30 p. m.

On certain Sundays, as well as on week days, the capitol is open to visitors. There is a fixed schedule of charges for showing visitors over the building, which is 25 cents an individual, except in the case of schools, for which a special charge of 10 cents each person is made. Visitors are most numerous in April and May, when the schools come, but the guides will tell you that their best money making months are August and October, when the tourists mainly are subject to the 25-cent rate. The guides dread to see winter come, for while the capitol is often thronged with fashionable society women in that season, they generally depend on having members of the congress show them around and ignore the guides.

SWEDEN IS CUTTING DOWN ITS BOOZE BILL

Steady and Systematic Curtailment in Liquor Sales
Since War.

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Although nothing so drastic as the prohibition measures of Russia has been attempted in Sweden, there has been, since the beginning of the war, a steady and systematic curtailment in the sale of liquor, which is approvingly regarded by temperance advocates as a decided step toward absolute prohibition. The "Stockholm system" of allowing each citizen only a fixed quantity of spirituous drink, which was inaugurated just after the war started, has now been extended to thirty-one of the hundred districts in Sweden, and according to a government order recently issued, will, after the first of January, 1916, apply to the whole of Sweden.

The "Stockholm system," which allows every citizen in good standing in the city to become a moderate drinker, while effectively preventing him from becoming a drunkard, was ingeniously devised by Dr. Tor Bratt, present director of the system, after all other expedients had failed. Dr. Bratt has been lauded, condemned, idolized, and ridiculed, and his work has become the theme of almost daily discussion in the newspapers of Sweden, some of which criticize him for being too moderate and others too extreme in his reforms. But on one point they all are agreed. The system works.

In the first place, the liquor companies, while directed by private individuals were practically made government concerns, for all profits were to go to the government. This removed any incentive on the part of the directors to over-production. It was followed by a careful supervision of the supply of liquor furnished to hotels, restaurants and public bars. These places still had a right to as much liquor as they required, but they were only allowed profit on a reasonable amount of trade. If they did business in excess of that amount fixed by the government, they had to purchase this additional supply at retail price, and were forced to sell at the same prices. This, it would seem, would remove the zealous effort of hotel proprietors to make their liquor trade as large as possible.

But none of these expedients was successful. The total consumption of liquor was scarcely diminished. The amount of drunkenness in Sweden showed no decrease, and hospitals and medical records were as full of alcoholic patients and cases of illness caused by alcoholism, as before. It was evident that the decrease in the amount of liquor sold at hotels and bars was offset by the increased business done at wine stores, where customers bought as much bottled spirits as they liked and took it home for consumption. The "book system," which is now in operation, was devised by Dr. Bratt at the beginning of the war. It allowed every citizen in good standing to buy one litre and no more of spirituous liquor every 146 days. To make this plan feasible, each person was provided with a small book resembling a communication railroad ticket, from which a coupon was torn every time the consumer bought his litre of whiskey, brandy, cognac, punch, schnapps, or whatever kind of alcoholic beverage he fancied. At the same time, his book was stamped with the date of the purchase so that it would be clear to the dealer when he made his last purchase. Without showing his book, no citizen of Stockholm, has the remotest chance of obtaining a bottle of liquor anywhere in the city. The regulation is rigidly enforced.

It is true that in some cases, however, exceptions are made. If one can persuade the authorities that on account of his social position and the demands of constant entertainment one litre every five days is totally inadequate, and if the authorities are convinced that such a person can be trusted with more liquor without abusing the privilege conferred upon him, he is then given a special license to purchase two, three or more litres, according to the circumstances. On the other hand, if the person is a notorious drunkard, has a police record, or has in any way incurred the displeasure of the authorities, he is allowed no liquor at all. For purposes of ascertaining the standing of the citizens in the community, an elaborate card catalogue system is maintained at the central bureau and all questions of allowing any person more or less than the ordinary amount of liquor are referred to this.

The results of this system are already remarkable. In 1914, the total consumption of spirituous liquors was only 2,979,832 litres, compared with 5,004,642 litres for the year before. The decrease in 1915 has been even more marked.

PET SEALS ENRICH WOMAN.

Was Twenty Years in Business of Catching Them on Maine Coast.

Booth Bay Harbor, Me., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Janet MacDonald, seventy-seven years old, is about to retire wealthy, after twenty years in the business of seal-catching, with three men in her employ.

The seals of Maine waters are not valuable for their skins, but are easily tamed and are in demand for public and private collections and aquariums and zoological collections. The catching is done at night, with the aid of nets, and Mrs. MacDonald has caught many personally. Often they follow her about the house several days after capture.

The usual price is $25, and her catch has averaged 100 in a season of six weeks in the late spring and summer.

Debs Declares for Woman Suffrage

New York, Oct. 18.—Eugene V. Debs, four times the socialist party candidate for president, spoke in favor of woman suffrage at a large meeting in Carnegie hall yesterday under the auspices of a socialist suffrage committee. Other speakers were Representative Meyer, London and Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, of St. Louis, who is investigating labor conditions throughout the country for the administration of that city.

BIG WHEAT MOVEMENT IS ON.

Canadian Grain for Europe Going Through United States.

New York, Oct. 18.—What is said by grain men to be the largest movement of Canadian wheat through the United States that has ever been recorded is now going on through this port. Records of the Produce Exchange, compiled to and including Friday, Oct. 15, show that 4,265,791 bushels have been brought here from Canada since the early part of August and loaded on steamships for shipment, mainly to England, France and Italy. This wheat, in order to avoid the payment of a duty of ten cents per bushel, comes through in bond.

WRECK DEAD NOW ELEVEN.

Two Additional Bodies Identified at Randolph, Kan.

Randolph, Kan., Oct. 18.—The names of R. T. Shields, of Huntington, Ore., and E. L. Peterson, of Lincoln, Neb., today were added to the list of identified dead and the total of lives lost Saturday when a motor train plunged through a bridge near here was officially set at eleven. Several persons, of whom no trace had been found since the wreck, were discovered today in farm houses in the vicinity and in neighboring towns.

Bed-Wetting Cured in Ten Days

URI-STOP WILL CURE

Don't Wait for Children to Outgrow the Trouble—Start Them Taking Uri-Stop Today.

Bed-wetting with all its disagreeable effects can be cured if given prompt attention. This is a disease and every parent should assist their children to effect a cure by procuring for them Uri-Stop. The wonderful success realized by this remedy seems little short of marvelous, but the many cures in Fort Wayne prove its merits.

Bed-wetting is not a local trouble alone, but a disease embracing the entire urinary system as well as the bladder and kidneys. Uri-Stop Tablets are easily taken by the most delicate child. Price $1.00.

The Boettger Chem. Co. are so confident of the curative properties of Uri-Stop that they have authorized their Fort Wayne agents, the Dreier Drug Co., to refund your money if you are not benefited after a careful trial.—Advertisement.

WARREN IS PUT UNDER ARREST

Officers returned to headquarters with the pair, whose whereabouts for five days had been causing a sensation. The greeting of mother and daughter was affectionate when they met at the police station.

"They'll have to show me that Luther isn't all right before I'll believe anything against him," the girl declared. At 2 o'clock Mrs. Youse, Beniah and some of their friends left the station to go to consult lawyers as Warren had strongly urged them to do.

Fought Against Photographers. Mrs. Youse-Warren had tremendous difficulty getting out of the Barr street door of police headquarters and across the street to a waiting automobile. Newspaper photographers with cameras were waiting and she tried two or three times to get out, but her mother dragged her back within the vestibule.

"Let me go; mind your business," the young bride suddenly exclaimed to her mother, and muffled her face closely in her black fur wrap she darted across the street and into the car, climbing into the rear seat and screening herself behind others in the seat and keeping her face close about her face.

Reared in Allen County, He Says. My name is Charles Luther Warren, I am 32 years old, my home is in Toledo, Ohio, a mechanical draftsman, I was born in Convoy, Ohio, and I was reared near Monroeville and William and other men in the May family of this county are my uncles. I have known Mrs. Youse for fifteen years or more.

"How long have I known Beniah? Well, now, just leave Beniah out of this. Beniah's my wife. I don't care what you say about her mother, but just leave my wife out of this. I won't tell you when we became engaged or anything about that. Just cut her out."

For the time, at least, Warren stuck to his resolution to discuss nothing that bore personally upon his bride. Again he repeated that he would make good anything he had done in Fort Wayne, but would not answer a question as to whether checks he had deposited in Fort Wayne and in Chicago were good.

Find Chicago Pass Book. When Officer Jones took Warren and his wife into custody at Valparaiso he saw Warren slip some books from his handbag and pass them to his wife. She concealed them in the bosom of her dress. They were with her when he and found to be a pass book and check book issued Warren by the Continental and Commercial National bank in Chicago. The pass book had a credit entry of $4,400. It was on this deposit that Warren is said to have been able to check out $500 in Chicago.

Warren stated at headquarters that he was well acquainted with the Chicago jeweler and the president of the Continental and Commercial bank, but he refused to give their names, trying to laugh off a question bearing on these details.

Were at Railway Station. Warren and his wife were at the Pennsylvania railway depot in Valparaiso at 9 o'clock Monday morning when Officer Jones happened to get off a Pennsylvania train there. He had been on the lookout for the pair since last Thursday, and recognized them at once. He watched them for a short time to see what they might do. The pair walked around the station and then started up into the city. Officer Jones took the ticket seller to keep an eye on the pair and he telephoned to the sheriff's office. Then he accosted the pair.

"Is this Mr. Warren?" asked the officer of the same tenor said:

"Who are you that you want to know?" parried Warren. "Are you Beniah Youse-Warren of Fort Wayne?" the officer queried of the young woman.

"Yes, I am," she replied after looking questioningly at her husband.

"What are you doing here?" asked the officer. "We are going back to Fort Wayne," replied the officer.

"What's wrong? What have you done that we are under arrest?" the young wife demanded of Warren.

"Nothing, dearie, everything is all right here. If there's anything wrong we'll explain it all and fix it up in Fort Wayne," said Warren reassuringly.

Very Loving on the Train. Warren was silent and to another question of the same tenor said:

"Who are you that you want to know?" parried Warren.

"Are you Beniah Youse-Warren of Fort Wayne?" the officer queried of the young woman.

"Yes, I am," she replied after looking questioningly at her husband.

"What's wrong? What have you done that we are under arrest?" the young wife demanded of Warren.

"Nothing, dearie, everything is all right here. If there's anything wrong we'll explain it all and fix it up in Fort Wayne," said Warren reassuringly.

"Nothing, dearie, everything is all right here. If there's anything wrong we'll explain it all and fix it up in Fort Wayne," said Warren reassuringly.

"But just a minute," said a reporter, who wished to explain to her for himself and fellow workers that it was sought only to give her a chance to do justice to herself. "Not a minute; not a second—I will not say one word to a newspaper," and with indignation she tore from the room and could not be approached.

Gave a Check for $40. The charge on which Warren was arrested and will be prosecuted was for issuing to the firm of Wolf & Dessauer, on Tuesday, October 12, a check for $40, which he got in cash.

This check was issued on the south branch of the German-American Trust company. The check had been presented and was noted by the bank as "payment stopped."

This check was given October 12 at the time Warren, accompanied by Mrs. Youse and Beniah, had selected for the younger woman several hundred dollars worth of garments from the underwear section of a very small part of what was chosen was taken from the store.

Said They Were Returning. Warren stated that he and his bride were about to return to Fort Wayne, when apprehended at the Pennsylvania station in Valparaiso, and that he had purchased tickets. Part of this statement is not true. The tickets were purchased after they had been taken into custody.

Following their detention by Officer Jones a deputy sheriff came to the station. When Warren was taken into custody he consented to return with Officer Jones to be thrown into the jail at Valparaiso, he consented to come back.

Warren declared at headquarters that since Mrs. Youse left himself and Beniah at the Pennsylvania station in Valparaiso, he and his bride had been married in Michigan City, he and his bride had been stopping at a private house in Valparaiso. He said that they chose a private house because the hotels were all crowded and could not give them accommodations.

Left Fort Wayne Wednesday. Warren, accompanied by Mrs. Youse and her daughter, Beniah, left Fort Wayne last Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock over the Pennsylvania, going to Chicago, where they remained until Friday morning, when they went to Michigan City. There Warren and Beniah were married by Rev. O. L. Kiplinger, chaplain of the state prison.

Later in the day the trio went to Gary, where Mrs. Youse took a Pennsylvania train for Fort Wayne, arriving at 8:45 Friday evening. Since then she had heard nothing from either Warren or Beniah until late Monday forenoon, when informed of the apprehension of the couple in Valparaiso.

Strike Costly to Both Sides of Street and Railway Employees, Monday morning.

All the men have been assigned regular runs and given steady employment," Mr. Greenland stated.

Both statements indicate that a fight to the finish is to be waged, greatly to the inconvenience and discomfort of the public.

Total Contributions. The total contributions up to the present time amount to $2,051.85. At the regular meeting of the Ice Drivers' and Helpers' union Sunday afternoon, a resolution was passed assessing each member twenty-five cents a week until the strike is over. Twenty-five employees of the union stage employees Sunday and the weekly assessment of fifteen cents per member was agreed to. The jitney drivers are also contributing. The total pay roll last Friday amounted to $1,563.

Twenty thousand tags are now being printed by cigarmakers' local union, No. 37, bearing the following words: "Don't be a piker. Walk or ride a jitney. Push this label. Smoke Fort Wayne-Made Cigars."

More Bricks Thrown. More bricks were hurled Saturday night. Two cars were attacked, but no damage was done. Kenneth Ewers, 18 years old, 2534 Maumee avenue, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, being accused of throwing a brick that struck the body of car No. 180, on the East Lewis street line, at Lewis street and Grant avenue. Rocks were also thrown at car No. 206, eastbound on the West Main street line, but all fell below the window line.

Membership buttons were received Saturday afternoon by the car men from international headquarters. They are round, of celluloid and as white as the blue background. New buttons are issued each month, as the member pays his dues. Small pads also were furnished each man on which to dot down anything they see for the benefit of the strikers.

Car Crew Held at Bay. "Wait a minute, partner, until I can get out of your way," yelled S. L. Sheets, of the Sheets Construction company, to Motorman Dan Smith, when his automobile went "dead" on the track at Walton and East Creighton avenues Saturday night at 7:20 o'clock. But Sheets says that the motorman did not wait, but instead deliberately ran the car into the automobile. Sheets' son was cranking the machine at the time and Mr. Sheets, realizing the seriousness of the situation, jumped out over the windshield, grabbed the boy from the front of the car, probably saving his life. Mrs. Sheets, who was in the rear seat, was so badly frightened that it was necessary to call a physician.

With an automobile Jack Sheets defied the three men comprising the crew of the car and would not permit them to leave until the arrival of the police. Motocycle Officer John Lynch took the statements of the crew and of Mr. Sheets and the car was permitted to continue its trip. The lights and steering gear on the automobile were broken, but no other damage was done.

FIND HOME IN RUINS. Winamac, Ind., Oct. 16.—The home of W. S. Huddleston, president of the First National bank, was destroyed by fire last night. Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston were at Indianapolis attending the bankers' meeting. They returned today to find their home in ruins. The fire started from electric wires. The loss of $5,000 is covered by insurance. An employee of the electric light company climbed a pole to cut the wires. The pole fell on him, breaking his ribs and otherwise injuring him. He is in a serious condition.

ENTIRE DAY TAKEN TO OUTLINE CASE

Prosecution Makes Extended Statement in New Haven Rail Prosecution.

New York, Oct. 18.—The jurors chosen to try Wm. Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward D. Robbins and eight other directors or former directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad charged with conspiracy to monopolize interstate commerce under the Sherman law took their seats in the federal court today to hear the opening address of R. L. Batts, attorney for the government.

Mr. Batts expected to occupy the whole day in telling the jury what the government intended to prove. He planned to outline the case in chronological order, beginning in 1890, the date of the enactment of the Sherman law and tracing the various transactions under which formerly independent railroads, trolley lines and steamship companies were brought into the new Havard fold.

Before Mr. Batts began Assistant District Attorney Stevenson read to the jury the text of the indictment. He also read the text of the Sherman act. This Mr. Batts, on taking the floor, first explained to the jury.

WORKS IN GARDEN AN HOUR BEFORE DEATH

End Comes Suddenly to Mrs. Timmis at Age of 67 Years.

But an hour after she had assisted her son at some work in the garden, Mrs. Jessie Timmis, 67 years of age, died at 11:30 o'clock Monday morning at her home, 819 Eckert street. She was the widow of William Timmis, who died two years ago and had resided in Fort Wayne forty-eight years.

Complaining of feeling suddenly ill, Mrs. Timmis repaired to the house where her death occurred within the hour. She had been in failing health for the past two months, but her condition was not believed to be immediately serious.

Mrs. Timmis was born on the Atlantic ocean of English parentage, and was well known in the vicinity where she resided.

She is survived by the following children: William Timmis, of Danville, Ill.; Mrs. H. B. Peiser, of Willshire, Ohio; Alonzo, Arthur, John and Earl Timmis, of this city, and Mrs. Fred Heich, also of this city. Two brothers and two sisters also survive. John Salway, of Monroeville, and James Salway, of Dixon, O.; Mrs. Rose McKinney, of Erie, Pa., and Mrs. Samuel Scott, of Monroeville.

PEQUIGNOT. Charles C. Pequignot, aged 68 years, died Saturday night at 10:30 o'clock at his home, 2518 Olive street, following an illness due to nervous trouble. He was a well known St. Joe township farmer, having moved to this city from Hesse Cassel seven weeks ago. He was a veteran of the civil war, having served as a member in Company C, Fifty-seventh Indiana volunteers.

He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church and is survived by the widow and the following children: Seven daughters—Mrs. John Meyers, Mrs. Allison York, Mrs. Ted Bohm, Mrs. Robert Fleckenstein, Mrs. Frank Runnion, Mrs. Edward C. Runnion, Mrs. John C. Runnion, Mrs. C. H. Nordette, Chicago; four sons, H. C. Pequignot, A. F. Pequignot, Robert Pequignot, Fort Wayne; Julie Pequignot, St. Joseph's township; two brothers, Frank Pequignot, Roanoke, and August C. of Fort Wayne, and also three grand children.

Funeral services were held Monday at 8:30 o'clock at the late residence and at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's Catholic church.

DAUKIZA. Anna Daukiza, aged two weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Daukiza, 1429 Hayden street, died at 9 o'clock Sunday evening at the family home from exhaustion. The parents are natives of Russia, Poland.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and a half hour later at St. Hyacinth's Catholic church; interment at the Catholic cemetery.

SWAYZEE. Mrs. Mary E. Swayzee, wife of J. A. Swayzee, of 415 High street, and proprietor of the Swayzee Coal company, died at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning at the family home at the age of 48 years. Death followed an illness of one year and was due to locomotor ataxia.

Mrs. Swayzee was born in Auburn, but had resided in Fort Wayne for a number of years and had become widely acquainted. She had been a devout member of the Church of God ever since she was fourteen years of age and was highly respected by everyone who knew her.

Besides a host of friends and the husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Mamie Henline, at home; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Upjohn, one sister, Mrs. George Cool and two brothers, John and Arthur Cupp, all of Auburn.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at the residence and at noon the body will be shipped to Auburn. It will be taken to the home of her parents, 802 North Cedar street, where services will be held Wednesday afternoon.

ASK PRESIDENT TO TAKE HAND. Professor Clemens of Central college, Huntington, was a visitor in Fort Wayne, Saturday, arranging for the circulation of a petition to be forwarded to President Wilson asking him to take some action in an effort to stop the persecution of Armenian Christians.

LICENSED TO WED. Andrew J. Hartman, 27, bookkeeper, and Edith Auer, 24.

REV. G. SCHUTES TO LECTURE AT EMMAUS

Famous German Lecturer Will Give Illustrated Talk Wednesday.

Rev. G. Schutes, formerly of the Ladies' seminary of Mankato, Minn., and considered one of the best German lecturers in the country today, comes to the Emmaus Lutheran school hall Wednesday evening where he will give an illustrated lecture on the subject, "The March of the German Eagles." The lecture will be given in German and he will show nearly 300 pictures, documents and cartoons which he has brought with him direct from Europe.

The same lecture which he will deliver here has been given several times in Chicago and in other large cities. This is an opportunity which every German citizen should not miss.

The lecture, while enumerating the causes of the war, the issues at stake and the probable outcome as seen by the German nation, is a plea for genuine American neutrality by an American of the immortal Lincoln, "With malice toward none, with charity for all."

ACTIVITIES AT R. Y. M. C. A. Meetings for the Entire Week Have Been Planned by the Officials.

This week will be rally week at the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association and an effort will be made to arouse interest in the work of the association and to gain 200 new members. The officials in charge have arranged for meetings each day.

The membership committee meets Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at which time plans for the campaign will be completed. Tuesday at 12:30 a meeting will be held at the Pennsylvania machine shop. Social and entertainment committee meets Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. Shop meeting at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday at Pennsylvania engine house. Thursday at 12:30 at Pennsylvania east car shops. Friday at committee meeting at 7:30 p. m. Meeting at Wabash machine shops Friday at 12:30 and at 7:30 meeting of the religious committee. The finance committee meets Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

MASSSES ARE WELL ATTENDED. Forty Hours' Devotion at St. Paul's Church Opened Sunday Morning.

All the services at St. Paul's Catholic church in the observance of the forty hours' devotion, which opened Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, were well attended and the parishioners taxed the seating capacity of the large house of worship. The masses Monday morning at 5:00, 7:00 and 8:30 o'clock were likewise well attended.

High mass Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock, was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. H. F. Joseph Kroll, who also delivered the sermons, preaching in English and German. Rev. Edward H. Vurpillat, the assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, delivered an eloquent sermon at the evening service at 7:45 o'clock. He chose for his subject, "The Real Presence of Christ in the Eucharist." In concluding Father Vurpillat made an earnest plea for a faithful observance of the forty hours' devotion and for more abiding faith in the Eucharist.

The ladies of the Rosary society observed holy hour from 3 to 4 o'clock Monday. The young men, married men and young ladies from 7 to 7:45 o'clock. The evening service begins at 7:45 and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. John G. Bennett, assistant at St. Patrick's.

FLOUR PRICES GO UP TWENTY CENTS

Following a steady rise in the price of wheat on the local markets for the past week and a small gain Monday morning, one miller has marked the selling price of his flour up to 20c on a barrel. The paying price for wheat today was $1.10 a bushel although one miller kept his price at $1.08.

Not a single load of new corn has appeared on the street market this fall but the city scalemaster and grain dealers are keeping wide awake watch for the first arrival. It is still some weeks before new corn begins to arrive in earnest, but a stray load is expected to arrive at almost any time.

The receipts at the city scales were rather light today, consisting of eighteen loads of hay, one load of corn and two loads of oats. Prices were about the same as Saturday, although only 72c was offered for the one load of corn. Hay prices ranged from $11 to $15 a ton. All other market quotations remained unchanged.

FATHER PROTESTS INQUEST VERDICT

Objects to Laconic "Death as Result of Air Raid" in London.

London, Oct. 18.—An inquest on the bodies of the three victims of the first bomb dropped in the Zeppelin raid last Wednesday night on the London area and of three others who were killed or died as the result of subsequent air bombs all within the same area was held today. The verdict in each case was "death as the result of an air raid."

The father of one of the victims stood up in court and protested against the laconic verdict reached. He cried: "My son was murdered by the order of the Kaiser. I summon the Kaiser to meet me before the judgment seat of God to answer for the death of my son and of those other poor people."

Of those killed by the first bomb one was a railroad employee, both of whose thighs were broken. His wife, who was by his side, escaped unhurt. The second was a man who was killed by broken glass which cut through his neck. The third victim was a woman, the lower part of whose spine was completely smashed.

The other dead were the victims of a bomb dropped in the middle of a wide thoroughfare. The missile pierced a gas main, causing a fire which lasted several hours before the gas could be cut off.

A driver, a conductor and a special constable were killed in a motor bus upon which the bomb landed.

Incendiary and explosive bombs were dropped in the same spot. These pierced a water main and the rush of water quickly extinguished fire caused by the incendiary bombs, but several people passing at the time were killed or injured. A number of the victims over whose bodies the inquest was held today died from shock or in a hospital as a result of their injuries.

All it will cost is 5c to try a Kim cigar.

74 VIOLATIONS OF SUNDAY LAW SEEN

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Seventy-four violations of the Sunday closing law were recorded in revised police reports today, an increase of forty-six over the number reported a week ago when Mayor Thompson's order went into effect. Thirty-five of the violations consisted of obstructing a view of the bars.

Arrest for intoxication kept pace with the increase in the list of closing violations. A week ago Sunday twenty-five persons were arrested for drunkenness. The average number of Sunday arrests is seventy-five. Chief of Police Healey said, however, that the Sunday closing had decreased the amount of crime to a "very considerable extent." All cases of violation will be submitted to Mayor Thompson tomorrow, with the recommendation that license be revoked.

TRAIN PLUNGES INTO A STREAM IN KANSAS

Helpless Passengers Drown When Coach is Submerged in Creek-- Fifteen Dead and Forty Injured.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 16.—At least fifteen persons were killed and many more injured today when motor train No. 579 on the Union Pacific railroad plunged down an embankment near Randolph, Kas.

A washout caused the accident. One of the cars on the train was submerged in Fancy creek, a local stream, and most of the dead were drowned.

This information came to the Union Pacific offices in Kansas City today. The train, which carried two cars, left Manhattan early this morning for Marysville. It carried about twenty-six passengers.

A three-inch rain fell in the vicinity yesterday. The accident occurred near the approach to the bridge over Fancy creek, where the track had been washed away. Both cars plunged down the high embankment, the first car burying itself deep in the stream below.

Teachers Are Victims.

Railroad officials said the train usually carried many traveling men. Today it had as passengers when it left Manhattan a delegation of young women school teachers en route to the Riley county teachers' convention which was to be opened at Randolph today. The accident occurred at 7:50 o'clock this morning. Dr. Louis Atwood, a top-dick physician, was among those killed.

Four Bodies Recovered.

At noon, according to a message from the scene, four bodies had been recovered. Work of rescue then was abandoned until wrecking equipment could lift the coach out of the water. Rescuers had been unable to get into the forward compartment.

It was there the greatest loss of life was believed to have occurred. Dr. Atwood and Alma K. Jellin, of Garrison, Kan., were the only identified dead up to noon. At that hour it was estimated forty persons had been injured.

Abutment Washed Away.

According to a message from Randolph the wreck was caused by the washing out of the abutment of the bridge across Fancy creek. As a result of heavy rains last night the stream was running bank full. The bridge itself did not give way, but when the heavy car struck the embankment it sank and down into nine feet of water and two or three feet of mud. The car stands almost perpendicular. There were two cars to the train but the trailer broke loose and remained standing on the track.

Conductor Warren Knittle, of Manhattan, estimated this afternoon that fifteen persons had been killed. He based his estimate on a count of his tickets. The exact number of victims, he said, could not be determined until all the bodies have been removed from the immersed car.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 16.—Reports received by Union Pacific officials here said that one car on the Pacific motor train which was wrecked near Randolph, Kan., early today, contained seventy-two passengers, sixty of whom were drowned when the car went through a bridge.

FATALITY PREYED ON AUTO DRIVER'S MIND

Rochester Man Comes in and Admits His Car Killed Logansport Man.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 16.—Frank Stinson, an automobile race driver, of Rochester, Ind., came to this city today and confessed that it was his car which ran down and fatally wounded Leopold Vanser, a farmer, near here last Sunday. Stinson was in a highly nervous state and said the accident had preyed upon his mind until he decided to give himself up.

It was said the authorities had no clue to the identity of the machine which caused Vanser's death until Stinson appeared. Stinson said he was returning from this city to Rochester after the ball game here last Sunday with a number of friends when his machine struck the man. He said he turned out to avoid another automobile and did not see Vanser until just before the fender struck him.

Admit Forgery But Deny Federal Law Violation

A new point was raised Saturday morning by Attorney Frank Emrick, representing Charles Moore and Robert Jones, the two negroes charged with violation of the United States statute regulating the sale of cocaine and other narcotics, at the preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner T. J. Logan in the federal court. The two defendants admitted forging the name of Dr. Deut Metcalf to secure drugs at the Christen Brothers drug store, but their attorney declared that inasmuch as they used the drug themselves and did not sell or distribute as the law specifies, they cannot be held for violating the anti-narcotic law passed by congress last December. Commissioner Logan continued the hearing.

Unusual interest is being taken in these cases for the reason that they are the first to be tried in Indiana since the new law went into effect. District Attorney Frank Dailey was unable to be present, and was represented in court by his assistant, Milton W. Mangus. Williams Bound Over.

Lester H. Williams, 17 years old, of Lagrange, charged with stealing a package containing $59 from the Adams Express company at Lagrange, some months ago, was bound over to the federal court under bond of $500, which was immediately furnished. Williams was represented in court by Judge John W. Hanna, of Lagrange. A. D. Brosius, of Columbus, Ohio, superintendent of the Adams Express company for this district, was one of the principal witnesses at the hearing. The package containing the money alleged to have been stolen by young Williams was being stolen by D. A. Holter, Howard, Pa., to C. G. Conn, Elkhart, Ind.

CLEAN-UP DAY IS CELEBRATED AT LINCOLN SCHOOL.

Clean-up day was celebrated Friday at the new Lincoln school in Washington township, a short distance northwest of Fort Wayne, and scores of farmers and their families came to assist in cleaning up the grounds. In the lower photograph County Agent Clarence Henry is seen fooling the gang. While the rest of the crowd is at work he is stacking bricks on a brick pile in the yard.

RUSSIA WILL NOW FOLLOW

Formal Declaration of War Against Bulgaria Com- ing Soon.

AWAITS RESPONSE FROM HER ALLIES

German Armies Said to Have Orders to Take Dvinsk at Any Cost.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Russia has not formally declared war on Bulgaria, but regards herself in a state of war with that country dating from the time Bulgaria is asserted to have attacked Serbia. The foreign office at Petrograd issued a statement to this effect today adding that the formal declaration waited conclusion of an exchange of telegrams between Russia and her allies.

A special dispatch to Cologne from Athens asserts that the Russian and Italian ministers are preparing to leave Greece.

Russian military officials declare they have learned that German orders are that Dvinsk must be taken at any cost. The Petrograd dispatch carrying this statement adds that the Russian defense of the city is holding firm under attacks of the utmost impetuosity covered by terrific artillery fire.

A German warship has captured the cotton laden Norwegian steamer Tyr, bound from a Norwegian to a Danish port a Stockholm dispatch says. The capture was effected in the Cattegat, between the Danish and Swedish coasts.

Hard fighting has been in progress on the Lorraine front where the French declare they have repulsed several counter attacks by the Germans on trenches which French troops captured yesterday. Repulse of a strong German attack between the Lingre and the Schatzmann in the Vosges also is reported by the Paris war office.

Athens dispatches say 40,000 Bulgarian troops are reported to be attacking a railroad bridge between Valandovo and Hovdovo on the line from Saloniki about 20 miles north of the Greek border.

Petrograd, Oct. 16.—Russia regards herself in a state of war with Bulgaria from the moment the latter country attacked Serbia, according to a statement issued today by the foreign office here. The formal declaration of war is awaiting the conclusion of an exchange of telegrams between Russia and her allies.

With the exception of Dvinsk, on the northern end of the Russian battle front, where fierce artillery battles

Big Loan Contract Signed.

New York, Oct. 16.—The $500,000,000 Anglo-French credit loan contract was signed late yesterday. Three words, "Reading of Erlang," from a pen in the hand of Lord Reading, chairman of the Anglo-French commission, bound the British empire to its terms.

France was bound by the signatures of Octave Homberg and Ernest Mallet, her representatives on the commission. Last of all J. P. Morgan affixed his name in behalf of the American syndicate of underwriters. Immediately thereafter four witnesses attested the signatures, among them being Basil B. Blackett, secretary of the commission. The other three were American lawyers who assisted in drawing up the document.

SEEK A MYSTERIOUS BLONDE NAMED HAZEL

Murdered Chicago Jeweler Paid Lot of Attention to Married Women.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A mysterious blonde woman named Hazel is believed by the police to have had something to do with the murder of Harry Phillips, a west side jeweler, whose body was found last night lying at the foot of a flight of steps in the building where he had his bachelor apartments. A letter in the hands of the police addressed to Phillips and signed Hazel intimated the writer had a husband named Frank, of whom Phillips might well be aware.

Morris Plonsky, step-brother of Phillips, told the police Phillips "paid a lot of attention to married women and was probably killed by some jealous husband or sister." Phillips is said to have been seen with the woman called Hazel shortly before his death.

Key Atkinson, elevator boy of the apartments, said he heard a noise in Phillips' rooms last night but thought nothing of it as Phillips often had parties. Two of the eight persons held by the police in connection with their investigation have the first name Hazel.

BIG JITNEYS NOW THE TALK

Representative of Detroit Firm is Here Investi- gating.

WILL REPORT TO CARMEN NEXT WEEK

Report That Several Busses Are Owned by Traction Company Denied.

A representative of the Denby Motor Truck company, of Detroit, Mich., is in the city investigating the advisability of a complete jitney bus service in Fort Wayne. He will make a report to the car men the forepart of the week.

The cars that the Denby company proposes to bring to Fort Wayne are large enough to accommodate twenty-five to thirty people comfortably. Several other propositions are under consideration by the car men.

A meeting of the jitney drivers' union will be held Monday evening, at which time action will be taken regarding the non-union jitneys that have been placed in service during the strike. The union drivers also feel that they should be given the preference in any organization of a company, such as has been proposed by the Federation of Labor. This matter will be threshed out Monday evening.

The charge is also made that many of the jitneys now in service on the streets of Fort Wayne are being operated by the traction company in an effort to discourage the other jitney drivers. A thorough investigation was ordered Saturday by the carmen and if the report is found to be true the numbers of these cars will be published broadcastly. Traction officials deny most emphatically that they have any jitneys in service.

Large Auto Truck.

An automobile truck large enough to accommodate between twenty-five and thirty people made its appearance on the streets Friday and has been placed in service on the South Wayne street line. The car was brought here from Wabash. Another car equally as large has been leased from the Denby Motor Truck company, of Detroit, and will be put in service in a few days.

Ross F. Lockridge, secretary of the Citizens' League of Indiana, was one of the speakers at the meeting of the carmen Friday.

New Lincoln School Build- ing to Be Dedicated November 5.

Governor Samuel M. Ralston will probably be here on Nov. 5 to assist in the dedication of the new Lincoln school building in Washington township. An invitation was extended to the governor Saturday, and his acceptance is confidently expected.

Great preparations are being made for the dedication of the new building and many other prominent speakers besides the governor will be here to participate in the exercises. While the program is not completed it is certain that Charles A. Greathouse, superintendent of public instruction of Indiana, and Lee L. Driver, superintendent of the schools of Randolph county, will be here.

Trustee Leonard Stolle, of Washington township, is desirous of making the dedication of the building a county affair to which every citizen is cordially invited to attend. It may be that County Superintendent D. O. McComb will ask every school in the county be closed for part of the day so that the children and teachers may have an opportunity to attend.

JUSTICE DONE, SAYS VICTIM OF ASSAULT

Newport, Ky., Oct. 16.—After deliber- ating one hour and twenty-five minutes a jury in Campbell county returned a verdict early today, finding Harry Gar- rison, 18 years old, a negro, guilty of having attacked Elizabeth White Crowder and fixed the penalty at death.

Mrs. Crowder, who lives at Onwata, near the eastern line of Campbell county, was attacked at her home on July 28 last. When the foreman of the jury returned the verdict Mrs. Crowder exclaimed, "Justice has been done."

This is the first time that the death penalty since Scott Jackson and Alonzo Whitton, both white, the murderers of Pearl Bryan whose headless body was found, were given that sentence.

Harry F. 10,000 MARCHERS IN A SUFFRAGE PARADE

Thirty Bands to Help Along Boston Enthusiasm for Votes for Women.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16.—Advocates of the woman suffrage amendment to be voted on in Massachusetts in November were astir early today with final preparations for a spectacular "victory" parade this afternoon, in which 10,000 marchers, according to leaders, were to be in line. Thirty bands were engaged and facing Boston common there had been erected a reviewing stand to be occupied by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, president of the Massachusetts Suffrage association and others prominently identified with the cause.

A counter demonstration was planned by leaders of the anti-suffrage movement. Along the line of march scores of houses had been decorated in red, the anti-suffrage color. Red is supposed to indicate their opposition to votes for women. Strict orders had been issued, however, that the suffragist paraders were not to be annoyed, the "red silent" plan of the anti being regarded by them as the more effective demonstration.

COUNT SOUGHT AS SPY WITH U. S. FORT PLANS

New York, Oct. 16.—With the indictment today of Max Iynar, also known as Count Max Iynar London, on a charge of bigamy, United States secret service agents began an investigation of the recent alleged activities of a man who under the name of Iynar is said to have done confidential work in this country last June and July on behalf of the Germans and Austrian governments.

Their investigation embraced a report that detailed plans and sketches of certain fortifications around New York harbor had been sent to Berlin by two secret messengers aboard a steamship which sailed from this port for Rotterdam during July. This steamship was searched at Falmouth, England, it was reported, for the messengers, whose presence aboard had been cabled to the British admiralty, but they were not found.

CALLS HUSBAND BUT FINDS HIM A CORPSE

Going to his room at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon to call him for supper, Mrs. Gabe found that her husband, Joseph Gabe, of New Haven, was a corpse. Mrs. Gabe was a well known resident of New Haven and was employed at the Sperry handle factory and was working nights. Death is thought to have been due to a stroke of apoplexy.

He returned home from work early Friday morning and went to bed as usual. Members of the family thought that he was sleeping rather late but did not attempt to arouse him until supper time. Mrs. Gabe went to his room to awaken him and found him dead.

Coroner Krus went to New Haven Friday evening to conduct an investigation and held an inquest Saturday. The deceased is survived by the widow, three sons and one daughter.

RUMORED DEATH OF VILLA UNCONFIRMED

Story That Chieftain Had Been Put to Death in Revolt of Own Troops is Brought to El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 16.—Reports current here for twelve hours that Gen. Francisco Villa, chief of the convention forces in Mexico, had been arrested by his own men at Casas Grandes, convicted and put to death, could not be confirmed here today. Messages from Gen. Villa, in his private code, were received at Juarez at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The messages related to business with his representatives in Juarez.

The report that Gen. Rodolfo Fierro was dead, received last night, came over the military wires from Casas Grandes. It stated that Fierro had been drowned while fording the river.

A Mexican passenger from Casas Grandes, arriving Thursday night, was said to have brought the first word of Villa's death, but his story became public only late yesterday, when it received a partial confirmation from an American arrival, who said he had been so informed by a railroad employee.

According to the story Villa was killed in a fight when dissatisfaction broke out in the Villa faction. Another story says that he was being tried by a court martial and that the trial was still in progress when the leader left Casas Grandes. Division in the army resulted, it was said, approximately 7,000 of the 9,000 troops revolting. In a fight that followed, the Mexican said, Villa suffered mortal wounds. The exact nature of the fight there could not be learned as residents had feared to cross the international bridge. A crowd of persons gathered at the river last night, but little information filtered through.

Removes Notable Leader.

The death of Gen. Fierro, reported last night from Casas Grandes, Mexico, removes from the Villa campaign one of its most notable leaders.

Fierro sprang into prominence at the time of the death of Wm. Benton, a British subject at Juarez, two years ago. Benton's death, which never has been satisfactorily explained, has been laid to Fierro, then Villa's body guard. During one of Villa's critical battles Fierro in the face of a deadly fire uncoupled a troop train, preventing arrival of reinforcements. This deed was said to have won him his generalship. Later Fierro became notorious as an executioner. One of his exploits, as reported from the battlefield, was the shooting of more than three hundred prisoners. He is reported to have killed them by forming them in a row and as rapidly as his aid could feed his gun, shooting them. However, the story is discredited here. It was hinted that Fierro was the victim of a conspiracy.

It was reported that a plot existed to remove both he and Gen. Urbana from the Villa ranks. Gen. Robles, of the Carranza forces, it was said, had refused to take over the Villa army while Urbana and Fierro lived.

HARD FIGHTING ON FRONT IN LORRAINE

Paris, Oct. 16.—French forces have repulsed several counter attacks in the Lorraine district against trenches occupied by them yesterday, according to the official statement issued by the French war office today. The text of the communication follows:

"We repulsed last night in Lorraine several counter attacks against the trenches which we occupied yesterday to the north of Reillon. In the course of these engagements we took 100 prisoners."

"In the Vosges the enemy undertook, shortly after midnight, an attack in force between the Linze and the Schratzmann. This was preceded by a severe bombardment and accompanied by a curtain of fire directed at our second lines and our communicating trenches. This attack was completely repulsed by us."

TERRIFIC ATTACK ON BRIDGE.

Forty Thousand Serbian Troops Assault Serbian Point.

Athens, Oct. 15.—(Via Paris, Oct. 16.)—Forty thousand Bulgarian troops with artillery, are reported to have begun an attack on the Hara bridge between Atalupa, on the railroad running from Salonika into Serbia, and Haidovo. The point of attack is about 20 miles south of the Greek border. The Bulgarians apparently are attempting to cut railway communication and prevent the entente allies from forwarding troops and supplies for the assistance of the Serbians.

WOMEN! TRY IT! SAVE 5 DOLLARS

Says gasoline and solvite in wash boiler dry cleans everything.

Every dry clean at home? Well, it's so easy, inexpensive and the results so pleasing you'll be surprised. Any woman can clean and renew the brightness of ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, silk shirtwaists, child gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, children's coats, suits, caps, sweaters, lawn, elegantly and cheaply. Dresses, fancy vests, veils, woolen garments, net-work, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do five dollars' worth of home dry cleaning in a few moments and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and the drug store will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a washing powder. It is a wash boiler or large dish pan complete your dry-cleaning outfit.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

THREE COUPLES WED FIFTY YEARS

DeKalb County Neighbors for Over Half a Century Will Together Celebrate Golden Jubilee.

Auburn, Ind., Oct. 16.—On October 30, fifty-one years ago, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brothill, residing north of Waterbury, were married. Present at the wedding were two young couples who are now Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Thomas, of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Buss, living northwest of Auburn. Just one year later less one day, the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas was solemnized, and the following spring on March 14, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Buss were married. One year ago the golden wedding anniversary of the first named couple was celebrated with the two couples who had attended their wedding fifty years before as young guests. This year, on October 29, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will have lived their fifty years of wedded life together and a quiet celebration in honor of the event is being planned. As the plans are at this time only a few invited guests will spend the day with them, the number being limited because of the health of the esteemed couple, not permitting a more elaborate celebration. The three couples will, however, celebrate together their golden wedding, and it is hoped that on March 14 next year they may again join in celebrating the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Buss.

DIVIDE FORMER TOWN OF ALTONA

Garrett, Ind., Oct. 16.—The town of Altona, which became last week a part of the city of Garrett, will be divided between the first and second wards.

That portion north of Harris street which is in line with King street, will be added to the first ward and that part south of Harris street, will be added to the second ward. This must be done as the suburb will be included in the first ward, which is represented in the council by Isaac Whitledge. A. G. Houser is the second ward councilman. People in Altona already are asking for an extension of the electric lines, so they may have service in their residences.

DEATH OF HUNTINGTON MAN.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 16.—Details of the accident in which Frank E. Ager of this city, was electrocuted in Delray, Mich., Wednesday, were received in Huntington yesterday. At the time of his death, Mr. Ager was changing an electrical connection on an air testing apparatus in the Oakwood yards. Through some mischance the connection was carrying a heavier charge than that designed for it. As soon as the man touched the wires he was stricken to the ground unconscious. Railroad officials rushed him to Detroit, where attempts were made to revive him with a pulmotor, all attempts failing, however.

ALLEN COUNTY AGENT TO AID.

Deatur, Ind., Oct. 16.—Hog cholera has again broken out, north of Deatur in Root township, and a dozen hogs on different farms in the vicinity are af-licted. A fight to eradicate the disease has already been begun and this evening a meeting will be held in the school house in district number seven in Root township to discuss ways and means for the accomplishment of this end. County Agent Hutchins has called to his assistance in the work, Agents Henry, of Allen county, and both gentlemen will be present at the meeting to discuss with the farmers the best means of battling with the disease.

WAR LOSSES THE DEATH OF HIM.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Worrying over investments which he had in Belgium and which are probably total losses because of the war, Angus Laramie, a Belgian, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Felix Wallo, on the southside. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Felix Wallo, at whose home he passed away; one sister, Mrs. Mary Fere, in Dampremy, Belgium; Mrs. Bertha Gillis, a granddaughter, living in this city, and also three great-grandchildren, who are Edgar, Felix and Lillian Gillis.

LEVI PLATTNER ABLE TO BE UP.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Levi E. Plattner, who was terribly injured on the 15th of July two miles south of South Whitley on the Clayville pike, when Carl Boddy, who lost his life, crashed into the Plattner automobile, with an Empire roadster, was in the city Friday for the first time since the date of the accident. Mr. Plattner had a very serious time of it and for a long time it was a question whether he would survive the injuries. He sustained several broken ribs and was bruised and crushed terribly.

FREED IN TEN MINUTES BY JURY

Portland, Ind., Oct. 16.—Fred Nelson, charged with perjury, was acquitted by a jury in the circuit court, after only ten minutes deliberation. Nelson testified in a recent trial of a profane charge against Harry Antles that the latter did not use profane language in an argument with Dick Moody. Witnesses today stated that Nelson was standing within a few feet of where the argument took place and that Antles, who was convicted of the charge tried against him, did use profanity.

ONCE LIVED IN MONTPELIER.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 16.—W. R. Thurston, who died this week at Lakeview, Ind., was well known in this city. He was one of the first men to have charge of the local electric light plant. After working here for some time he went to Bluffton, where he was employed for a time, later going to the northern part of the state, where he accepted a position in the electrical department of the Chicago & Erie railroad.

MAY LOSE HIS RIGHT LEG.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 16.—The condition of Emil Egley, who was injured three weeks ago Tuesday when he was struck by a horse, is some improved according to the physician's report. However, it is believed that the right leg will have to be amputated just below the knee. Dry gangrene has set in and it is believed the amputation will be necessary to save his life. As to whether or not amputation will be made will be decided upon Monday.

WOUND CAUSES BLOOD POISON.

Columbus City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Sherman Mueller, of Washington township, who cut his right wrist Monday morning on a corn cutter, is undergoing some trouble at present with the wrist. Tuesday morning the arm began to swell and a few hours later it was painful him at the elbow. He called Dr. Souder again and upon arrival the doctor found that blood poison had set in.

SAYS WIFE DESERTED HIM.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 16.—Claiming that his wife left him five years ago, Clyde Lowell, who resides near Pierceton, has filed suit in the circuit court for a divorce from Lillian Lowell. The plaintiff charges that after they moved to Minneapolis his wife associated with other men and bore the reputation of being an immoral character. The marriage of the couple took place in Indianapolis Feb. 2, 1904.

CONVOY'S BOOSTER DAY.

Convoy, Ohio, Oct. 16.—The Convoy business men, at a meeting last Tuesday evening, started a project for a Booster Day for Convoy, to be held Saturday, October 23rd. One of the biggest days in the history of the town is expected, and people will be here from 20 miles around. Five thousand large circulars will be distributed next week, giving full particulars.

JUDGE EICHORN IN OWN COURT.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 16.—Judge W. H. Eichhorn, who has been conducting the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Boll, in Indianapolis, for the past five weeks, arrived home Thursday evening, and Friday looked after business of his own court here, which during most of the term has been in charge of special judges.

CHARGE WOMAN WITH FORGERY.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 16.—Lightning Litz, whose correct name is Ida Danglefield, was arrested on a warrant issued by a grand jury indictment charging her with forgery. Her father, F. M. Carter, of Wells county, went on her bond in the sum of $1,000, to gather with her Montpelier, Ind.

TEACHERS TO GO TO STATE MEET.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 16.—The teachers of the city schools will attend the sixty-second annual session of the Indiana State Teachers' association, which will be held at Indianapolis, October 27 to 30. The teachers of most of the townships of the county will also attend.

often lies in the braes. Hundreds of thousands of women wear the Bi-Jole Bra-Siere for the reason that they regard it as necessary as a corset. It supports the bust and back and gives the figure the youthful outline fashion decrees.

BI-JOLE are the dearest, most serviceable garments imaginable. Only the best of materials are used—for instance, "Walton," a flexible boning of great durability—absolutely rustless—permitting laundering without removal.

They come in all styles, and your local Dry Goods dealer will show them to you on request. If he does not carry them, he can easily get them for you by writing to us. Send for an illustrated booklet showing styles that are in high favor.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 16: 27-36.

27 And it came to pass, that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather, and they found none.
28 And the Lord said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?
29 See, for that the Lord hath given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days; abide ye every man in his place on the seventh day.
30 So the people rested on the seventh day.
31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna; and it was like coriander seed, white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.
32 And Moses said, This is the thing which the Lord commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.
33 And Moses said unto Aaron, Take a pot, and put an omer full of Manna therein, and lay it up before the Lord, to be kept for your generations.
34 As the Lord commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept.
35 And the children of Israel did eat manna forty years, until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan.
36 Now an omer is the tenth part of an ephah.

State's Work for Health.

State Food and Drug Commissioner Barnard, in a report just submitted to the state board of health, has outlined a rather pretentious program of activities which makes it evident that the department is determined to prosecute still more vigorously its campaign for health and its program of disease prevention in Indiana. It is needless to say, also, that no more important work than this can claim the attention of any department of the state government. Investigation of the water supply of various cities in the state; investigation of food and drug samples; investigation of persons dispensing food in restaurants, bakeries and groceries and other public places and further investigation of the milk problem are the important avenues of Commissioner Barnard's endeavors.

Along with its other work during recent months there has been an investigation of 2,003 places dispensing food or drugs in Indiana, and the inspectors have condemned and ordered closed forty-four of these, while others not so flagrantly offensive were given opportunity to correct the occasion for criticism. Supplemental to the board's work, too, has been the observance of disease prevention day and the "health week" crusades in many Indiana cities. Altogether, the work for public health in Indiana has assumed most encouraging proportions. Its fruits will be the conservation of human life and incalculable additions to the sum total of human happiness, to say nothing of the lightening of the load of physical suffering. It will be well worth while for each of us to second in every way possible the public health efforts of the state department.

Those who have deluded themselves with the idea that all the possible systems, pretexts and excuses for levying taxes had been exhausted, will now be under necessity of revising their estimates. Some New York genius has proposed a habitation tax as an equitable and effective means of raising revenues for that city, in which one would be assessed in proportion to the sort of place of residence he occupies, whether it be hovel, mansion, flat or hotel, and whether it be owned or merely rented by the occupant. In short, his tax assessment would be proportionate to the value of the property he occupies as home, regardless of who may be the owner of the property so occupied. Still, if half the things we read about New York are true, it is difficult to understand why anybody should be willing to pay to live there.

News from Washington is to the general effect that Mrs. Galt is designing her own gowns for her wedding to the president, and that definite announcement of the nuptial date may be expected within a few days. With these details safely out of the way one will have nothing further to worry about save the question of getting an invitation to the ceremony.

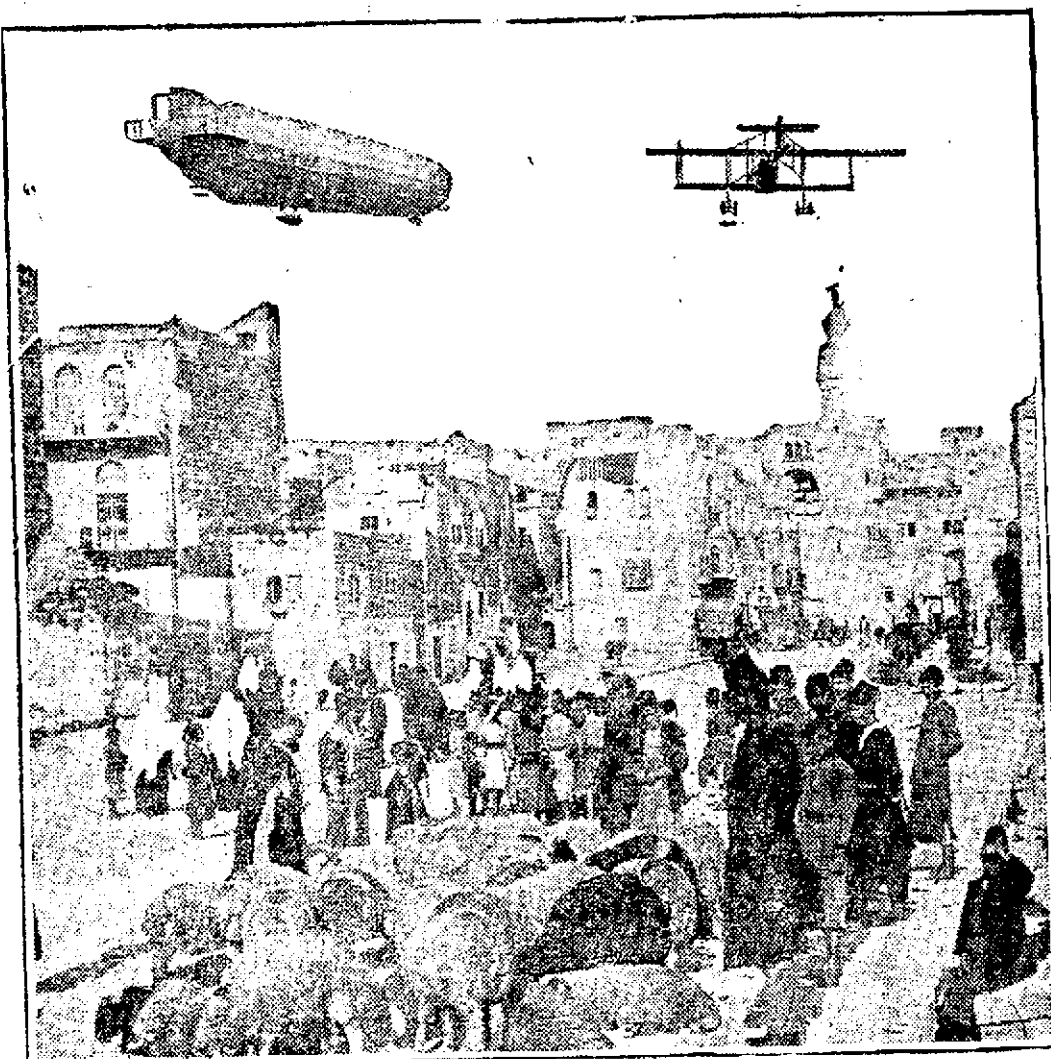

The United States Brewers' association in annual convention at Springfield, Mass., complains bitterly of what it declares is an unduly heavy war tax burden imposed upon its business. Taking into account the onswamp of the dry movement over the country, one would presume that the war tax constituted about the least of the beer-maker's woes.

The wife of a theater manager at Goshen, who has been officiating in the box office at the play-house, is suffering from blood poisoning believed to have been contracted by handling money. A good many other theater managers over the country will utterly fail to understand how the Goshen institution could possibly have been called upon to handle so much wealth as that.

Down at Columbia, South Carolina, one man was killed and four others wounded by pistol shots as a result of a wrangle over a primary election. Still, when one counts up the distressing net results it is doubtful if the South Carolina system has any advantages over the more protracted but less fatal methods followed by Indianapolis in settling similar difficulties.

Indianapolis is rushing its flood prevention work in the effort to have the present project completed by the first of December. The difference between the status of flood prevention work in Indianapolis and that in Fort Wayne is respectfully referred to the beginners' class in mental arithmetic.

CLOUD OF WAR ECLIPSES THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM.

THE HOLY LAND HAS BECOME A MILITARY CAMP. ACCORDING TO JERUSALEM DISPATCHES, WHICH TELL OF ARMED AIRSHIPS FLYING OVER THE BIRTHPLACE OF THE PRINCE OF PEACE, OF TROOPS MANEUVERING DAILY ON THE MOUNT OF OLIVES, AND ENGLISH, FRENCH AND RUSSIAN CONVOYS TURNED INTO BARRACKS FOR THE SULTAN'S SOLDIERS. THIS PICTURE SHOWS HOW A MILITARY AIRPLANE AND A WAR JUNGLE WOULD LOOK FLYING OVER THE PUBLIC SQUARE IN BETHLEHEM, BEFORE THE CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY.

SIGNS OF A HARD WINTER.

(Indianapolis News).

All the weather signs indicate a long, cold winter. Squirrels began unusually early to lay up their store of nuts; birds migrated southward in advance of their schedule; shocks on the corn and bark on the trees are extraordinarily thick; for on the corn and possum is heavier than usual; burrowing animals are digging themselves in deeper than in their wont and constructing warmer winter nests, and all the nuts have harder shells than usual. And all these various and varied indications of a severe winter, with storm and snow and blizzard, follow significantly in the wake of a cold and rainy summer. What lies ahead of us, therefore, is clear. We must prepare for the worst.

There are, of course, some superior human beings who do not believe in signs. Most of us, however, though we may publicly express a disdain for them, privately—if we are honest—confer a faith in them, or in some of them. Humanity has not yet freed itself of a belief in omens. We are still inclined to see some truth in this observation that "coming events cast their shadows before." It is a heritage of man's slave days—some remnant of the primitive instinct that man depended upon in the shadowy period of his savagery. It behooved him, then, to use his eyes and ears—to read the signs and to read them aright.

Science laughs at such things, to be sure.

And the weather bureau tells us that there is no predicting what a season will be in advance. Signs, it says, are meaningless. The squirrels, for instance, have gathered plentiful stores of nuts because there are plentiful stores of nuts to gather, the bird migration for twenty years, corn shocks and tree barks are thick because the summer was cool and wet, corn and possum fur is heavier for the same reason, burrowing animals have dug deeper because the ground is softer and damper, and the nuts have harder shells because the well-distributed rainfall encouraged that sort of growth. These are not, in short, indications of the future, but mere results of the past.

No science and signs deadlock again. But the public at large remains a free agent. It can take whichever side it chooses. It can believe the signs or believe the weather bureau. But, in any event, there will be a winter. And it is just as well to prepare for it with an eye to the significance of the signs. That is the course dictated by prudence, and prudence, signs or no signs, is generally right.

Good Advice DRIVE TO THE "WILLIAMS PARK"

(Lake Everett and Three Other Lakes)

To see the improvements of 1915, the statues, fountains, vases and other new features of interest, fifteen in all.

Driving north past the church (fourteen handsome pictures well worth seeing are on the walls of this church, the door is never locked, and you are welcome to enter), driving north past the church, turn to the right at the park entrance, a half mile drive to the east end of the lake, where the view over the lake from east to west is much the best of all the lake views, with 19 Red Roofed Summer Homes in sight.

"Eagle and Dove" As you first enter the park north of the church you will see a large "Golden American Eagle," seven feet spread of wings, mounted in a tree twenty feet above the ground, his fierce protecting eye guarding well the little white dove at his feet with the inscription, "The American Eagle protecting the white dove of peace," the honored great mission of the great republic, this inscription being particularly appropriate now during the present fearful European conflagration.

The "Doe and the Dog" A timid, frightened young fawn will next attract your eye, looking fearfully to the south with nothing in view, to you, to show cause for her great fright. When you pass beyond the timber, the timber surrounding the beautiful "Fairies Circus," the cause of her fright is then first revealed, a terribly fierce Russian bloodhound.

"Diana, the Huntress" Passing farther east you will see in statue the handsomest face ever made by Artist Greek of "Diana the Huntress." It is worth a twelve-mile drive to see that face.

The general conception of "Diana" in the Greek literature is that of the "Virgin Huntress," in close association with her brother, "Apollo."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

ENDORSE THE BUDGET SYSTEM FOR INDIANA

Following the address given Friday evening by Hon. E. M. Fullington, of Columbus, Ohio, head of the budget commission of the state of Ohio, before the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church, in which he explained the many advantageous points of having the budget system in the state, a committee composed of C. R. Lane, H. Brooks, Seale and W. M. Shambaugh, passed a resolution in which they stated that they approved of the system and would support a movement to put the system into effect in Indiana.

Mr. Fullington told how the budget system cut out the blind items that were formerly used in the expense accounts of so many politicians when the money was really used for raising salaries.

The other address of the evening was delivered by B. W. Waltemeyer, head of the utilities commission of Ohio, and coming as a representative of the governor of the state. He spoke on the public and personal problems of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. His talk was provided with theoretical and practical ideas and was appreciated by the large audience which gathered to hear him.

Delegations were present from Columbus, Van Wert and Findlay, Ohio. Lunch was served following the addresses.

OPEN FOR REGISTRATION.

Several classes at Y. W. C. A. are waiting for required number.

Several of the classes arranged by the educational committee of the Young Women's Christian association are waiting for the required number and as a result any one who wishes to register is asked to do so at once. The class in Spanish has several students and meets each Thursday evening at 7 o'clock under the direction of Miss Ruth Wheelock.

The class in Stenography is open for registration. The meetings of the choral club have been postponed until November 1.

The membership campaign at the Y. W. C. A. which was to close October 15 has been extended another week upon request of some of the earnest workers in the campaign. The best results were turned in the last few days. Officials do not care to state the exact number of new members that have been secured during the campaign and will not announce it until it has been officially closed. They state, however, that the number will run into hundreds.

EVERY THING READY FOR PURDUE GAME

Go With Wisconsin is Attracting Wide Attention.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 15.—Trained to the minute, the Purdue and Wisconsin eleven anxiously awaited the fray of the afternoon on Stuart field today. It was the first conference game of the season for the Boilermakers. The Badgers came out as the strongest eleven in the big line and were favorites 4 to 1 before the game. Five all-American football men, including the famous Eddie Hart, whipped the local aggregation into shape for the battle and before the opening whistle confident in Purdue's ability. The teams lined up for the start as follows:

Purdue.	Pos.	Wisconsin.
Stinebaugh	LT.	Stratton
Berns	LT.	Buck

WINDY CITY SQUAD FEARS HOOSIER BOYS

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Football eleven of the "big nine" clashed today in the first test of the championship contests. Losers will be eliminated as contenders for the title. The important games brought together Indiana at Chicago, Wisconsin at Purdue, Northwestern at Iowa and Illinois at Ohio state. Minnesota, the only conference team playing an outsider, was slated to meet South Dakota at Minneapolis.

Chicago faced a foe of unknown strength in Indiana, which is reported to have the strongest team in years. Jim Thorpe, the noted Carlisle Indian athlete, has been assisting Coach Childs in whipping the squad into shape and they were expected to uncover some new tricks to break down Chicago's defense. Wisconsin, which piled up large scores in its first two games, was regarded by experts as having advantage over Purdue.

Other football games in the west today: Michigan Aggies vs. Carroll, Nebraska vs. Washington, Kansas vs. Drake, Wabash vs. Washington, Earlham vs. Rose Poly.

World was received Friday by Schuyler Myers, proprietor of a brokerage office in the Physicians' Defense building, that Lambert & Company of Buffalo, for whom he traded, had failed, leaving $1,700 in debts in this city. Myers immediately called in the local creditors and paid each in full.

TEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL WILL BE MASCOT FOR COLLEGE ELEVEN.

MISS RUTH STAGG, WHO IS EXPECTED TO BRING GOOD LUCK TO THE CHICAGO UNIVERSITY TEAM, COACHED BY HER FATHER, A. A. STAGG.

Ruth Stagg, aged ten, is the first real. She will mascot for the eleven in all five girls to be mascot for a big college the big games.

GREAT HALFBACK SHOWS HOW TO PLAY BACKFIELD POSITIONS.

FOURTH OF A SERIES OF PICTURES POSED BY EDDIE MAHAN, HARVARD CAPTAIN AND ONE OF THE GREATEST PLAYERS THE GRIDIRON HAS PRODUCED, SHOWING HOW HE PLAYS FOOTBALL.

(By Eddie Mahan, as told in an interview with Brown Holmes, special sport writer).

Driving power is important for the man in the backfield. He must have a lot of steam in his movement charge and must start quickly.

The best position for a powerful start is to crouch so the legs may be used as springs to send the body charging forward. Dig your toes into the ground, keep the head up, balance and with one hand on the ground. Hold the other arm back so it can be swung forward at the start to help give momentum to the charge.

Use two hands to take the ball from the center and keep two hands on it until it is shifted into position between the crooked arm and the body.

Go into the line with all your driving power and go into low.

CAPT. WILSON

Yale footballers will have to show a lot of improvement if Captain Wilson is to lead a winner in battles with Princeton and Harvard. Defeat by University of Virginia was a sad blow to Yale followers and the army of coaches has begun to figure on many big changes. Captain Wilson faces darker prospects than any Yale captain for some years.

Seed corn day was observed in many of the schools of the county Friday.

WILL KID LEWIS BE RING SENSATION?

Looms Up as Possibility and Shadow Fall of Welsh's Path.

(By Brown Holmes).

Freddy Welsh, the lightweight champion, faces a serious proposition as the winter ring season opens. He will have to risk his title against a mighty class of fighters or pass up more money than has been offered a lightweight in many years.

There are nearly ten good lightweights anxious for a chance at Welsh and most of them are fellows who can give Welsh a run for his money. They are also fellows who can draw good purses in bouts with Welsh, which means the champion will have a lot of money propositions to consider.

If Willie Ritchie is able to come back and be anything like he was before he lost to Welsh, he will be a tough customer for the title holder. Outside of Ritchie, there are Charley White, Joe Mandot, Johnny Dundee and Kid Lewis, any one of whom is a fit opponent for the champ.

Lewis is likely to prove the sensation of the winter in lightweight circles. He was good enough to win the British championship before he came to the states and since he arrived has been good enough to beat such classy performers as Jack Britton, Kid Graves and Mike Glover.

Lewis beat Britton twice and it was not so very long ago that the claim was being made that Britton could not be out-pointed by any lightweight in the game.

Britton may have gone back some, but has not had time to go back very much, so Lewis must be the goods. He is the chap all the championship aspirants will have to look out for.

WARD SECURES GAMES FOR HIGH SCHOOLERS

Acting Principal Acts as Booking Agent for Teams.

Acting Principal Louis Ward, of the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, already has begun to sign up for basketball games for the high school team. Twenty games will be played, ten in the city and ten on the road, and Mr. Ward promised the students that if they would form an athletic association strong enough to handle expenses, he would secure games to run them through the season.

There is no football at the school so the boys and girls' teams both are working into shape without any other athletics to attract their attention.

UPHOLDS OLD FARM LIFE.

Governor Ralston Speaks at Winchester Home-Coming Day.

Winchester, Ind., Oct. 15.—Appealing to the farm boy and girl to remain in the old homestead and criticizing the people for not giving more consideration to present day problems, Governor Ralston yesterday afternoon addressed a crowd of 7,000 persons who were here to celebrate home coming day for Winchester and Randolph county. Mr. Ralston accompanied the governor. G. E. Leggett, president of the homecoming association, introducing the speaker.

The governor declared that the prosperity of our state and nation was due to farm life. He concluded his address with a discussion of the state penal institutions, their management and the parole problem.

RETIRE FROM WHAT, STALLING?

New York, Oct. 15.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, wants to retire. Before he lays aside his flinty honor, however, he wants to engage in four more bouts. As his opponents he picks Willie Ritchie, Charley White, Johnny Dundee and Joe Mandot. Welsh is almost ready to box now. He is training hard daily and expects to be in fighting form shortly.

YELLOW PERIL HALTED.

Tokio, Oct. 15.—The baseball team of the University of Chicago was again victorious today, defeating the nine of Waseda university 5 to 0.

"Silence and Very Little of That" is Ackerman's Advice to Squirrel Hunters.

THE GREATEST FACTOR IN HUNTING SQUIRRELS IN SILENCE.

(This story on squirrel hunting is the first of a series on hunting small game, written especially for The Sentinel. Hunting is an art. The object of these stories is to tell how it is done by an expert—Editor.)

(By Morris Ackerman, of the Fish and Game Protective Association).

The most important factor in hunting squirrels is silence.

The next thing is to get in woods where the ground is high and dry, if possible interspersed with nut trees.

Squirrels feed on shag bark hickory nuts, common hickory, butternuts and walnuts. They are also fond of bee-hives and if other nuts are scarce, feed on acorns.

When you have located new cuttings on the ground under nut trees, stick there. Don't go beating through the woods like a steam engine, just wait; the squirrels are either in the tree or will be back soon.

In moving from one place to another, move easily and slowly, stopping every step or so to listen for droppings from the trees.

Should a squirrel be "fired" he will continue to move in the same direction as yourself as you circle around. He can often be double crossed if you throw your hat or coat on the opposite side of the tree, while you remain still.

'FRIARS MUCH FEARED' SAYS MUNCIE SCRIBE

But a Bunch of Fans Will Be Here to Make Things Interesting.

Tomorrow will see one of the most interesting football games of the season in this city. Following the pair of farce comedies that have been staged here in the past two Sundays, a team with a punch will be welcomed. The famous Congerville aggregation of huskies from Muncie is coming with a raft of enthusiasts and a bunch of fans, and will be but here for state championship honors.

The Muncie crew is considered one of the strongest in the state and, according to an Indianapolis sport writer, who mentions it in today's paper, "the invincible Congerville team, and the game will be worth traveling many miles to see."

The Muncie Press has the following to say of the game:

"The Congerville Athletic club football team will journey to Fort Wayne where they will play the famous Friars team of that city. The Friars are touted as being one of the fastest teams in the state and the locals are looking forward to a hard battle. They have been practicing hard for the game, however, and are confident of bringing home the bacon."

"Among the many stars included in the lineup of the Fort Wayne team the most prominent is little 'Skeet' Lambert, the former star on the Wabash college team. There also is Heinie Berger, the Notre Dame star, who will be a tower of strength in the back field. Laporte, the former star end on the Chicago university team, will be a factor in the contest also."

Altogether, the Friars have a team that makes it much feared by the locals, who will be forced for the first time this season to display all that Coach Chockley has taught them, and the game should be one of the best ever seen in that part of the state. A large delegation of rooters will accompany the locals."

ELECTRICS CONCORDIA.

The Fort Wayne Electric baseballers and the Concordians meet at the college campus this afternoon. Both teams are strong and a scrappy game will be put up.

DISCOVERS LUCK STONE OF ANCIENT CHINESE.

Mrs. Ada Perry Martin holding up her peculiar moonstone.

Newport, Ore., Oct. 16.—While strolling along the beach near Newport, Ore., Mrs. Ada Perry Martin picked up a peculiar little stone.

She was interested in its strange markings and took it to a gem expert. He told her it was a cloud agate or a moonstone. However, it was not the stone itself, but the design upon it which held her attention.

She determined to give all her leisure time to studying it in an effort to find out its meaning, and to see whether it is reproduced elsewhere.

Mrs. Martin learned the following unique facts: The design on this little stone is of Chinese origin and consists of the Yang and Yin, or the dual powers of nature, produced by the great extremes of motion and rest, force and matter, fire and water, light and darkness.

It was used to illustrate a system of philosophy in China more than 3,000 years before Christ.

Various designs are found in many nations which are all founded on a diagram of this stone.

Mrs. Martin says: "The design is found in the Yih King, the first volume of the Chinese bible, and it is also found in the Sanskrit."

After many years of diligent research, Mrs. Martin learned that the design was used in the king's chamber of the great pyramid, in the holy of holies in Solomon's temple, and in the tabernacle of Moses. The figure was in existence in the days of Confucius, 447 B. C.

The stone changes color in the light. The dark part has a light streak through it. The light part contains a seed.

According to Chinese and Koreans, the symbol is magic and brings good luck. Neomancers are said to have used it in the Orient, in "working spells."

QUALIFIES AGAIN FOR RUSTICATION

Dick Brennan, Just Back from Penal Farm is Locked Up.

Dick Brennan, long-time police character in Fort Wayne and just back from a rustication of four months at the Indiana penal farm near Putnamville, has qualified for another and a longer term at that bucolic institution. Brennan was sentenced about four months ago to a term on the farm as an incorrigible drunkard, the hope being that a prolonged period of enforced sobriety would work a reformation for which he expressed deep and sincere desire. He returned day or two ago and was seen Friday evening on the street a trifle lit up. While two officers at police headquarters were discussing this incident, Saturday morning, and speculating on the probability that Richard would be brought in during the day, the patrol wagon was called out. It returned in a few minutes with Mr. Brennan as its passenger. He was drunk in a most palpable fashion. What Judge Kerr in view of the failure of the sojourn at the farm to improve him remains to be seen.

IN THE CITY COURT.

Another of the Hardesty Sisters Three Is Brought to Bar.

In the city court Saturday morning Felbie Hardesty was arraigned on a charge of prostitution and continued until Tuesday morning, going under detention for want of $100 bond. Mrs. Hardesty is a sister of Mrs. Clara Golliver and Miss Hattie Hardesty, who were arrested Thursday following the absence from her home on Wall street for almost twenty-four hours of Mrs. Golliver, who was found in Foster park with a young man named Frank Miller.

With a new straw what and the best course to be procured in Payne, Ohio, Luther Deschamplight from a train at the Nickel Plate depot, Friday afternoon, and proceeded to make an indecent spectacle of himself. He was arrested by Captain Hazelett, of the railway police. Judge Kerr fined him $15 and he will sojourn in the bastille for twenty-five days, the summer home and the autumnal house having taken all his money.

Bert Kyle, a drunk, was continued until November 20 and went to jail to wait and Henry Kruse, who counts that month lost which does not see him locked up for being drunk, was sent over to stay until Monday for trial. Harry Baird, another drunk, was turned loose. William Kirby was also put on ice until Monday to answer a drunk charge.

The case against Louis Huber, charged with petit larceny, was continued until November 15 and he was released on his own recognizance.

Harry Frohright, the strike-breaker charged with assault and battery for shooting A. C. Caldwell, night watchman at the Riverside hotel, an Al McKee, a police character, early Thursday morning, was continued until Tuesday morning and his bond of $1,000 stands as it was. McKee is locked up in default of $300 bond for his appearance as a witness.

Requirements of the Male Voter

What is required, at present, of a man before he can vote in the United States?

He must be twenty-one years old. He must be native-born or naturalized. In some states he must be able to read. That is all.

He is not asked whether he will use his vote.

He is not asked if all men want to vote.

He is not asked if he thinks the laws need changing.

He is not asked if he will promise to better the laws.

He is not asked to give statistics showing whether men have previously used their votes to better the laws.

He is not asked if he is sure he can still be a good father.

He is not asked to "remain attentive" after he votes.

But all such requirements and more are made of women when they aspire to vote. Is it fair to make such distinction?—Exchange.

SUFFRAGE NOTES.

At a suffrage meeting of public school teachers in Boston, it was decided not only to march in the parade of Oct. 16 and otherwise help the campaign, but to circulate in the schools and get names on the Massachusetts Teachers' Woman Suffrage amendment book.

Women vote in Alaska. There are not as many women there, according to population, as in New York, but there are a great many more than easterners imagine. They have used their ballots as the vast majority of women use them—for the general uplifting of the community.—Rev. Edward G. Pettit, Juneau, Alaska.

Woman suffrage has been an unqualified success in our state.—Rev. David D. Allen (Presbyterian), Tacoma, Wash.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Wheat developed fresh strength today, largely as a result of wet weather in the spring crop belt, threatening further delay to any accumulation of supplies at the leading terminals northwest. The opening, which ranged from 5¢ to 7¢ higher, was followed by a moderate additional uptick.

The close was unsettled, 5¢ to 7¢ net higher, with December at $1.05½ and May at $1.09½.

In corn, as in wheat, the unsettled weather had a bullish effect. After opening 5¢ to 7¢ higher, the market scored yet further gains.

The close was steady at 74¢ to 75¢ net advance.

Oats kept upward pace with other cereals.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 16.—The record of today's brief session was one of unevenness followed by general recoveries at the end. Initial prices were more or less confusing and unsettled because more general later on selling of United States Steel and other potential issues. A number of the war shares were lower by one to two points and such rails as Louisville and Nashville, New Haven, Erie second preferred and Rock Island showed some declines. The rally in the final dealings was led by Baldwin Locomotive and Bethlehem Steel, the latter rising seven points from yesterday's close at the new record price of 481. The close was steady. Bonds were firm.

Specialties, particularly war shares, made some upward progress at the outset of today's moderate trading, but the undertone was one of increasing caution. Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, American Steel Foundries, General Electric and Westinghouse advanced from marginal fractions to two points, with light gains in Pennsylvania, Atchafalpa and Ontario and Western, Rock Island added a point to yesterday's decline and New York Central was slightly lower. U. S. Steel held at yesterday's low quotations of 52½.

AND IT SURELY WAS A PLEASANT EVENING

Street Cars, Jitney Busses
and Pedestrians in Medley of Minor Mishaps.

A jitney bus driven by Ray Campbell, 1157 Francis street, ran into and knocked down R. W. Winans, of Chicago, at Lewis and Calhoun streets near midnight Friday night, tearing up his coat sleeve and rather musing up his dignity. He was uninjured. Half a dozen women who occupied the car ably assisted the automobile horn in sounding a warning.

Car Hits Taxi.
Huffman north-bound car No. 179 (empty) lifted a taxicab belonging to the Fort Wayne Transfer company from its moorings at Washington and Calhoun street at 10:15 Friday night, the machine getting stuck on the car's fender. It required considerable pulling and pushing to move the machine. The incident was greatly enjoyed by a crowd on the curbs, who joyfully fell into a sympathizing spirit and volunteered to assist the car crew in any way possible.

Wentzler Car Damaged.
An automobile belong to John Wentzler, the Barr street druggist, is in the shop for general repairs following a mixup at Harrison and Washington streets at 8:15 Friday evening. No one was injured.

TWO CHILDREN HAD CROUP.
The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant of Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw, inflamed throat and loosens phlegm. Dr. J. C. Foley & Co.—Advertisement.

Staff of High School Students Publishes One of the Livest Periodicals of its Kind

F.W.H.S. THE CALDRON STAFF 1916

There is a gay young thing among the periodicals of this land that bears the name of "Caldron." It is a husky infant, too, and has become one of the leaders in the social set in which it travels. The Caldron is the high school paper that makes its appearance each school month from the Barr street knowledge emporium.

For some dozen years the Caldron has gone forth from Fort Wayne to spread throughout the world that the Fort Wayne high is a live institution, and that its students are in the front rank in high school literary attainments.

But this year promises to be the best the Caldron has ever known. A crowd of as lively and enthusiastic magazine workers as ever chewed pencils and waited for genius to hurry in charge of the sheet this year, and the result is bound to be a real paper, a high school journal with a punch.

The Caldron Staff.

The melody of pained expressions to the left in the accompanying group is the Caldron staff. They were caught in the paper's editorial room one afternoon this week, and assumed the aforementioned and above captioned cast-iron countenances while they waited for the flashlight to go off. These to a score of the high schoolers are members of the staff, and it keeps them busy in their spare moments pondering the wisdom that is given to the world in each issue of "your valuable paper." The managing editor is John Kinner Blitz. He is the general manager of the paper. "It is on his shoulders that the responsibility falls, and he has more than one man's share of work to accomplish."

It is this same John Kinner Blitz who is required by his oath of office to fight with the printer, keep the desk in order, write the editorials, discourage youthful authors who have more enthusiasm than style, read the proof, and put out the cat at night.

He is ably assisted by one Houghton Taylor, whose handsome visage adorns the starboard gunwale of the pictures. The dignified personage to the left of Mr. Blitz is Harry Warfel, business manager. It is his solemn duty to go out on dark nights with a lead pipe and hit business men for ads. The thing behind his ear is a pendulum, which he keeps loaded, and he right as the result of his advertising contract activities in the past few weeks. He freely admits that the Caldron is the best advertising medium to be obtained anywhere between New York and Singapore, and describes the merits

The Caldron has grown steadily since its inception, and has developed from a flabby little sheet into a booklet of considerable size and an unquestionable dignity. The department of jokes is the only relic of barbarism that remains between its covers, and even this is rapidly being civilized. As proof of this astounding statement one instance may be cited. The alleged joke concerning the freshman who said "I see you keep a bee" hasn't been published in eight months.

Last year the Caldron issued an annual booklet that was one of the most remarkable bits of literature ever turned off the press in this city. In it the name, date of graduation, present address and present occupation of every person who ever was graduated from Fort Wayne high in its fifty years of existence, was published.

The "oldest inhabitants" were in a state of nervous collapse before the work was completed, but the number was worth every bit of the effort that was put on it, as it presents in concise form a history of Fort Wayne men and women that never could be produced in any other way.

But this year the school is working hard for a better and bigger Caldron, and the staff in charge of it is intent on making this the most successful season in the history of the paper. May luck be with you, Caldronites. Go to it, do your worst.

KEY TO ILLUSTRATIONS.

Pictures and article by COUNTY AGENT C. HENRY.

Allen county has more milking cows than any other county in the state of Indiana and leads in the number of gallons of milk produced. We have about 12,000 cows, with an annual production of approximately 6,000,000 gallons of milk. This is an average of 500 gallons per cow, or 4,300 pounds. Average milk test 4 per cent, butter fat, which sells at about thirty cents per pound. Our average production of butter fat is 172 pounds per cow. This would sell for $51.60, or the total county production for $619,200.00.

To the average man who did not take the time to analyze these figures, our dairy industry would seem to be an enormous wealth producer for Allen county. If all of the items of expense in keeping a dairy cow were counted up we would find these average cows were mere boarders, many of them mill stones around the financial necks of the owners. Feed, housing, taxes, interest on investment, and labor being the yearly cost of keeping a dairy cow in Allen county up to about $55. Not much profit in cows costing us $55 a year to keep, and returning to us but $51.60. A farmer having ten such cows might believe he was making money out of them, as they would be bringing him a gross return of $516, but if he went into his business a little deeper, he would find himself out just $34 for his trouble.

How to Make Money.

There are many cows in our county bringing in a gross return of $100 and more, leaving a handsome profit. As many more of them, however, are below the average. Shall we conclude, then, that there is no money in dairying and quit the business? The one way out is to use nothing but bulls having a long record of producers behind them. Ohio State university found that a pure-bred dairy bull was worth, on the first generation of offspring, $1,600 more than a scrub. These two bulls were crossed on the same herd of common cows on two successive years.

Eleven heifer calves resulted in one instance and seven in the other. The offspring of the scrub bull averaged 30 pounds of butter fat per year less than their dams, while the offspring from the pure-bred bull average 40 pounds of butter fat more than their dams. This made a difference of 70 pounds of butter fat per year in the offspring of the two bulls crossed on the same cows. This 70 pounds of butter fat would sell for $21. The production would continue to increase with each generation as long as a good bull was used.

Poor Business Methods.

The whole trouble is that the average

farmer is a poor business man. The average farmer does not know how much butter fat each of his cows produces. In an average farm herd there are a few cows that are really making a profit, most of them mere boarders, and some that are losing the farmer money every day they are kept on the farm. Dairy records and a pure-bred bull of high breeding would soon eliminate the money-losers and make each generation higher producers than the last. Milk records require but very little time, and will pay high dividends. The Babcock test for butter fat is simple, and the only test that is reliable. The whole outfit, milk scales, tester and record sheets would cost about seven dollars, and would be the most profitable investments on the farm. The county agent stands ready at any time to demonstrate the proper method of keeping of these records and making the test to any group of individuals that may ask.

Only Three Creameries.

Allen county is as well situated for the dairy industry as any county in the state. Our transportation facilities are of the best, our soils are big crop producers, and our farms are of sufficient size. Yet our county, the largest in the state, has but three creameries.

SHOWS MUST BE KEPT CLEAN SAYS BOARD

Public Safety Department Orders Police Head to Watch Burlesque.

That all performances in Fort Wayne theaters must conform strictly to accepted canons of decency or the theaters must be closed was the edict that went forth from the office of the board of safety after the regular meeting of that body Friday evening. Chief of Police Charles Lenz was directed to visit the Empress theater Saturday and if the performance at that playhouse transcended rational propriety to order it stopped. He was also directed to inspect the Sunday performance at the Majestic theater, where a "girl show" is booked for that day, and pursue a similar course. The Empress theater already has announced a change of policy that its management expresses belief will allay the objections that have raised a protest against its performances. This action by the board of safety followed a conference Friday afternoon with Mayor W. J. Hays, with a committee representing the Men's Christian league, the former represented by Rev. A. K. Zartman, of Grace Reformed church; Rev. Arthur J. Folson, of Plymouth Congregational church, and Rev. C. O. Shire, and the league represented by President J. A. Price and Attorney W. L. Ballou. The object of the conference, which was held at the city hall, was to ask the mayor to take steps to stop the burlesque shows. No question of the Sunday theater was at the time raised. Mayor Hays called the attention of the board of safety to the burlesque shows in a note he drafted before he left later in the afternoon for Rome City. The board took the action already detailed.

DEDICATION OF NEW SCHOOL.

Program for Big Celebration of New Harmer Building's Completion.

From 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8:15 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock in the evening, Friday, October 22, the Harmer school building, the handiwork in the city and the latest to be completed, will be the scene of interesting ceremonies of dedication. The general committee of which Councilman Jacob Hartman is chairman, arranged the program at a meeting in the city hall, Thursday afternoon. The school will be dismissed for the afternoon and the patrons of the school and the public generally are invited to inspect the building. Five thousand carnations will be distributed. The public school's string orchestra will render a program in the afternoon, under the direction of Prof. G. J. Thompson. In the evening there will be music by the Elks' band, and the following program of five-minute speeches:

Jacob Hartman, who will make the introductory remarks; Prof. Justin N. Study, superintendent of schools and chairman of the celebration; Mayor William J. Hays; "Our City"; W. H. Schaubach, "Our Playgrounds"; E. W. Cook, "History of the Harmer School"; James Hays, "Our Progress"; Prof. Jacob Hays, "Growth of the School City"; Harry H. Hilgemann, "Education"; and E. G. Hoffman, "Greater Fort Wayne."

END OF PAVING PROGRAM NEAR.

Grace Company Will Complete Its City Work in Two Weeks.

The completion of the 1915 paving program in Fort Wayne is near and will be reached in two weeks or less. The Grace Construction company will finish its concrete work on State boulevard Tuesday and will have the top put on within a week or ten days later. The company has completed the curbs and gutters on its portion of Wayne street and has begun grading. Wednesday it will start to put in concrete. The job is small and will be completed soon. The Municipal Construction company has the contract for the concrete portion of the pavement from Summer street to the Pennsylvania right of way, but may not complete the work this fall.

Youse was still in her bed at her boarding house, 250 West Main street, and had denied herself to all callers save one, her intimate friend, and was unable to see newspaper men and was refused to keep an appointment with Chief of Police Lenz at his office during the forenoon.

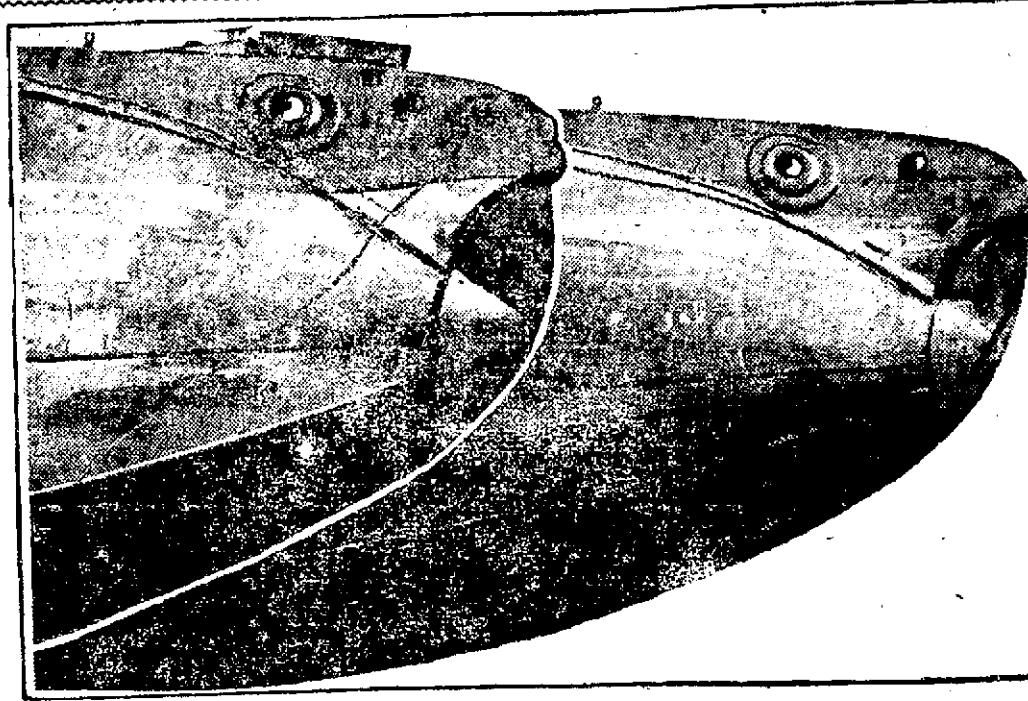

Is Now Much Worried.

After talking with friends and some of her boarders who were familiar with the details of Warner's operations in Fort Wayne, Mrs. Youse, who at first on her return expressed confidence that the man her daughter had married would return here soon and vindicate all his claims as to himself, began to be worried about her daughter. She expressed great anxiety for the welfare of Beulah and became intensely anxious for word from her. Up to noon she had received no word from Beulah, although when she left Warner and Beulah at Gary, Friday evening, when she took the train for Fort Wayne, the girl had promised to write at once.

Friday evening Mrs. Youse stated that the couple would take a short honeymoon trip and return to Fort Wayne probably about Sunday evening. That was the expectation she expressed to Chief Lenz in the long interview she had with the Fort Wayne police head in his office.

She then was very reluctant to talk and it was with difficulty that the chief gained any information from her. She seemed to still have faith in her daughter, but that faith appeared very indignant that sensational stories had been printed about herself and the couple.

THE FISH THAT GUARD UNCLE SA M'S SHORES.

But they're not fish. These are the noses of two of our submarine s, taken as they lay side-by-side in a dry-dock at an Atlantic navy yard. Don't the hawser holes look like eyes, and don't the forward plates and the way they're put together look like a real mouth?

Works a Chicago Jeweler.

In Chicago Warner took the women to a large jewelry store, with whose proprietor or manager Warner appeared to be well known and in that establishment about $500 worth of diamonds and other jewelry were selected. None of these purchases were taken away from the store, some of the rings requiring changes to make them fit.

Warner displayed his evidences of financial ability and was accompanied to the Continental and Commercial National bank, the great banking institution in Chicago and the second largest in the United States, where J. Warner made a deposit of his Fort Wayne certificate and cashed a check. This check Mrs. Youse thinks was for $50. Later the jeweler returned to his store, where the women were awaiting Warner's return, and stated that Warner and the president of the bank were evidently old friends, members of the same lodge and were having a friendly chat that was taking more time than the merchant could spare from his business and he had returned. Later Warner came back and left the store.

Mrs. Youse states that Old Friends had come to her home to board last week she discovered that he knew many of her early friends in her old home and was intimately acquainted with some of her relatives. His familiarity with names and places was intimate and detailed and made Warner seem to her like an old acquaintance. It was this line of work that evidently deceived the woman and her daughter and made it easy for Warner to creep far into their confidence.

Beulah Youse, who worked at the Boston store, left there Saturday night and did not return Monday to go to work and it was said that on Sunday she accepted Warner's proffer of marriage. A story is told that on Saturday Beulah wrote from the store to her mother a note telling her to get rid of Warner; that she would not marry him, and that this epistle was entrusted for delivery to a boy whose curiosity led him to read the unsolicited letter.

Was Furnishing an Establishment.

Early in the week Warner and the two women went to the big furniture establishment of Fox Bros. & Co., Calhoun and Washington streets, and there selected about $5,000 worth of furniture with which to outfit the Cressler home, which Warner claimed to have purchased.

A rich dining room suite valued at $1,400, a gorgeous bedroom suite valued at $800—including a bedstead that was especially built for the couple—couched and ten further furnishings to correspond were selected. None of this furniture was removed and was not paid for. It was merely "selected."

It was a part of the splendor and magnificence of the scale upon which Warner was providing for his pretty young bride, just as was the case when he took her to a department store, where some $300 or $500 worth of clothing for a courtesan were picked out and some of it taken.

BIG LABOR MAN TO SPEAK.

Arthur E. Holder, of Washington, D. C., a member of the standing law committee of the International Association of Machinists, will be the principal speaker Monday evening at a meeting of local machinists to be held at the Elks' temple. Mr. Holder is also a member of the legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor and is regarded as one of the best posted men on labor matters in the country.

COOKERY WAS FORGOTTEN.

The fire department was called at 12:57 o'clock Saturday to 818 Harrison street, where someone had forgotten to take some victuals off the stove when they were cooked. Everything was burnt to a crisp and the entire house was filled with a dense smoke. There was no loss.

Chester Hinton returned in Friday from a two weeks' visit in Chicago.

There are families in Fort Wayne and Allen County to whom we have furnished Housekeeping Outfits for three generations. The good will of our store—built up through fifty years of honorable, truthful merchandising—is the most valuable asset of our business and the highest recommendation our store could have for the patronage of both old and new residents of Fort Wayne.

continue, the Germans appear to be on the defensive along the entire eastern front.

Russian military officials say they have obtained information that the German armies have been ordered to take Brest at any cost. German attacks at this point have been made with the utmost impetuosity under cover of a terrific artillery fire, but so far they have been unable to break down the Russian defense. The German losses are reported to have been extremely heavy.

MACKENSEN DRIVES FORWARD.

Further Progress in German Invasion of Serbia Reported.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—Further progress for the armies of Field Marshal von Mackensen invading Serbia is reported by the war office today. The storming of positions south of Semendria and east of Pozarevatz is announced. Bulgarian troops are progressing also in their attacks and have taken the eastern forts of Zajevar.

An attempt by the French to capture a German position east of Aubervilliers in the Champagne, was repulsed with a loss to the French of more than 600 men in prisoners and three machine guns. German army headquarters announced today. Attacks near Soudun, Lex Meil and Landrey also failed.

KING FERDINAND'S MANIFESTO.

London Gets Copy of It After Britain's Declaration of War.

London, Oct. 15.—Reciprocal war declarations between Britain and Great Britain and Serbia, together with King Ferdinand's manifesto to the Bulgarian people, defining Bulgaria's cause and intentions, have reached another phase in the Balkan situation, which is slowly emerging from obscurity.

Germany's decision not to join forces with Serbia "at present," although causing profound disappointment in England and is regarded by many London commentators as equivalent as violating the obligations to Serbia has, at least, been announced in words permitting no further doubt as to the immediate position of affairs which, however, circumstances might alter at any moment.

Rumania remains the only sphinx-like figure in the Balkans. She, according to a telegram received in Paris from Bucharest, has decided to maintain strict neutrality, but this is not taken in London to be a definite answer.

Field Marshal von Mackensen's campaign against Serbia is developing with a swiftness that is very gratifying to the allies of Serbia. He has advanced slightly and made some captures, but his troops, according to advices received in the British capital, have so far obtained no important results.

Ferdinand's Manifesto.

A copy of the manifesto of King Ferdinand to the Bulgarians, portions of which were forwarded from Sofia recently by telegraph, reached London today. The manifesto implies Bulgaria has no quarrel with the entente powers. It explains that they, like Germany, were prepared to give Bulgaria the greater part of Macedonia.

"Our treacherous neighbor, Serbia, alone remained inflexible in the face of the advice of her friends and allies," the manifesto continues. "Far from listening to their counsels, Serbia, in animosity, stupidly attacks our territory and our brave troops have been forced to fight for the defense of their own soil."

In conclusion King Ferdinand says: "The European war is nearing a close with the victorious armies of the central empire in Serbia are advancing rapidly. I command our valiant army to drive the enemy from the limits of our kingdom and crush this felon neighbor. We shall fight the Serbs at the same time as the brave armies of the central empire."

On the Western Front.

On the western front the chief activity is reported along the French line, where small French advantages have been equalled, if not overshadowed by German gains, the French being forced to surrender some trenches in the Vosges under a heavy bombardment and a far-flung infantry attack. The Germans also have gained some ground in the Champagne region.

The British front has undergone no change, according to Sir John French, the British commander-in-chief. The Germans claim to have recaptured many of the trenches taken Wednesday by the British at Loos.

No. 2, the second $100 was voted for the benefit of the striking car men.

Complaint was made to the police Friday by Elmer Boerger, 1914 Hanna street, that while he was driving a horse and wagon on Pontiac street, the rig was struck by an eastbound city car, No. 204, badly damaging it. Boerger was thrown to the pavement and injured. The accident occurred at Pontiac and Hanna streets.

No Arrests in Gun Affair.

No arrests have been made by the police in the case of a strike-breaking car crew who are said to have displayed fire arms Friday night when a brick was thrown into a car on West Main street. The attack on the car was made about 11 o'clock and the crew got out and scolded for the person who threw the brick. They are said to have drawn revolvers. A crowd gathered soon, but the car was started down town and was not at the transfer corner by Police Sergeant Zwick and Patrolmen Bart, Coulter and Hartzell. The members of the crew were searched, but only the motorman was found to have a weapon. This was taken to headquarters and the motorman was permitted to take his car to the barn.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.

New York, Oct. 15.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $188,263,720 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $1,111,000 from last week.

Romances of Our Presidents—No. 1

Madison and "Queen Dolly."

Cupid has dared to dictate to President Madison and by now you are pretty well acquainted with his pretty love who is the spirited Dolly Payne. She noted for her charm, soon attracted a well-to-do young Quaker lawyer, John Todd. When he asked her to wed she demurely said:

"I never mean to marry."

For parents urged her, however, and finally she consented. Three years of married life followed, during which time she became the mother of two babies. Then her husband died of yellow fever. In the full bloom of womanhood the widow Todd soon gained fame for her beauty and soon vied with each other to catch a glimpse of her as she went walking.

Madison saw her. Then hastened to his friend, Aaron Burr, and begged to be presented. Soon rumors of Madison's new love affair spread. The president and Mrs. Washington sent for Dolly.

"Is it true?" asked Mrs. Washington.

"No, I think not," replied Dolly, but her blushes told the story. Mrs. Washington "made her not to be ashamed. It is an honor to win a man so great and so good."

Madison had won the whole heart of the beautiful and brilliant woman and he showed his devotion and appreciation by being the most devoted of husbands.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

NEW SHORT HAUL FREIGHT TERMINAL

Nickel Plate Will Change from Continental to West Leipsic.

The lay-over point for the short haul crews on the Nickel Plate is to be changed from Continental to Leipsic, according to news from the latter place. The Nickel Plate has arranged to enlarge its yards and put in a turntable at Continental, but the mayor and village council secured an injunction against laying more tracks across the main street of the town and the turntable project was abandoned. Continental has continued the terminal of the short haul since, however, but the engine had to be run to Leipsic to be turned and the crews filed a "kick" against the extra work this arrangement made. Now, it is said, the terminal is to be changed to Leipsic and the ten or twelve crews who lay over night at Continental will lay over at Leipsic.

IN PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

Daniel Tressler Has Only Slight Chance for Recovery.

A Wabash official who came up from Decatur, Ill., this morning said that the condition of Daniel Tressler, former Fort Wayne resident, who was badly injured at Decatur last Thursday, is not encouraging. The attending surgeon says he has a chance for recovery, but it is very slight. Mrs. Elizabeth Tressler, of 325 West Williams street, the mother of the young man, is at his bedside in the Decatur hospital. Dan Tressler went to Decatur with a number of other Wabash employees about a year ago. He is twenty-seven years old.

COMMITTEE TAKES A REST.

F. J. Schwanz, who represents the Fort Wayne shopmen in the conference with the Wabash officials, came home last night. The conference is not complete and will be resumed next week. There is no possibility of the shopmen growing out of them, it is said. The shopmen, and particularly those who belong to the federated crafts—machinists, boilermakers, pipefitters, and blacksmiths and carpenters—are seeking some working rule changes, as well as slight increase in wages. The conference this week was with E. F. Goodham, superintendent of motive power, at Decatur.

EXAMINING A PENSION APPLICATION.

The pension examining board of the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association of the Panhandle is looking into the application of William Emme, a cabinetmaker in the company's local shops, who seeks retirement on the disability clause. One of the members of the board is Dr. J. M. Kells, of Columbus, formerly of this city, who is taking advantage of his presence here to see a number of his old friends. William Emme worked for the company about thirty-five years.

BACK FROM LAKE OUTING.

Engineers J. B. Maurer, D. H. Graybill, F. H. Pierson and E. W. Crosby and Fireman B. F. Ambler, Herman G. Weigman, Theo C. Mungen, C. E. Geary and J. E. Cunio, of the Nickel Plate, and E. L. Hutzell, of the Hutzell drug store, have returned from Lake James and resumed their respective duties after a week's absence. The outing at the lake was not a brilliant event in the way of catching fish, but anything it lacked in that line was more than made up for in other features. They had the best times of their lives.

PILE DRIVER TO CHICAGO.

The work of setting the piling for the Osage street subway under the Nickel Plate, has been temporarily interrupted by a shortage of material. Only about half of the piling was driven when the supply was exhausted and the crew had to quit. They went to Chicago this morning to get about 200 piles and when this work is accomplished, they will return here to resume work at Osage street.

CONDUCTOR INJURED AT ADAMS.

Conductor C. J. Fitley, who has charge of a Pennsylvania work train, sustained a badly sprained ankle this morning, when his foot was turned under by striking a stone when he alighted from the caboose at Adams. He had to give up the run and will probably be unable to work for several days.

WILL SPEND WINTER IN SOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert John will soon go to Florida, where they will spend a part of the winter at least, and possibly all of it. Mrs. John has been sick for several months and the sojourn in the south will be undertaken in the hopes that it will restore her health. Mr. John is a retired Nickel Plate engineer.

WILL BUILD A HOME.

E. B. Hughes, assistant foreman of the Pennsylvania round house, has purchased a vacant lot at the corner of Pontiac street and Hoagland avenue and will immediately commence the erection of a house, which will be occupied by himself and family when it is completed.

LABORER LOSES A FINGER.

When Tony Christ, a helper in the Bass foundry, got his left hand caught in the gearing of a crane yesterday afternoon, the second finger was so badly crushed that the surgeon may have to amputate it and the third finger was severely lacerated. Dr. A. J. Kresler is the attending surgeon.

ROUND HOUSE EMPLOYEE HURT.

Karl Braun, of the Pennsylvania round house, sustained a painful sprained ankle Thursday when his foot alighted upon a piece of round metal when he jumped into an engine pit. He can scarcely walk without a cane and will be off duty several days as a result of the injury.

YARD EMPLOYEE HAS FOOT HURT.

W. H. Ferguson, Pennsylvania yard engineer at Lima, Ohio, who resides in Fort Wayne, is at home with an injured foot. The member was bruised when a piece of metal fell upon it. Engineer R. Koch has taken Mr. Ferguson's place temporarily.

JOHN STANFORD RECOVERING.

FURLOUGHED FIREMEN RECALLED.

To meet the demands caused by the increasing traffic on the Nickel Plate, some of the furloughed firemen are being recalled. Yesterday S. Thomas, W. Kruse and J. Kider, firemen who were furloughed all summer, were recalled.

Passenger Conductor M. H. Dochterman, of the Lake Erie and Western, and Mrs. Dochterman left yesterday for Buffalo to spend a few days' vacation.

Conductor J. E. Long and Brakemen Harvey Holsworth and W. F. Roush, who had been off duty for several days, are at work again on the Nickel Plate.

Harry N. Williams, superintendent of the Chicago division of the Nickel Plate, is expected home tomorrow or the following day. He went to California two weeks ago to visit his mother.

Pennsylvania Fireman J. R. Cordin, C. Mead and W. H. Currier have obtained short leaves of absence for various reasons. Mr. Mead has gone to Terre Haute for a visit.

A. C. Houghton, second track operator at the New York Central station, who suffered an attack of typhoid fever, returned to duty yesterday, after an absence of two months.

William Hyatt, the lineman, who was so badly hurt by an electric current a year ago, crippling both hands, had one of the members amputated at the wrist yesterday.

O. C. Wright, assistant engineer of motive power of the Pennsylvania Northwest system, went to Chicago this morning on business for the department.

Fireman G. A. Chaney, of the Nickel Plate, who had been running extra, has been assigned to a local freight run with Engineer Joseph Harber, between this city and Knox.

F. M. Towels, assistant medical examiner of the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, will be on the Panhandle next week, examining applicants for pensions.

William Kueche, employed for the past four years as draftsman for the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump company, has resigned to take up similar work in the south.

Because of the serious illness of his wife, Nickel Plate Conductor W. B. Pierce is taking a lay off. Mrs. Pierce was reported to be slightly improved this morning.

Nickel Plate Conductor George Harper, who owns a cottage at Lake James, has taken his family there for a two weeks' outing, the last of the season.

Nickel Plate Brakeman William Wolf, who had been off duty to enter his mother, who was visiting him, resumed work this morning. His mother lives in New York.

Fireman J. F. Frederickson and J. M. Hengstler, of the Nickel Plate, who had been stationed here, have been transferred to Bellevue to make that town their lay over place for awhile.

Engineer C. F. Duffee and Fireman R. P. Smith, who had been in the through freight service, have been transferred to the local service, with Leipsic the lay over point.

The weekly output of generally repaired locomotives from the Pennsylvania erecting shop was composed as follows: Nos. 9008, 9992, 7330, 7306, 7613, 7167, 7530, 7499 and 7467.

George Vanflorn, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, had the palm of his left hand cut through a misdirected blow of a hammer. He will be unable to work for several days.

Mrs. H. F. Starke, who has been quite sick, is improving and her husband, who is a gang foreman at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop and who has been off duty on account of her condition, resumed work yesterday.

Engineer Howard Mansfield, of the Nickel Plate, is at Cleveland to attend the funeral of his brother, Robert Mansfield, whose sudden death pending an attack of appendicitis was mentioned in the Sentinel yesterday.

M. Lynch, a gas holder erector, has completed the installation of a 50,000 cubic foot holder for the Muskegon Light and Traction company at Muskegon, and has returned home to receive other assignment.

Blacksmith Frank H. Gaylord, of the Pennsylvania shops, Mrs. Gaylord and their three sons drove to Leo this afternoon to spend Sunday with Mrs. Gaylord's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Schlatter.

Yard Clerk Bernard Roney, of the Wabash, made a hurry-up trip, yesterday. En route back the machine

"died" and not being able to revive it, Mr. Roney pushed it for two miles.

Machinist Gus Meyers is on a hunting expedition and Machinists John Goehring and M. J. Gorman are taking a lay-off to attend to some private business. All are employed in the Pennsylvania vice shops.

A movement looking towards increasing a moving picture show at the Wayne Knitting mills to entertain the employees who take their lunch during the noon hour. The matter is not fully decided, but it has strong supporters.

Thomas Pritchard, one of the veterans at the Bass foundry, resumed work there this morning, after several weeks of absence. He had been visiting his son in San Francisco and incidentally attending the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Ed J. Chavanne, a Nickel Plate engineer, who was temporarily firing on a passenger train with Engineer M. J. Maroney, has been advanced to running on freight and George Swartz has taken the place in the cab with Engineer Maroney.

R. J. Perry is a new man in the store room at the Western Gas works and the following are new employees in the boiler department: Boilermaker Joseph Carlo and Helpers Merritt-Pettit, Joseph McGary, Oscar Berichich, C. Koster, William Bingham, Luke Cook, Elmer Krueger and Alfred Huth.

Passenger Engineer Peter Reilly, of the Pennsylvania, is off duty on account of sickness. Mr. Reilly is getting very near the retirement point of his railway career. He has worked many years for the Pennsylvania road, beginning as a fireman when coal was the only fuel on the road. When he became an engineer, injectors had not been invented and water was forced into the boiler only while the engine was in motion. One of the first trips as an engineer made by Mr. Reilly was during the prevalence of a terrible snow storm and his train became stalled. After awhile water became low in the boiler and it was necessary to cut loose from the cars and start down the track to "pump up". The snow was several feet deep and Mr. Reilly had gone but a short distance, when his engine stalled and to his dismay, he was unable to move it either backwards or forwards and had to wait until the crew could shovel some of the snow off the tracks before he could get back to the train. The present day engineers and firemen are spared such unpleasant incidents, though they some time have their trains snowbound.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire in this manner to thank our friends, neighbors, and relatives for their kindness and sympathy and beautiful floral offerings during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father.

MRS. JAMES ZEHENDER AND FAMILY.

"died" and not being able to revive it, Mr. Roney pushed it for two miles.

Machinist Gus Meyers is on a hunting expedition and Machinists John Goehring and M. J. Gorman are taking a lay-off to attend to some private business. All are employed in the Pennsylvania vice shops.

A movement looking towards increasing a moving picture show at the Wayne Knitting mills to entertain the employees who take their lunch during the noon hour. The matter is not fully decided, but it has strong supporters.

Thomas Pritchard, one of the veterans at the Bass foundry, resumed work there this morning, after several weeks of absence. He had been visiting his son in San Francisco and incidentally attending the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Ed J. Chavanne, a Nickel Plate engineer, who was temporarily firing on a passenger train with Engineer M. J. Maroney, has been advanced to running on freight and George Swartz has taken the place in the cab with Engineer Maroney.

R. J. Perry is a new man in the store room at the Western Gas works and the following are new employees in the boiler department: Boilermaker Joseph Carlo and Helpers Merritt-Pettit, Joseph McGary, Oscar Berichich, C. Koster, William Bingham, Luke Cook, Elmer Krueger and Alfred Huth.

Passenger Engineer Peter Reilly, of the Pennsylvania, is off duty on account of sickness. Mr. Reilly is getting very near the retirement point of his railway career. He has worked many years for the Pennsylvania road, beginning as a fireman when coal was the only fuel on the road. When he became an engineer, injectors had not been invented and water was forced into the boiler only while the engine was in motion. One of the first trips as an engineer made by Mr. Reilly was during the prevalence of a terrible snow storm and his train became stalled. After awhile water became low in the boiler and it was necessary to cut loose from the cars and start down the track to "pump up". The snow was several feet deep and Mr. Reilly had gone but a short distance, when his engine stalled and to his dismay, he was unable to move it either backwards or forwards and had to wait until the crew could shovel some of the snow off the tracks before he could get back to the train. The present day engineers and firemen are spared such unpleasant incidents, though they some time have their trains snowbound.

M. Lynch, a gas holder erector, has completed the installation of a 50,000 cubic foot holder for the Muskegon Light and Traction company at Muskegon, and has returned home to receive other assignment.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

LYMAN HOWE'S PICTURES
ONCE MORE THIS EVENING.

The most beautiful of universal positions will be portrayed by Lyman H. Howe, at the Majestic again this evening. Just whether this means the exposition at San Francisco, or the one at San Diego, is a decision that rests with every spectator of Howe's Travel Festival, since the wonderful charm of each is set forth in all its glory in Howe's films, and so it becomes a matter of personal opinion after both are viewed through the lenses of Howe's cameras. But there is this much to be said—each is entirely different from the other in both general plan and in architecture, as well as in every essential detail. There is only one thing that both expositions have in common and that is that they are both celebrations of the same epoch-making event—the completion of the Panama Canal. But there the similarity ends. Not so with Howe's films, because they show also the event itself—the operation of the great waterway through the isthmus, as shown in the progress of a great modern steamship proceeding through the series of locks and lakes that constitute the canal. If the completion of the Panama Canal has been a task of stupendous magnitude triumphantly accomplished, so, too, have been the celebrations both at San Francisco and San Diego. The first impression imparted by Howe's films of the San Francisco exposition is apt to be one of bewilderment at the Aladdin-like city of palaces reared here. These wonderful colonnades and domes and towers embowered by tropical foliage of exquisite loveliness amaze the vision. The San Diego exposition has a haunting beauty all its own—a beauty that is beyond expression, yet it is entirely different from that at the Golden Gate. Here, too, one is apt to wonder what superhuman agency wrought such a fairyland. The vistas of the splendid buildings, with their sculptured decorations and shady cloisters seem like a transplanted gem of old world cities.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"THE ROSARY."

Great Moral Play to Be Presented By Temple Players.

"The Rosary," undoubtedly the greatest dramatic success of the past few years, and the play that has thrilled more audiences than any other production, is to be the next attraction at the Temple. The play will run all of the coming week.

The story of "The Rosary" is that of Bruce Wilson, who has amassed a fortune and lavishes it on his wife. Their happiness is complete until discord creeps into the home and the two begin to drift apart. No one but Father Kelly, a good old priest, and Bruce's former tutor, sees the conditions, and the priest labors to prevent the breaking apart of the family. He succeeds in bringing them together again. With the faith that moves mountains and the belief that all things are good, the priest sets to work and, removing the cause of the discontent, brings his children together again.

"The Rosary" has had the endorsement of the clergy. Protestant and Catholic, and the lay theater-goers have enthusiastically pronounced it the most soul stirring production on the stage. There is enough comedy to relieve the more serious situations, but the audience never for a moment loses sight of the great lesson as imparted by the good Father Kelly. Blosser Jenkins in the role of the parish priest, has a part into which he can throw every bit of his ability. The role has awakened his interest as no other role has, and has given him an opportunity to show a phase of his ability never shown here.

Tonight sees the close of "Our New Minister," this week's Temple success. Pleased as she was with the role of the evil-doing bad boy and successfully as she played it, Miss Hamerick is quite willing to get back into dresses again and be her delightful self once more.

AT KEITH PALACE

"IN DREAMLAND."

Bob Matthews and Al Shayne Head Big Palace Bill.

"Doney Benny," a character who has won his way into more hearts than any character in vaudeville, is at the head of the new Palace bill, which opens Monday afternoon. Bob Matthews, who has made the character famous, will be here with his partner, Al Shayne, clever portrayer of fibrew characters, and they have with them as pretty a company of girls as has been seen here for some time. Their playlet opens with the dope fiend and the fibrew merchant on a bench in New York, the fibrew listening with amazement to the stories of the effects of the drug. He is prevailed upon to try some, and when he does so he is transported into the center of an ancient Egyptian tomb, where the mummies of Egyptian dancing girls are seen swathed in their grave clothes. The princess slowly unwinds the cloths from herself and the other mummies, and the girls then do one of the prettiest oriental dances, not the vulgar burlesque kind, but one full of beauty and grace, that a Fort Wayne public has yet seen. The third scene shows the dope fiend and the fibrew merchant over the effects of the drug, and the act ends with a brisk song that captivates the audience and makes them want more.

Ethel Hopkins, daughter of J. D. Hopkins, one of vaudeville's pioneers, will be here with a delightful singing novelty, "Sweetie to the Sweet." Her act is a description of them. He—hunch of natural masculine qualities done up in 135 pounds, 5 feet and 6 inches. Youthfulness, enthusiasm and ambition protruding from all corners. She—bit of femininity, a dash of daintiness, a dot of impertinence, with an abundance of personality, packed in 94 pounds and five feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips, offering "Sweetie to the Sweet," have something new. Their act is best described by a description of them. He—hunch of natural masculine qualities done up in 135 pounds, 5 feet and 6 inches. Youthfulness, enthusiasm and ambition protruding from all corners. She—bit of femininity, a dash of daintiness, a dot of impertinence, with an abundance of personality, packed in 94 pounds and five feet.

A comical dialogue bristling with laughter, is that to be offered by La France & Bruce. These blackface comedians are coming with a trunkful of new ideas which they call "The Argument," and the audience gets a lot of fun out of the troubles of the two black men.

William Ferry, "The Frog," is coming in all of his slithering shyness. He squirms, slithes, wriggles and serpantly wriggles himself through his act and convinces the audience that there is not a bone in his body that is not made of rubber or spaghetti. Other acts are those of Patricola & Meyers, and Paul La Varr & Bro.

The current bill, headed by Jovial Tom Lewis and his company of rapid fire funmakers, and with a string of other good numbers on the bill, continues to pack 'em into the Palace.

AT THE EMPRESS.

NEW POLICY NEXT WEEK.

Empress Abandons Burlesque Field for More Attractive Line.

Tonight will be your last chance to see Fads and Follies and incidentally burlesques at the Empress, for this popular little playhouse will undergo a complete change and any burlesque atmosphere that might have hid itself in a corner will be swept out. Starting next week a brand new policy will be introduced, which will be high class and refined musical comedy in tabloid form catering to ladies and children as well as gentlemen. There will be three shows daily at 2:30, 7:45 and 9:00 p. m. and the prices will be within reach of all, being 10, 20 and 30 cents in the evening and a thousand seats for 10 cents and a few at 20 cents at the matinees. The shows will all be refined, the comedy clean and wholesome and fit for any lady or child to see.

The first attraction to appear under the new policy will be "The Battle of Pickle Hill." This is a roaring comedy with lots of new music and good singers. Also several funny comedians to make you laugh till you cry. The "Battle of Pickle Hill" has been breaking all sorts of records wherever it has appeared and is reported as being one of the best musical shows on the road today. It carries a car load of special scenery and lighting effects, beautiful new costumes and everything that is necessary to make a good show. The cast will be one of exceptional merits, having several among it that have starred in musical attractions of much fame. George Bartlett and See A. Fife are the principle comedians and are two very capable men for the jobs, they are both experienced men in this line and have appeared in Fort Wayne several times with large productions. The remainder of the cast, Tom Duffy, Eddie Aiken, Billy Bowers, Edna Raymond and Irene Edwards are well known to musical comedy and are of exceptional talent. With all this "The Battle of Pickle Hill" should be a sure winner. The future attractions will all be of the same standard and there are some very good ones on the books to appear later. If you miss the big opening you are missing something wonderful. You can sit in the front and be neutral and see one of the funniest wars you could imagine. Go to the Empress, take the wife and kiddies and have a good time.

Every Day to Be Ladies' Day. Every day will be ladies' day at the Empress hereafter and there will be matinees daily with 1,000 comfortable seats at 10 cents and a few reserved at 20 cents. Ladies and children are especially invited to attend and have a good time, and see a good show with plenty of wholesome comedy given out by expert comedians, brand new songs and pretty costumes. Beautiful scenery will always be seen and a good show is always assured. The evening prices will be very low, giving everyone an opportunity to see these wonderful productions. You can not afford to stay away from the Empress when you can see a two dollar attraction for 10, 20 and 30 cents.

FORMER PURDUE MEN ATTEND HOMECOMING

Fifty former Purdue students left Saturday morning at 6:30 o'clock in a special car over the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company's line for Lafayette to attend the Wisconsin-Purdue football game and the annual homecoming celebration. The trip was made in three hours and thirteen minutes. A large number also went by way of the Vabash railroad, nine leaving on the early morning train and more on the train leaving at 11:20 o'clock.

A special meeting of the Woman's Loyal Moose circle will be held Sunday afternoon, when eleven candidates will be initiated.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Jefferson Has Great Show Today. Special engagement of Clara Williams and Howard Hickman at the Jefferson today only in the Mutual matinee. The Man From Oregon, depicting the redemption of a beautiful but designing woman lobbyist in the employ of a wealthy land company, through her moral awakening and the transforming power of a mother's love. A wonderful tale of love, politics and conspiracy tingling with tense moments of suspense and hair-raising situations of excitement, magnificently staged and acted by a company of screen stars, including that former matinee idol of the western coast, Herby Mayall. An actual reproduction of the United States senate in full executive session is only one of the many big vital scenes which, with the hall as the executive mansion, form two of the most stupendous settings yet seen in a photoplay. This magnificent live part feature with Neal, of the Navy, and a Pathe comedy, forms one of the best Jefferson bills for many Saturdays.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE UNDERWORLD

By ONE WHO HAS LEFT IT

In the underworld there is an active, industrious and capable class of thieves whose operations are remarkably profitable, but of whom the general public seldom or never hears, although they are quite numerous. Even in the underworld itself comparatively little is known of the extent of this remunerative graft, because the masters of it are careful to protect themselves, as far as possible, against imitation.

The victims are in most cases reputable business and family men, either from out of town or away from their own neighborhoods, who much prefer to conceal their losses rather than enter the limelight of newspaper publicity sure to follow complaint to the police. Indeed, more often than not any complaint seems folly, because they seldom know just how or by whom they were "trimmed."

VICTIM'S LIPS SEALED.

There is another reason—more or less powerful as an influence in the grafters' favor—the victim, if a "ripe sucker," is at a loss to paint his own conduct with the harmonious color-tone that the artistic nature of his wife demands in all the word-pictures he may depict for her of his actions.

These thieves are called "lush grafters" and "sharks." As a rule, two work together, but the cleverest of them play lone hands. They are expert "tools" (pickpockets who do the actual stealing, as distinguished from "stalls," who merely divert the victim's attention while the "tooling" is done), whose appearance, dress, personality, conversational powers, tend to stamp them as honest, substantial gentlemen.

Some years ago I was working for a "fence" (receiver of stolen goods). He and I were sitting in the "shop" together and a big man of about 40 years walked in. At first I took him to be a "dick" (detective), one of the many who came in there on private business which had to do with their well-known (in the underworld) money hunger. My well-dressed stranger was a regular thief who carried no police badge. The fence bought three gold watches from him of considerable value and he went out.

"Did you take notice of that shark?" asked the boss.

"Yes," I replied. "Who is he?"

"No," said I. "How did he kill them?"

"With knockout drops—before he finally got wise how to use the stuff right."

A few days later I was "shooting traps" in a gambling house and this same shark "gave me the office to quit, but I paid no attention to his signal—I was a loser and was bent on getting even—then he came over to my side and whispered in my ear: 'Say, you are working for B, ain't you?'"

"Yes," I nodded.

"Well, he is friend of mine—you are in bad here. Quit, the dice are crooked."

Thus was started a friendship between one of the most interesting characters in the criminal world and myself. This friendship has stood the test of time over many years.

"Big Hiram," we will call him, with his bonny smile, ready wit and sympathetic blue eyes that truly bespoke absolute fearlessness, could win the confidence of a sucker were he old or young, quick-witted or stupid. They all fell for Big Hiram's winning ways, and to tell the truth he was dependable and trustworthy in everything but money matters. Hiram could be depended upon to "clean a mark" of all his valuables without a "blow" (detection), but when it came to splitting up—well, he preferred to settle with his partner, when possible, by transposing the cipher in .50 per cent to .05 per cent—we all have our little weaknesses.

PIRATES OFF FOR CRUISE.

I will take you with Hiram and I (Hiram now works without the knock-out drops) as the silent observer of an evening's work, but you must be careful to pay strict attention to us only and close your eyes to others engaged in the same graft. It would not do to observe too closely every one you meet, for among them you might see an occasional front office dick and hear him ask: "Any suckers stirring tonight, boys? Don't forget papa." And in that event your taxpayer's heart might skip a few beats.

I met Hiram by appointment. "Hello, Hiram, I see you are on time. It's 3 o'clock—let's go."

"All right, Senator."

We strolled down C—street and Hiram, the tool, stands outside while I, the stall, with keen powers of deduction and appraisal, enter a cafe and buy a cigar. Standing drinking at the bar are three friends in fine fettle. From their talk I gather that one is an "out of townner." They look like "solid" men—the visiting one is sporting a "beautiful front" (gold watch and chain)—all three have several drinks and are feeling up to snuff. The prospect is good, so out I go to Hiram. "Come in in two minutes. The mark is from Sioux City, all dressed up in a gray suit with green tie to match." Re-entering, I stand at one end of the bar and order a drink. Presently in comes Hiram, evidently in a hurry. He takes a smiling position at the other end of the bar—the suckers between us.

Among the duties of a bartender one of the most sacred is to meet small with smiles before he asks "What will it be?" and this is a bartender. Watch Hiram lean over the end of the bar and chuckle into the wondering worthy's ear: "Give me the best little old drink in the house, chief—my wife just gave birth to twins—got the news over the phone this minute."

HIRAM RADIATES FRIENDLINESS.

"Is that so?" grins the drink dispenser with genuine answering chuckle.

"You bet, and I'm going to buy the house a drink on the strength of it—see what the gentlemen will have," says the radiant Hiram, beaming on the house with contagious good fellowship in which no trace of guile or presumption suggests itself.

The bartender, already under his spell, is a willing go-between to effect the formalities of a toast from all to the health of the newborn twins at the expense of their fond father.

Hiram is in a hurry to go and see his offspring and buys another drink quickly before shaking hands all around. I wait until Mr. Sioux

City has his turn to congratulate and at the psychological moment but in and cover Hiram while the front is lifted with the shadble dexterity of long practice. If Sioux City has a "leather" (wallet) and conditions are favorable it, too, "comes away."

Hiram beaming beams of happiness, waves a fatherly-of-twins farewell from the front door and I scudately follow after to the appointed meet. This slipping-up conference over, we again stroll along, but with much more confidence and gusto—for we have "broken the ice" with raw work and are now prepared to enter the higher paths of our operations, where we mingle with our clients and pay small attention to fronts unless they are unusually valuable.

SIZING UP PROSPECTS.

Perhaps several cafe and hotel bars are visited before we see a good prospect in "Billy." Billy is a middle-aged business man. In his office he is held in awe as J. William Worthington, but the hotel bartender calls him Billy at 10 tonight because he has just dropped in to have his favorite bartender mix him a night-cap, after having doffed his pyjamas at the lodge meeting over which he may have presided with rare dignity, although Hiram expressively describes him as a "Poppa Guy." He is wearing a sparkling diamond on his well-shaped and cared-for hand, and his eyes are twinkling merrily with thoughts—perhaps—of the christening of his twins. (Hiram is now in town from St. Paul, studying the well-known "double standard" and I am selling him an automobile.)

Billy gets an earful of all this quickly, and Hiram in short order is asking Billy if he knows the Exalted Past Master of Hocus Pocus Lodge and his exalted family—cousins of Hiram's on the twins' side. Sweeping all formality aside, we become a party of three and as the minutes pass we drink rapidly. St. Paul (Hiram) cautions Billy about his drinking whisky in such a way that the Poppa Guy increases his doses to show his mettle.

At 10:30 I make the delightful proposition that we three go to a certain flat where live three bachelor girls who play the typewriter in my firm's offices. "But, now, St. Paul, don't go to spoiling these chickens if we go. Don't send out for champagne for them. Take that diamond off your finger and act like a poor man for once in your life. Be liked for yourself for a change. And you, Billy, take that pigeon-blood ruby off your finger and that jeweled chain off your chain—tie them up in your handkerchief and put them in your pocket so, wealth out of sight. And, Paul, give Billy some money and let him do the honors; he is more lady-like than you."

HIDDEN JOKE IN FUNNY STORY.

At this Billy pulls out his little wallet with neatly folded yellow bills in it and protests: "What do you boys think I am? A tramp?"

"All right, then, let's go before the girls get in the hay."

The street car's arrival finds Hiram in the middle of a screamingly funny story about a fat girl who grabbed hold of him "like this" (illustrating on Billy's willing person). Billy is helped up to the car platform still laughing at the story. The car starts and Hiram and I wave joyous farewells to our slightly fuddled, wholly mystified friend—turn away, walk to the corner and are on our happy way.

When Billy got on the car his handkerchief with the ruby and jeweled watch chain tied in it, and his wallet with its yellow contents were safely in Hiram's possession. All Hiram is worried about now is how he can "weed out" some of those yellow bills before we get a chance to count them over together.

In the leather we find business cards and private papers, which without delay we enclose in a stamped envelope addressed to J. William Worthington, editor of the Daily Burst, and the next day that journal of uplift appears with a long and instructive editorial on "The Curse of Drink."

It is now 11 o'clock and our aimless steps lead us into the arms of a couple of front office dicks, who greet us with the hearty welcome of old friends.

SQUARING "THE BOYS."

"Hello, Hi. How are your children? We just heard you had twins tonight over in the Fashion Cafe."

"Did the sucker put up a holler?" we ask.

"Yes, but he don't know you got his darby—not yet. We have his address, boys, and he is hot after that watch."

"I tell you what we will do," says Hiram. "You Sherlock Holmes

The Psychology of Misers

Dr. Burr of University of Pennsylvania Gives Results of Interesting Study of Their Peculiarities

One of the characteristics of misers is the lack of the social sense, the self-centeredness, the absence of the need of companionship. It is true that not a few of them have been married, but in all instances the wife seems to have been taken simply because she was cheaper than a servant or because her money was desired. It is rather remarkable, therefore, that there is alleged to have existed in London at one time a misers' club called the Split Farthing Club.

Neither intellect nor education prevents the development of the miserly instinct. The thinker and the man of science alike fall victims. No veneering of acquired characteristics can prevent the real man showing through.

When we try to learn the true psychology of the miser we find there is but little data; authors are so interested in the melodramatic and the eccentric, in the queer and the squally picturesque events of the lives, that they pay attention to nothing else.

Mental ability does not protect against miserliness, for there have been many men of mental power far above the average who have suddenly lost interest in intellectual pursuits, without any other evidence of insanity, and have lived the lives of misers. So scanty is our data, therefore, that to draw conclusions about these people we must often, and sometimes doubtless erroneously, draw inferences from trifling incidents.

guys take the watch—get expense money from the mark to go after it—get a reward for its return—or both. We will keep the slang (chain) and give you a 'sawbuck' ($10), or you can do what you like with the slang and we are square. The Senator and I have a date with another John Henry. So long."

EVERY CALLING HAS ITS PHRASEOLOGY.

In today's article Mr. Peters, former crook, who turned to "the square game" after "doing a stretch at Sing Sing," tells of "lush grafters" or "sharks," who, aided by "stalls," pit their personalities against those of "ripe suckers," carrying a "good front," "tooling" them of their "darby" and "slang" or "cleaning the mark." They "weed out" as many "sawbucks" as possible before the "show down" in their friends, the "dicks." The "ripe sucker" is given "an easy trimming" by the "dicks" before he recovers the lost "sparklers" or "darby."

under the hardest conditions of life. It does prove that congenital ability to resist stress has more to do with long life, not with the mere saving for a few years of useless lives, than any external circumstance. Surely few men leading the most hygienic and sheltered lives, and the terms have unfortunately become in the minds of many people synonymous, live as long as many misers who expose themselves to so many of the evils that we are taught always kill.

Social standing has no bearing on the causation of miserliness, since its victims are found in all ranks of society. Children of rich and poor, learned and unlearned, of good and bad, all alike may come to the same end, and disbelievers in heredity may use this as an argument, but they should remember that externals play little part in heredity. Need of money seems rarely, if ever, to be an exciting cause in starting from necessity what later becomes a fixed habit.

That the condition is pathological goes without saying, but it is not an insanity in the technical, restricted meaning of the word.

I have tried to learn—because I believe that all constitutional disease stamps the external anatomy with its individual hall mark, only our eyes are not sharp enough often to see it—whether there is a characteristic physiognomy in misers, but without success.

The only conclusion that one can draw is that misers, like most abnormal people, do have casts of countenance which are unlike the ordinary types of faces. Many of them have the same look of furtive intensity that is common in the paranoiac, the religious maniac, and in many other dwellers in the borderland of insanity. They are almost all thin, but often wiry. They are long faced, and may have high or sloping foreheads. Their noses are frequently long, and seldom broad at the opening of the nostrils.

In one minor mental characteristic they often resemble a certain type of chronic maniac in possessing a cutting, sarcastic and cruel sense of wit. Doubtless many of the witty sayings attributed to them are apocryphal, but many are true, and even the false ones show that unconsciously the public has learned to associate a certain form of wit with miserly characteristics.

EDDYTORIAL ON CHARITY.

Being as we can't think of nothing better to write a editorial about for this issue of the Bugle, we will therefore write on the subject of "Charity," which is a good 'deal better than writing nothing at all.
We will probably not be much disputed when we say that there is a large number of residents of Bingville who don't know what the word charity means, and probably never will—they wouldn't know what it meant if they was to look it up in the dictionary, which is impossible, beins as there ain't probably more than two dictionaries in Bingville, one at the school house and tother at the Bugle office, to which we refer repeatedly and often in order to ascertain how certain words is spelled and the meaning of same.
Charity consists of being charitable. Them as has charity are always long suffering with their neighbors and are always ready to overlook faults in others and willing to suffer being imposed upon without losing their tempers, rolling up their sleeves and wanting to be "charitable."

It is said "charity begins at home," but charity in Bingville don't begin at home by a doggoned sight. It would be a good deal better if it did. It would be a good deal better if folks here in Bingville would stop considering the motives in their nabor's eyes and pay a little attention to the katterpillars in their own eyes. It would be a good deal better if they didn't talk about each other behind each other's backs and always try to rit the best of each other, whether it is in a horse dicker or anything else.
While charity is a good thing, enough charity is sufficient and too much is a-plenty. It is possible for a person to have too much charity—look at us as editor of the Bingville Bugle, for instants!
Now we have got so much charity for people that we keep on sending them the Bugle year after year and they never give us a red cent in return for it, and probably never will. Perhaps we will git our reward in heaven, but if we could get a porshion of it here and now, it would enable us to pay off some of our obligashions, and probably enable us to buy a square meal with what would be left over.

If you subscribers, who are ten years or more in arrears, thinks that you can rub it in on charity much longer, you are mistaken, and if you don't pay something on your back subscriptions the law must take its course. Beware!

Lokels

Amzi Gookins had some sale bills printed at the Bugle office last week advertising an oxshion which Amzi will hold next Wednesday. Why don't more people have oxshions and have us print their sale bills for them. Job work done while you wait—if you wait long enough.
Pete Hoskins walked 5 miles with his old muzzle loader shot gun over to Gootchie pond last Saturday to shoot a bunch of partridges which he had lokated over there the week before, and after he arrow there he discovered he had went and left his powder to home, so Pete walked back to Bingville in terrible disgust, and he says now he wont try to shoot them partridges agin if they live to be a hundred years old.
Si Osgood of Hardscrabble was a welcome visitor to this office this week, and thrice welcome because he paid us $2 on his back subscription. Thank you Siilas. Call agin often especially if you have a little ready money ahead.
Elisha Wiggins, of Calamity Corners was in Bingville last week looking for a steer to match up with a speckled and spotted steer he had so as to make a yoke of oxes outen the both of them, but Lish failed to find a match. Speckled and spotted steers aint very numerous around here.

Eggs is terrible skeers in Bingville at present beins as our hens has kind of let up on layin since it got cooler. As a result eggs have went up to the rediculous price of 20 cts per dor.
Eph Simpson painted his buggy last week and thinned the paint with what he thort was varnish but which later proved to be molasses, and the paint aint dried yet, and Eph calkulates that before it does get dry the flies will have it eat all off.
It wont be long before Injun summer will be here. Some people likes to see Injun summer come, but as for us it is the most melankoly part of the year.

Personals

Nice weather after the rain.
Hex Andrews predicts that we will have two more big rain storms within a short time. Hex says when there is one big rain there is always two more follers it. If there was a Bingville vigilance committee, it's duty would be to call on Hex fer permulgatin such theories.
Dad Henderson went squirl huntin recent and shot a hen hawk. Dad most generally always as a rule shoots something when he goes huntin, whether it is what he was huntin after or not.
Bale Hawkins says that his hay crop this year wasn't hardly worth cutting, owing to the drought. Bale expects to have to buy hay for his stock this winter as usual.

Samantha Still Sick

Samantha Deewers is on the sick list as usual this week. Tother day as we happened to be a going past her residence she knocht on the winder and beckond us to come as she wished to speak to us and we done so only to find Samantha settin up close to the fire all bundled up in shawls and blanket and shivering like everybody else as if she was freezin to death.
Samantha tuk us to book for not mentioning the fact in the Bugle last week that she was on the sick list and not only that but on a sick list than usual. We apologised to Samantha who was nury mad about it and told her that if we did mention her being on the sick list last wk it was a overste being as we aim to state this fact about Samantha in every issue of the Boogie the yr round and have did so with but very few exceptions for the past several yrs.
Then Samantha seemd to cool down a little mite and said for us to see to it that not mentioning that she was on the sick list every wk hereafter diddnt occur agin.
Samantha states that the reason she is on a sick list than usual this week is becuz last Saturday night her sister with who she lives with come to her bedroom to ask her a question after she had went to bed for the night and left the door open moren a minnit and that the draft of coolish air which come into the room from the outside is what give her a fresh cold. Samantha sleeps under two or three sets of blankets and allus has her bedroom doors lockt tite and the winders all shut titeren a bung.
Samantha says that with this fresh cold which she has ketches she persons that she will remain faithfully on the sick list all this coming winter and that she wont stick her nose outen doors until about next May 1916. We dont know of no person in Bingville who enjoys being in poor health as much as Samantha does and hereafter we will endeavor to state she is on the sick list each wk as reglar as clockwork.

Hi Ort to Lorn to Read

Hi Cranby one of our most prominent citizens and also one of our most ignorant ones received a letter tother day in the mail from the co seat.
Hi was a good cal surpised when Eph Higgins our accomodating P. M. handed him the letter and Hi turned it over and lookt at it and then lookt at the address right side up and upside down and askt Hen if the letter was shurely for him.
Eph said it was and then Hi who cant read or even spel cat for that matter askt Eph if he would be so accomodatin as to open the letter and read him the contents there was in it if enny.
Eph said he would and so he opened the letter and read it over himself first and when he done so he begin to laff like everthink. Hi askt him what he was laffing at and soon as Eph could sit straightend up he read Hi the letter which was nothink moren a bill from a ficker dealer at the co seat from who it seems Hi purchased 3 gals of rum moren five yrs ago and aint never paid for yet.
When Hi found out what was in the letter he snatched it outen Ephs hands and chuk his fists under Ephs nose and told him if he ever ketch him readin his own personal and private mail matter agin he would report him to the P. O. authorities at Warshington! Then Hi clumt off home maddern a wet hen.

Jabez Wouldn't Sign

Two weeks ago there was a registered letter came to the Bingville postoffice for Jabez Simpson, and when he called for his mail Eph Higgins, our accomodating postmaster, told Jabe that he would haft to sign for the letter before he could get it.
Jabe refused to sign, he said that ever since he had signed his name as security for a note four years ago and had to pay for the full amount of the note his self, he had took a oath that he would never again put his name down on a piece of paper, and he'd be doggoned if he would do it this time.
Eph told him that it was government rules to sign for a registered letter and less he signed, he couldn't have the letter.
Jabe then told Eph that 'less he give him the letter right off, he'd give him one of the doggondest drubbings he had ever had.
Eph told Jabe if he laid so much as a finger on him he would have him persecuted to the full extent of the law for assault and battery on a servant of the government, which Jabez sheered some, and he went away without his letter. Eph says Jabez can't have that letter 'less he signs for it if it has to lay in the Bingville postoffice until it rots.

Additional Personals

Zeke Watkins had a cow to break her leg in a stone fence last week. Ahe said he calkulates he'll have to shoot her and sell her out for beef to the nabor.
Miss Phoebe Hildbrand, our fashionable dressmaker is so drove up with work at present that she can't promise any new work inside of four weeks. How's this for dressmaking?
Winter Is Approaching
We desire to state very briefly that winter is approaching almost afore we are aware of it, but there aint no doubt we will be aware of it after it gits here and the thermometer drops down to 15 or 20 degrees below zero.

We would suggest that unless some of our dead beet subscribers desires to have us make a assignment before winter arrives that they drop into the Bugle office and pay us something on their back subscriptions. At the present writing our assets is away below our liabilities and unless we git some money soon we persoom we will haft to close up shop for lack of funds.

Are You a Nut—?

lover? In that case this advertisement will interest you. Lissen: I have for the past 2 or 3 wks been gathering and storing away in my barn a whole mess of different kinds of nuts for human consumption this winter by them as desires nuts. These nuts includs walnuts, hickery nuts, beech nuts, chest nuts & other kinds of nuts too numerous to mentshion.
What is niser during the long winter evns. than to set down before the fire before you go to bed and crack a lot of nuts and etc same? Answer—nothing is niser. They go good in connection with appels or they're turrible good alone. Not only that, but the colonels of nuts of various kinds is nice to make nut cake out of, also to put in taffy. An fact, nuts is good for menny things and they're awful nurrishing, too. You've herd the saying, "as swete as a nut," ain't you?
These nuts which I have gathered is all spread out on my barn floor drying and curing, as I mite say. I diddnt gather 'em to etc—I getherd 'em to sell. If you desire nuts give me a call and I will make the price right on same. Satisfackshion garranteed or money refunded. I don't charge enny moren these nuts is worth considern that I risked life & lim gettin some of em offen the trees. See me if you want nuts.
Yours for Nuts,
